About the College department, the report recommends its retention and affiliation in several new subjects, especially in English, Philosophy and History to the Honours standard and in Mathematics to the Pass standard. This will involve a considerable addition to the existing staff. Provision should also be made for advanced Sanskrit studies, for which the College should be affiliated to the M A standard. The University should give credit for the extra Sanskrit courses in the College by allowing its students to offer a subject less. There should be a hostel for mufassal students. It is also recommended—though not without strong dissentient opinions—that the Principal should be an orthodox Brahmin

Such are the chief proposals of this interesting report. No action has yet been taken by Government

5. Islamia College.—The Islamia College, for Moslem students only, started work in July 1926 Accommodation has been provided in the College building for 400 students and affiliation was obtained in I A and I Sc and B A in the following subjects --

I A English, Bengali, Urdu, Logic, Persian, History, Arabic, Civics, Mathematics, Commercial Geography, Commercial Arithmetic, Book-keeping

I Sc —English, Bengali, Urdu, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry

B A -English, Philosophy, Economics, Persian, Arabic, Mathematics, History—all Pass and Honours—as well as Vernacular

The College began with first and third year class students only and the total number in 1926-27 was 164

The teaching staff consists of a Principal, 9 Professors, 9 Lecturers and 2 Laboratory Assistants, the ministerial staff, of a Head clerk, a Librarian, a Cashier and Accountant, a Second clerk and a Third clerk and typist

The laboratories were equipped with a grant of Rs 24,000 and the library was given Rs 20,000 for a start, the annual library grant amounts to Rs 3,000 The books are ranged on steel shelves

In all the arts subjects, there is tutorial work The attached hostel is under the charge of a Superintendent and an Assistant and can accommodate 78 students

6 Rajshahi College.—It is not often that a Government college in Bengal is so fortunate as to retain the same Principal for a great number of years, the tenure of office of Rai Kumudini Kanta Banerji Bahadur provided a rare exception With the exception of 11 months, he was Principal of Rajshahi College from 1897 till he retired in December 1924, and it is one of the tragic ironies of fate that he died within a few weeks of his retirement To his long service the College owes not only its present high estate, but also many of its plans for the future

There has been no permanent increase in numbers In 1921-22, the students numbered 819 and in 1926-27, 828 But in the intervening years there was a very considerable rise, which reached its climax in 1924-25 with 966 students The chief cause of the subsequent fall was the raising of the Matriculation Examination standard, which has affected most colleges in Bengal

Nor was affiliation obtained during the period in any new subject, although affiliation in Honours Economics is expected next year The staff has thus remained more or less unchanged A History post was reduced from the Bengal Educational Service to the Subordinate Educational Service, and for the better organisation of tutorial work, Government have sanctioned the appointment of an additional lecturer in Mathematics, with effect from July 1927

But, if not much has been done during these five years to extend the scope of the teaching, this was not for want of schemes Two in particular deserve mention A comprehensive plan was submitted for the starting of M A classes in several arts subjects and in Chemistry and of Law classes, and considerable local support was promised But the support was far from equal to the expense that the scheme would have eventually involved and the plan dwindled down to an attempt to start a post-graduate course in History only as well as Preliminary and Intermediate Law classes It is one of the curiosities of the system of education in Bengal that a considerable number of post-graduate students was reckoned as hopeless at Rajshahi unless Law classes were also established at the same time Presumably, the M A classes were educationally desirable, but the Law classes were mainly a bribe Finally, some of the promised donations were diverted and nothing could be done.

The other large scheme was for the establishment of an Agricultural department of the College in accordance with the wishes expressed in the will of the late Kumar Basanta Kumar Ray of Dighapatiya Junior Raj, who had in 1920 made a donation to Government of Rs 2½ lakhs for the purpose Plans were formulated by the Principal, in consultation with the Professor of Agriculture in Calcutta University, and modified by the Executors of the Basanta Kumar Ray Trust and the Governing Body of the College The former have offered an additional lakh The whole scheme is now before Government, and the next period will probably see some fruitful developments

Much attention was given to the conditions under which students live, and between 1921-22 and 1923-24, extensive new hostel accommodation was provided by the erection of five new blocks for Hindu students and one for Moslem students at a cost of nearly Rs 4½ lakhs Each block houses 50 students and there are quarters for the Superintendents, kitchens, servants' quarters, common room and so forth In addition, the College has two old hostels and one attached mess and there are two other hostels in the town, one run by the Ramkrishna Mission Society and the other by the Presbyterian Mission, which provide accommodation for some more Altogether, in 1927, 391 students were in residence in the College hostels alone, about half the total number, a proportion that surpasses that which most other colleges in Bengal can show

The local Government Assistant Surgeon is in charge of the general medical supervision of the hostels, but the new hostels are in the special charge of a resident doctor, who is also the medical examiner of the College A dispensary is attached to the hostels

Besides hostels, some other material improvements have been made or are in prospect An additional room for Chemistry practical classes was constructed out of a College fund, and a scheme for a new building for arts classes at a cost of over Rs 85,000 was completed in 1925 As a result, the library has been housed in more spacious quarters, which provide also for a large reading room

The examination results were satisfactory —

1926.	Total	Passes	Percentage
B A	124	67	54
B Sc	112	81	72 3
I A	95	63	66 3
I Sc	189	151	80

A small experiment in devolution was made when in 1926 Government placed a consolidated grant of Rs 17,200 at the disposal of the Governing Body for the next three years, giving it the power to make reappropriations If the experiment proves successful, larger duties may be laid on the Governing Body

In general, the tone of the College was satisfactory The students rendered splendid service when cholera broke out in the town and are always ready to nurse the sick and join in other forms of social work But there was a serious outbreak of indiscipline in 1926, when the students "struck" for two days, but the agitation presently subsided and since then things have been quiet

7 Krishnagar College.—The history of Krishnagar College during the period was one of uneventful, but steady, progress The loss in numbers caused by the non-co-operation movement and mentioned in the last review has been to a great extent redressed The figures speak for themselves - -

Students —1918, 234, 1920, 281, 1922, 204, 1923, 181, 1925, 256, 1927, 235

The proximity of Krishnagar to Calcutta affects numbers adversely and so did the lack of proper hostel accommodation But a Hindu hostel for 65 students and Superintendent's quarters has recently been erected in the College compound and a scheme for the construction of a Muhammadan hostel has received administrative approval At present most of the 20 or so Muhammadan students in the College live in a rented house

No attempt was made to obtain affiliation in any new subject, but to meet the demand for science, additional accommodation was provided in the Chemistry Practical Laboratory, so that the number of places was increased from 15 to 30 in each of the B Sc classes But the enthusiasm for science soon waned all over Bengal and some of the places have remained vacant A new gas plant was also added

The small size of the College makes it possible to have a proper tutorial system Arrangements have been made to give an hour's tutorial work in each subject in all classes—but in the first year class, each group of not more than ten students is taken twice a week in English The College has excellent playing-fields and the students show much interest in games Drill is compulsory for first year students In the library the accommodation has become insufficient for both readers and books

The results have been very satisfactory:—

	Candidates	Passed	Percentage
I A	26	11	42 3
I Sc	45	35	77 7
B A	21	18	85 7
B Sc	20	14	70

During the period, 3 students secured first class Honours, and 1 stood first among the successful I A and I Sc candidates of his year

8 Chittagong College.—The Chittagong College has grown very rapidly, at any rate in numbers In 1917, there were 275 students, in 1922, 353, and in 1927, no fewer than 604 The growth was equally marked in the case of B A and B Sc as of I A and I Sc students There was great pressure for admission to the science classes, in particular For the first time women students were admitted and there are now 2 girls, 1 Hindu and 1 Muhammadan, in the College

Affiliation was obtained in History Honours, but the affiliation in Physics and Chemistry in the I A and B A courses was discontinued A lecturer was added in English in the Subordinate Educational Service and in Philosophy a professor in the Bengal Educational Service There is a strong demand for affiliation in Botany and Geology

The growth of the College has rendered the accommodation inadequate A scheme for a three-storied building, including more classes, science practical rooms, common room and reading room is before Government Additional accommodation is urgently necessary

During the quinquennium, a Moslem hostel for 60 boarders was constructed and is a great addition to the amenities of the College, which has about 200 Muhammadan students The Hindu hostel has only room for 42 boarders, which is insufficient A plan for a Buddhist students' hostel has been proposed, as well as for a house for the Principal Altogether 120 students were in the College hostels in 1927

Every student is required either to attend the gymnastic classes or to play out-door games Tutorial classes in English are held throughout the year and in other subjects from January to April The library appears to be smaller than those of other Government colleges There is no convenient reading room for students The College Union displayed much energy and life and the College magazine continued to flourish

The chief need of Chittagong College is the need for more spacious buildings The increase in numbers both requires and justifies expenditure for that purpose As the Calcutta University Commission Report pointed out, the College has possibilities, for it is the only College in "the remote Eastern region of Bengal, which is differentiated from the rest of the Presidency, not only by trade interests, but, to some extent, also by social and religious distinctions" There is a good case for careful and well-considered development

9 Hooghly College.—The Hooghly College has done useful work along the old lines The number of students rose from 234 in 1922 to 273 in 1927, of whom the Hindus numbered 241 and the Muhammadans 28 Affiliation was granted in three new subjects in the Honours course - English, History and Philosophy, it has been applied for in Honours Physics For Chemistry, a new gas plant has been erected The accommodation is insufficient, but, if and when the Madrasah is removed, the Arts and Physics classes will have more space The gymnasium has been improved with the assistance of a grant of Rs 500 given by His Excellency Lord Lytton on the occasion of his visit to the College in 1924 The College, however, has no playing-ground of its own, but has to share a maidan with other clubs The Principal started a platoon of the Calcutta University Training Corps in the College, which has flourished during the last three years Some valuable research work has been published by members of the College staff

The results of the University Examinations were as follows, in 1927 —

	Candidates.	Passed	Percentage
I A.	19	16	84 2
I Sc	57	36	63 1
B A	36	17	47 2
B Sc	16	14	87 5

10 Dacca University.—Dacca University has to its credit solid, if not showy, achievements The number of students in the Arts and

Science classes rose from 625 in 1921-22 to 710 in 1926-27 In addition, there were 442 Law students, 39 students in the Commerce classes, 79 students in the department of Education (reading in the Teachers' Training College), 136 students of the Medical school, who are taught Physics and Chemistry in the University and 15 Research students The total number receiving instruction was thus 1,415 as against 1,030 at the end of the last quinquennium Here, again, the popularity of science is unmistakable The B Sc and M Sc classes rose from 100 to 237 and from 30 to 51, respectively

The examination results were as follows —

	Candidates	Passed	Percentage of passes
July 1926
M A Final	68	56	82 3
M. Sc. Final	28	23	82 1
March 1927
M A Preliminary	60	35	58 3
M Sc Preliminary	28	19	67 8
B A Honours Final	39	21	53 8
B Sc Honours Final	37	15	40 5
February 1927
B A Honours Subsidiary	45	43	95 5
B Sc Honours Subsidiary	30	28	93 3
B A Ordinary	130	72	48 4 (a)
B Sc Ordinary	114	64	46 4 (b)

(a) Excluding 9 Honours candidates who obtained the ordinary degree
(b) Excluding 11 Honours candidates who obtained the ordinary degree

The library has been largely increased and contained nearly 46,000 carefully-selected volumes in 1927 A large number of periodicals were also available To the valuable Sanskrit and Bengali manuscript section of the library, reference is made in Chapter XIII

Considerable additions were made to the buildings, especially to the chemical laboratories A new science library was also provided A large underground sewerage scheme is in contemplation

The University intends to open departments of Botany and Bacteriology in the near future The institution of a one-year course leading to an examination for a diploma in Practical English has been sanctioned Valuable original work has been done by nearly every department

Dacca University was intended to be mainly residential and the proportion of resident students—it is gratifying to observe—has greatly increased, as the following figures show —

	1921 22	1926 27
Students in residence—
Dacca Hall	148	150
Jagannath Hall	101	211
Muslim Hall	87	208

Muslim Hall was enlarged by the addition of Ramna House in 1925-26 and of Burdwan House in 1926-27 The nucleus of the Hall is a section of the upper part of the central University building, but the need of a separate home has been recognised and funds have been sanctioned and plans made for its construction Special provision has been made for women in the shape of a house which can accommodate 12 students In 1922-23 a small hostel was set apart for Anglo-Indian students, but no advantage was taken of it The members of the different Halls conduct admirable social service leagues There seems to be no doubt that as an organisation for fostering corporate and social activities and creating real esprit-de-corps the Hall system of Dacca University has justified itself

In Chapter II the Dacca University Amendment Act of 1925 was mentioned. The stabilising of the finances of the University has contributed greatly to the security of this young and growing institution

Sir P. G Hartog, who, as Vice-Chancellor, had steered the University from its launching, retired at the end of 1925, having done not a little to bring the vessel into prosperous seas

11 Advisory Committee for higher education.—There are thus two Universities in Bengal, it seemed desirable to have some liaison between them It was with this object that a permanent Committee was created in 1924, consisting of 17 members, to advise Government and the Universities on questions connected with higher education The annual report for 1923-24 summarised its duties thus· " (1) to co-ordinate the work of the two Universities of Bengal, (2) to see that all unnecessary duplication in the work of the Universities is avoided, and (3) to ensure that all available resources are distributed between the two Universities in some equitable ratio " The Committee held several meetings in 1924 and 1925 and discussed two important questions—the conditions of the Dacca University provident fund and the standardising of Honours courses in the two Universities On the first point, it was finally decided that Dacca University should contribute 8⅓ per cent to the provident fund, on condition that the same rate was adopted for Calcutta University and that some attempt should be made to start a provident fund for colleges No decision was reached about the Honours courses At Calcutta, the course is of two years and at Dacca of three—but at Calcutta, students who obtain the Honours degree almost invariably proceed to the M A Although there are difficulties in the way, some agreement may eventually be reached

12 Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca.—In the colleges affiliated to Calcutta University, intermediate classes are included and the methods of teaching followed are the same as for the higher classes Dacca University, however, is limited by statute to education above the intermediate stage, and as the Dacca University area was withdrawn from the control of Calcutta University, the creation of a separate board to manage intermediate education became necessary Following the recommendation of the Sadler Report, intermediate education was regarded as a part of secondary education and the newly-created Board was entrusted with the charge of both In this Chapter, we are, however, mainly concerned with the activities of the Board in connexion with intermediate education

The Sadler Report, however, did not contemplate a separate Board for a small area like the Dacca University area—and the arrangement was regarded as purely provisional The Board was therefore, appointed for only a year and the majority of the members were nominated by Government The failure, however, of the authorities concerned to reach any agreement about the character and powers of a general provincial board led to the prolongation of the life of the Dacca Board year by year and it still survives

But it is clear that no certain conclusions about the validity of the recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission can be drawn from the experience of the Dacca Board For one thing it has only been in existence for six years, a period too short for the full fruition of the seed sown Then, its area is very limited, too small to allow it to go its own way or to ignore the influence of the Calcutta system of education all round it Its annual tenure has prevented it from planning any large constructive scheme, such as must necessarily take years to mature Nor were the financial resources at its disposal adequate to the needs of any thorough-going reform and reorganisation The one clear lesson is that the Board cannot go on as it has done—and the cry has been raised, "End or extend."

There has been abundant criticism, partly justified, but partly interested and partly misinformed It is not true that, under the Board, the standards of teaching and examination have sunk The annual report of the Board for 1926-27 conclusively disproves this charge with the help of statistics On the other hand, much has been done to improve the teaching and to carry out the recommendations of the Sadler Commission, as will be evident from the following extract from the quinquennial report of the Board —

" (1) It organised the intermediate classes of the colleges that were partly incorporated in the Dacca University, into intermediate colleges of one of the types suggested by the Commission and raised the Eden High School for Girls into an intermediate college of another of the types recommended. (2) It rearranged the intermediate courses so as to vary them, as suggested by the Commission (3) It opened two ' vocational ' courses at one of the intermediate colleges under its jurisdiction (4) It reduced the size of the classes so as to enable individual attention to be paid to the pupils (5) It completed the school courses by adding subjects which are now considered indispensable for that stage, namely, History (both of England and India), and Geography (6) For training in the practical use of English, it instituted an oral test in English and included in the general English course selected prose works of present-day English writers (7) It introduced Elementary Science as an optional subject for the High School Examination "

This is no mean achievement Nor does it represent all the work of the Board—for Government placed under it all the reformed madrasahs of the province Its labours in this connexion are summarised in a later Chapter

The number of intermediate colleges (not including the Islamic Intermediate Colleges) under the Board were 4, 3 for men and 1 for women The total number of pupils in the intermediate classes was 991, including 211 Muhammadans At the Intermediate Examination of 1927, 546 candidates appeared, of whom 230 were successful The total expenditure of the Board for 1926-27 was Rs 57,430 and the net cost to Government Rs 28,759

Of the 3 men's colleges, 1, the Imperial Salimullah College, was opened in 1925, but, as a result of the small number of students applying for admission and of the decrease in the grant given by Government, it is in a precarious financial condition, and, unless local support is forthcoming, it may be compelled to abandon its intermediate classes The Jagannath Intermediate College received from Government in 1926-27 a grant of Rs 48,072 and has 617 students Besides the ordinary Arts and Science courses, it maintains two vocational courses, in Dyeing and in Commerce The Dacca Intermediate College is managed by Government and has at last been properly housed in New Government House Botany has been introduced as an additional science subject The 2 hostels, 1 for Hindus and 1 for Muhammadans, have together 128 boarders The total number of students was 316 The expenditure in 1926-27 was Rs 1,34,469, of which Rs 1,05,122 came from provincial revenues The average annual cost per pupil was Rs 403 The College is now adequately equipped and staffed

CHAPTER IV.

Secondary Education: Indian Boys.

1 General statistics and comments.—The total number of secondary schools is as follows —

	High schools	Middle English	Middle vernacular	Total
1916 17	698	1,602	349	2,649
1921 22	878	1,468	217	2,563
1926 27	985	1,616	74	2,675

The number of pupils is shown below —

	High schools	Middle English	Middle vernacular	Total.
1916 17	218,070	160,359	21,253	399,682
1921 22	190,630	108,582	10,632	309,844
1926-27	233,343	142,684	4,802	380,829

These figures are interesting, although some of them are perplexing The general drift of the last five years is clear, secondary schools and pupils have increased considerably in number The ground lost during the previous quinquennium has been recovered, and at some points a little fresh ground won But there are cross-currents (to vary the metaphor) and a closer analysis of each type of school is necessary

(1) Middle Vernacular schools.—The figures for the middle vernacular schools allow only one interpretation The decline is continuous and even gathers momentum as it proceeds Thus, between 1917 and 1922, the middle vernacular schools decreased by 132 or 38 per cent , but between 1922 and 1927, they fell by 143 or 66 per cent Already in the fifth quinquennial report, Mr Hornell declared that their doom was sealed Of this there can now be no possible manner of doubt The middle vernacular school has ceased to meet any public demand and in a few years will vanish, at any rate in its present shape It is altogether unlikely that even the substitution of the vernacular as the medium of instruction in high schools will have any vivifying effect on this dying species.

(2) High schools.—More curious is the history of the high schools Between 1916-17 and 1921-22, their number rose by 180, although the pupils diminished by more than an eighth The increase in schools was the result and symptom of the growing desire for English secondary education and numbers would also have risen were it not for the non-co-operation movement, in fact, till 1919-20, numbers did rise Now that the movement has ceased to exert any appreciable influence on education, the number of schools and the number of pupils have both increased in proportion The last report diagnosed that "the apparently decreased popularity of the secondary school is a thing enforced by economic causes," and with the gradual return of material prosperity, this force again is now not so widely operative

(3) Middle English schools.—But the most curious figures are those of the Middle English schools Between 1917 and 1922, not only did the number of pupils diminish, but also the number of schools This was attributed in the last report to the transformation of many middle schools into high schools—but the question remains why other middle schools did not arise to take the vacant places In this quinquennium, we notice an unexpected revival, there is a distinct increase in middle English schools, which have passed the figures for 1916-17, but the number of pupils, while it has risen by more than a third, is still below the figure for 1916-17 It seems clear, however, that the middle English school will not become obsolete, like the vernacular school, as an organ of the educational system, it shows no signs of atrophy

(4) Miscellaneous statistics.—The general increase in the number of schools is shared by all parts of Bengal, the average per district is higher in every division The highest is Dacca, with 165 English secondary schools per district, the lowest Rajshahi, with 52

The increase in schools is almost wholly an increase of private schools The Government institutions, in 1921-22, numbered 46, in 1926-27, 45 The details are given in the table below —

	High schools			Middle English schools			Middle vernacular schools
	1921 22	1926 27	Increase or decrease	1921 22	1926 27	Increase or decrease	1921 22	1926 27	Increase or decrease
Government	40	41	+1	6	4	−2
Municipal and District Board	4	3	−1	50	46	−4	28	14	−14
Private	834	941	+107	1,412	1,566	+154	189	60	−129
Total	878	985	+107	1,468	1,616	+148	217	74	143

The average strength of each type of school is greater than before, although in two cases still less than in 1916-17 —

	High schools	Middle English	Middle vernacular
1916-17	312	100	61
1921 22	217	74	49
1926 27	237	88	65

In the last report, it was pointed out that a reduction of the average strength of schools may be a good thing where it is not accompanied by a proportionate reduction of the staff, for "the smaller the class, the greater the teachers' opportunity" But, on the other hand, it must not be forgotten that the great majority of schools depend mainly on fees for their income and cannot afford to pay their teachers adequately unless they have a fairly large number of pupils

When we look at the number of pupils in different stages of education, it is seen that the chief gain is in the middle stage, where the chief loss was suffered in the previous quinquennium The inference from these figures is that there is not a great deal of wastage during the course of secondary education.—

	1916 17	1921-22	1926 27
High	99,300	91,134	102,655
Middle	96,071	73,969	94,421

2 Control of secondary schools—(1) Government and the growth of the grant-in-aid system.—The supervision of, and control over,

secondary schools has become much more efficient during the quinquennium For one thing, while the number of private schools has increased, the number of aided schools has grown far more than in proportion The movement is not new, but it has accelerated enormously In 1921-22, 42 2 per cent of English secondary schools and 56 9 per cent of high schools were unaided, the figures for 1926-27 are, respectively, 34 4 and 47 5 In Chittagong Division, there were five years ago 38 aided high schools and 68 unaided, now there are 64 aided high schools and only 43 which do not receive aid At last the balance is on the right side

The grant of aid to a school means not only that its finances are placed on a more stable basis, it implies also that the school conforms to certain standards and is liable to periodical inspection

In the past, there was no clear policy to regulate the grant of aid, it was often given haphazard and, once given, was rarely withdrawn But, in 1925-26, when a recurring grant of Rs 3 lakhs was sanctioned for the improvement of the pay of teachers in non-Government secondary schools, the following principles were laid down for its distribution —

(1) Middle English schools were to receive only a small part of the total grant

(2) No aid was given to any school, unless its permanency was assured and necessary in the opinion of the Inspector

(3) A minimum scale of Rs 540 (11 teachers) was insisted on in the case of schools to which a new grant was given

(4) No grant, old or new, was to be given where the rate of fees fell below a certain minimum scale

(5) No grant was to be given unless the school had a provident fund for teachers

(6) The minimum grant to a high school was fixed at Rs 100 a month

Thus, only schools which deserved to survive were helped and the schools which have been helped have been made better fitted to survive

The time is almost past when a school was regarded as a productive enterprise, yielding a regular income to its proprietor It is competition that has killed the school as a business concern The multiplication of schools was accompanied by a decline in their strength, caused partly by this multiplication, partly by the failure of illusions as to the material prospects of educated men, and partly by other causes In spite of sweated labour, the fee income no longer equals the working cost For most schools, public aid is becoming a necessity—and this necessity knows laws, it provides the opportunity for insistence on a higher standard

(2) The University.—Much remains to be done, and Government can never do every thing—public opinion and the University, which "recognises" high schools, must co-operate During the quinquennium, there have been welcome signs that the University is alive to its responsibilities It has insisted that every recognised school should establish a provident fund for teachers and maintain a minimum scale of expenditure

(3) Managing Committees.—All high schools are now controlled by managing committees, but the Inspectors' reports make it clear that these committees cannot be regarded as an unqualified success They are too often "the battle-ground of opposing factions" "Hardly an election passes, but one or more petitions are received asking for it to be set aside for various reasons" Recently, however, the University has drawn up a "School Code" to regulate the management of schools and to secure for teachers larger rights of representation and tenure There are some small differences between the provisions of this Code and the grant-in-aid rules of the Department, and it has not yet been put completely into force Its adoption will, undoubtedly, produce considerable improvement at a point where improvement is sorely needed

(4) Dacca Board of Secondary Education.—The schools in the Dacca University area are under the control of the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca. During the period, their number has risen from 10 to 14 and the number of pupils from 4,561 to 5,652 The Board has introduced History (both of England and India) and Geography as compulsory subjects in the High School course and

Elementary Science as an optional subject An oral test in English is also included During 1923-24, a comprehensive inspection of the schools under the Board was carried out by the inspecting staff of the Department

But the limitation of the area under the Board, while it makes careful supervision of the schools possible, yet creates difficulties, which are neither few nor light If any attempt is made to raise standards, the boys take fright at once and can easily transfer themselves to schools just outside the area and affiliated to Calcutta University Further, the Board, as pointed out in earlier Chapters, has been appointed for only a year at a time, as a provincial Board was fancied to be in near prospect, and the uncertainty of its tenure has prevented it from planning any broad constructive scheme extending beyond the narrow limits of a single year Nor has it been supplied with the large funds that any comprehensive scheme would necessarily entail

3 Teachers and their position—(1) Qualifications of teachers.—The number of teachers increased, but not in proportion to the number of pupils The total was 21,873 teachers, which gives an average of 1 teacher to 17 pupils, compared with 1 · 16 in 1921-22

Taking secondary school teachers as a whole, they can scarcely be described as well-qualified The great majority are not graduates, the trained graduates—and indeed trained teachers generally—are a mere sprinkling, too few in numbers, even if they had the ability or power, to act as a leaven In the Chittagong Division, with 2,818 teachers, only 137 were graduates and only 18 of them had trained for their profession There were 59 trained graduates in Rajshahi Division out of a total of 3,182 These figures, which are taken at random, speak for themselves Teaching is still regarded as an unskilled profession.

Teachers in different classes of high schools

Management	Trained teachers	Percentage of trained teachers	Average number of teachers to a school
Government	277	42 4	16
District Board and Municipal	10	16 4	20
Aided	732	12 2	12 7
Unaided	437	7 5	12 5

There is also reason to believe that few teachers regard their work as a vocation, a high calling Many, even of the graduate teachers, turn to teaching as an occupation which may be obtained without much trouble, demands no arduous application and conveniently bridges over the interval between college and some settled and more remunerative work Hence the body of teachers is largely a floating body, including many men who are in it from necessity rather than of choice and will presently leave it without regret This still further reduces the efficiency of the teachers

(2) Salary of teachers.—But, on the other hand, when one considers their position, it is hard to blame them It has been pointed out, over and over again, that the salary of the school master in Bengal is a miserable pittance, often lower than that of a menial servant or even a casual labourer Here, figures are available which need no comment In Chittagong Division, the average salary of a high school teacher is Rs 51 7,, of a middle school teacher Rs 18 2 In Rajshahi, 70 per cent. of the high school teachers receive between Rs 20 and Rs 70 and the actual average is Rs 44 5 Nor are these salaries always paid " It is well known that in many cases the item 'subscriptions' (in school accounts) consists of forced levies upon the teachers' salaries " And the averages are appreciably raised by the far higher salaries paid in Government schools

Pathetically inadequate as these figures are, they yet represent an advance on the salaries of ten or even five years ago

(3) Provident funds.—In one respect, definite progress has been achieved Both University and Government have insisted on the institution of provident funds in schools, with considerable success As a rule, the teacher contributes one anna in the rupee and the school half an anna, but attempts are being made to raise the school contribution also to an anna In some division, thanks to Government grants, this has been done A general scheme for the province has been sanctioned

4 Curriculum and subjects of study—(1) Vocational subjects.—There has been no great change in the curriculum during the period under review, partly because of the indifference to small changes that accompanies the expectation of far-reaching changes like the long-awaited Board of Secondary Education and partly as a result of a change of feeling on the subject At one time, the idea was widely current that the solution of the problem of a growing educated proletariate was to be sought in the creation of "vocational" schools, which would train boys for practical occupations But a truer conception of education, a deeper analysis of the situation and actual experiment have combined to prove that this solution is illusory Under the sway of the ideas that produced the non-co-operation movement, spinning, weaving and other "vocational" classes were started in many schools, but they soon returned to their first love—the Matriculation curriculum—and the discarded spinning-wheels were put discreetly out of sight The issue of a similar recent experiment is interesting Artisan and spinning classes were opened in a certain high school in Pabna, but, in a very short time, they detached themselves from the uncongenial parent and set up as a separate institution

If, however, it is neither wise nor practical to regard secondary education as immediate preparation for a vocation, on the other hand, there can be no doubt that a purely literary training does not afford a complete education and that manual arts of various kinds have a high cultural and educational value In about 22 schools, manual training, of various kinds, has been given—but this needs to be widely extended The Conference of Educational Officers, February 1925, advised that, while vocational training might more properly be given in special institutions after the school course, some subjects which train the hand and the eye and give scope for the creative joy of the "artist," should be introduced into schools To this desire, the University has added its powerful voice Subjects like carpentry or metal-work, spinning and weaving, gardening and agriculture, drawing and painting, will show the boy that he can educate himself through his finger-tips as well as through the ear and the eye, add variety and diversion to a course now intolerably monotonous and hum-drum and, by accustoming him to manual work, teach him the dignity, the joy and the productive worth of labour

(2) Science subjects.—Six Government schools in the province had "B" classes or Science courses attached to them at the end of the period They were intended to be the nucleus of a "modern" side in schools, but the intention remains unrealised One Head Master "reports with regret that the public do not appreciate the utility of the classes and the demand for admission is not very keen" The truth is, no alternative scheme of small dimensions can hope to hold its own against the attraction of the enormous mass of Calcutta University

5 Methods of teaching—(1) Inefficiency of teaching.—The methods of study and teaching are more important than the subjects The most perfect curriculum would be rendered valueless by the methods of teaching practised in many schools It is possible to work in marble and fail to create an Apollo Belvedere "Of the practice of teaching as a science there is practically none" The Inspector for Chittagong goes on to point out that this is not wilful neglect "They (the teachers) are not provided with the necessary appliances and they have no conception of modern developments in the art of teaching and of the skilled technique it is possible to develop They themselves were never well-taught, they have never seen good teaching and they are unaware of the defects present in their own methods"

(2) Private coaching.—It is partly the inefficiency of teaching and partly the vogue of "cram" that has led to the almost universal prevalence of private coaching In one way, this may appear a good thing, because the teacher gets a sorely-needed addition to his salary from the wealthier pupils, while schools can afford to keep fees low—but, in every other way, it is unsatisfactory and harmful An arrangement which tends to make teachers and schools satisfied with the present wage-scale is, after all, wrong, and private coaching is both result and cause of bad teaching in schools

(3) School Libraries.—The reports of Inspectors draw attention to the inadequacy of school libraries, and yet perhaps they should not be called inadequate, for the few books have fewer readers. This is again part of "the wheel," the chain of cause and effect, for the general system of cram makes extra reading superfluous for examinations and indisposes the boy to read for the pleasure of it. The result is seen in the appalling lack of general knowledge of the graduate, as revealed, for instance, in competitive examinations, in such statements as these: "St Francis of Assisi is the lady who recently swam across the English Channel," "The chief poisonous snakes of India are cobras, pantheons and dragons," "Mr N N C (The M C C) came to play cricket in India."

(4) The vernacular as medium.—It has long been recognised that cramming was encouraged, in fact made almost inevitable, by the practice of teaching in a medium very imperfectly understood. The strain of assimilating knowledge thus imparted was too great, the boy merely attempted, by an effort of memory, to retain the exact form of words. The information remained external to his mind, there was no inducement to think. What went in through the ear and the eye came out at the end of the pen, unaltered and undigested. One of the most hopeful things in the future, therefore, is the use of the vernacular as the medium of instruction, which should begin in 1930. In some quarters there is a fear that this will not be an unmixed good and that the standard of English, already low, will fall lower still. But, even if that happens, it is far the lesser evil.

(5) The Dalton plan and experiments thereon.—Here and there attempts have been made to introduce modern methods of teaching as experiments, largely under the inspiration of a circular, issued at the instance of Lord Lytton, late Governor of Bengal. The most notable of these was the trial of the Dalton Laboratory Plan in different schools, most of them Government institutions. The reports received vary. In some schools, especially in the Armanitola High School, Dacca, and the Hindu School, Calcutta, where the scheme was worked under skilled guidance it seems to be on the whole a success. In others, the results obtained were not proportionate to the time, labour and equipment involved. In the Jalpaiguri Zilla School, the Dalton Plan was, after a brief trial, abandoned and in its place a modified scheme of supervised study introduced, which appears to have possibilities. But, whether these schemes succeed or fail is a comparatively small matter—the significant thing is that they have been tried, that schools in Bengal, so long content to walk along the broad and easy way that leads nowhere, are now striking off, by ones or twos, on paths of their own to explore the possibilities of a more fruitful education.

To other schemes, one can make only a brief reference. Some schools under the Dacca Board have tried the plan of "grading" boys for teaching according to their proficiency in different subjects. Elsewhere, the "project" method has been put into operation, especially in the American Baptist Mission School at Bhimpore, where the Santhal boys form admirable subjects for the experiment of supplementing book learning by village industrial arts and making education concrete by linking it up with the familiar facts of everyday life and work.

6 Examinations.—(1) the Matriculation.—One great obstacle in the way of radical experiments is the dominance of the Matriculation Examination over the school course. Every pupil is anxious to pass this examination, every school is judged by its Matriculation results. And the standard of the examination was so low, the percentage of passes so high, that the test was no true indication of educational efficiency and schools were induced by success into an attitude of inert self-complacency. One records, therefore, with satisfaction any attempt to improve the examination. The Senate has passed a draft Regulation to revise the character of the Matriculation which is now under the consideration of Government, and during the quinquennium, the percentage of passes has steadily fallen.

Year	Candidates appeared	Candidates passed	Percentage
1921 22	17,926	14,063	78 4
1922 23	17,569	12,987	73·9
1923 24	17,207	13,061	75 9
1924 25	17,748	12,874	72 5
1925 26	15,147	8,537	56 3
1926 27	14,290	7 537	52 7

This will not only prevent the admission into colleges of a number of those unfitted for higher education, but probably also lead to an increase of efficiency in schools

(2) The Dacca examination.—The percentage of passes at the High School Examination of the Dacca Board does not show an equal decrease The Board has always been haunted by "the fear (by no means a causeless fear) of driving students away from its diminutive area"

Year	Percentage of passes
1921 22	78 2
1922 23	81 0
1923 24	87 4
1924 25	85 6
1925 26	68 2
1926 27	73 6

The middle examinations are not public examinations and their results do not invite special comment Nor has there been any important change in the scholarship system

(3) Minimum age.—One change in the Regulations deserves notice During 1924-25, the rule which debarred boys under 16 from appearing at the Matriculation Examination was relaxed and boys of 15 and over were declared eligible in future on production of a certificate from the Head Master of their fitness for college life

7 Expenditure—

Total expenditure according to sources —

	1921 22	Proportion to total	1926 27	Proportion to total
	Rs	Per cent	Rs	Per cent
Provincial revenues	12,52,566	18 3 (Provincial revenues, Municipal funds and District funds together)	15,80,308	17 9 (Provincial revenues, Municipal funds and District funds together)
Municipal funds	28,316		27,791
District funds	2,66,902		3,22,238
Fees	54,02,675	64 3	70,72,943	65 9
Other sources	14,79,563	17 4	17,33,795	16 2
Total	84,90,022		1,07,37,075

From this table, it appears that the expenditure on secondary schools has increased very considerably during the quinquennium, by no less than Rs 22,47,053 or 26 5 per cent Roughly, during the previous quinquennium, expenditure rose by a sixth, in this by more than a fourth

The amount that is derived from provincial revenues has increased in almost exact proportion, by 26 2 per cent But the largest increase is in the fee income, 29 5 per cent This means that, while education has become more expensive, parents are prepared to pay a rather larger part of the expense than before In 1921-22, the fees averaged Rs 17 6 per boy, in 1926-27 they have increased slightly to Rs 18 6 The motive force was, no doubt, largely the pressure of the policy of insistence on higher fees as a condition of a grant-in-aid

Total expenditure according to types of schools

	1921 22.	1926 27.	Increase or decrease
	Rs	Rs	Rs.
High schools	63,75,938	83,35,947	+19,60,009
Middle English	19,68,591	23,35,361	+3,66,770
Middle vernacular	1,45,493	65,767	−79,726

This table shows that the high schools have absorbed most of the total amount and most of the increase. Their expenses have grown by Rs 19,60,009 In the previous quinquennium, the expenditure on middle schools actually fell, in this it has risen by Rs 2,87,044 The expenditure on middle vernacular schools is fast dwindling as a result of the rapid diminution in their numbers

Average costs

	Cost per month per school		Cost per year per boy
	1921 22	1926 27	1921 22	1926 27
	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
High schools	605	705	34 6	35 7
Middle English	111	120	18 1	16 3
Middle vernacular	56	74	14 2	13 6

It is clear that the total increase in expenditure is not accounted for wholly by the increase of schools, the cost of maintaining a school is also greater now than five years ago This is a move in the right direction, for a cheap school is usually also a bad school Even now, the average expenses of a high school per month are only Rs 705, which include not only the salaries of the staff, but the cost of equipment, the wages of servants, books for the libraries, furniture, games, and so forth In this instance, as so often, the more expensive article is the better The higher cost of a school, again, is only partly explained by the increase in the average strength of schools, the cost per boy has increased and is now, roughly, almost double what it was in 1911-12

Expenditure on high schools according to management

Management	Total cost per year	Income from fees	Income from other sources	Net cost to Government	Cost per head		Cost per head to Government
					1921 22	1926 27	1921 22	1926 27
	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
Government	10,33,599	3,93,170	1,392	6,36,037	74 01	76 06	48 04	46 8
District Board and Municipality	56,041	41,771	3,812	10,428	39 8	35 8	11 1	6 6
Private—aided	39,68,674	27,07,866	5,16,498	7,44,310	35 1	36 2	6 7	6 8
Private unaided	32,77,633	26,02,877	6,74,756		29 3	30 2

The inferences are the same as in the last report Government schools are much more expensive than any other type and, in all other classes of schools, about three-fourths of the total expenses are met by fees

The question naturally suggests itself would it not be possible to save money without sacrificing efficiency by deprovincialising Government high schools? One thing is clear, Government alone pays an attractive scale of salaries to its teachers and, presumably, obtains the services of the best qualified This presumption is generally, but not always, true The Bengal Retrenchment Committee proposed the deprovincialisation of all schools, but Government decided to retain one high school in each district It was intended to hand over control of the others, but the proposal was dropped in deference to public protests Thus the scheme to deprovincialise the high school at Jamalpur in Mymensingh was held in abeyance But, in 1924-25, after buildings had been constructed at a cost of over Rs 2 lakhs, it was decided to substitute an aided school for the proposed zilla school at Burdwan

Something has already been said about grants-in-aid Much of the improvement, such as it is, of the quinquennium, is the result of a judicious distribution of grants on condition that fees were also raised The amount given is, as a rule, not very large, in Dacca Division, the average grant per high school is Rs 1,556 a year or Rs 129 a month This is a very material help to a struggling school, depending on an unstable fee income, but not enough to put it on a sound financial basis And a great number of schools still continue to be unaided It would appear that public money, available for secondary education, could not be more usefully spent than in improving and extending the system of grants-in-aid In 1925, the Council voted an extra Rs 3 lakhs for secondary education, thanks to which many fresh grants were given, on conditions which have been summarised above Further grants have been made subsequently

8 The future.—It is easy enough to criticise the existing system, but it is much harder to suggest lines of reconstruction, which will be practicable The problem bristles with difficulties There is the difficulty of finance, for a great many improvements are possible only if schools can obtain a larger income Money may come from Government, from fees or from private or corporate benefactions From the last source, much more cannot be expected, as things are at present The missionary societies have contributed generously in the past, but are hard hit by financial stringency at home and by the rate of exchange And secondary education has as yet made little or no appeal to wealthy Bengalis as a fit object for their munificence Fees have risen steadily in the past decade and cannot be raised much higher without a more liberal allowance of scholarships to keep the way open for the higher education of the intelligent poor, Government may provide a little more, but not all that can be profitably used, without fresh taxation Then there is the problem of control, a thorny problem which at once places in opposition Government, the University, and the local committees of management Strictly speaking, the University is not concerned with secondary education, but through the Matriculation Examination it exercises a control which is powerful, if not always immediate, effective it indirect The University, however, is already over-burdened with its own, more appropriate, work and cannot undertake a reconstruction of the secondary system But it has steadily opposed any independent Board of Secondary Education On the other hand, the history of the Dacca Board teaches the futility of piecemeal attempts at decentralisation Then, there is the problem of waste, of misdirected effort, of a training that fits a boy for college (even this hardly may one concede) and almost unfits him for everything else, that takes boys away from the normal and natural occupations of the country and leaves them hopeless and helpless at the end The first question that the educationalist must ask is "What should and does it all lead to"? and this is the question which, in Bengal, is constantly shirked or to which, at any rate, no answer has yet been found The existing system refuses to recognise that it has had its day and must cease to be, at any rate as a general system for the whole province, there must be changes or alternatives And, not least, there is the problem of the lack of professional skill and pride, of a sense of vocation, of knowledge and imagination The methods of teaching are hackneyed and pedestrian in the extreme The teacher does not care whither it is all tending nor seeks to make the way pleasant to the young feet that perforce tread it

Some kind of general controlling body seems necessary, able to give time and thought - much time and deep, sane, fearless, informed thought to the whole problem, able to view it without prejudice, by itself and in relation to the environment But in such unified control, there is a danger, which the past has illustrated only too vividly It is largely the tyranny of the Matriculation that has reduced all schools to a mechanical dead level, and, above all, what is wanted is variety, bold experiment and freedom to experiment, schools aiming at different objects and using different methods and developing their own traditions Only thus, shall we have a satisfactory solution—when we cease to think of a system of education and are content to believe that, in the infinite variety characteristic of living organisms, there is more hope than in the uniformity of machine-made objects, so dear to indolent and unimaginative minds What is needed is the widest possible variety within an integrated organisation of national education.

CHAPTER V.

Primary Education: Indian Boys.

1 Statistics and comments.—In nearly every direction, primary education made progress during the period under review The number of primary schools rose from 35,615 in 1921-22 to 38,187 in 1926-27 and this, in spite of the fact that the night schools, which were classed as primary schools in the last review, now fall into the category of

"adult schools" and have not been reckoned in the total. The two figures are, therefore, not exactly comparable. Taking them as they stand, there was an increase of 2,572 schools or 7·2 per cent.

The number of pupils in primary schools increased from 1,164,597 to 1,398,942, by 234,345 or 20·1 per cent. If we add the 183,753 (in 1921-22 142,937) pupils in the primary classes of secondary schools, the total number of pupils in the primary stage of instruction is 1,582,695 as against 1,307,534 at the end of the previous quinquennium, that is, an increase of 21·04 per cent or more than a fifth. Between 1917 and 1922 there was some retrogression, but 1927 sees us a long way ahead of any earlier record.

As pupils have increased by a fifth and schools only by a fourteenth it follows that the average strength of a primary school is greater. While in 1921-22, 32·6 pupils attended a school on the average, in 1926-27 there are 36·6. To each school there are four pupils more.

As the only figures available for the total male population are those of the census of 1921, no accurate deduction can be made as to the proportion of boys in primary schools to the total number of boys of school-going age. The figures are given below for what they are worth:—

	(1) Male population	(2) Males of school going age	(3) Boys in primary schools	(4) Percentage of (3) to (2)
1921-22	24,151,222	6,520,829	1,109,521	17·0
1926-27	24,151,222	6,520,829	1,340,499	20·5
Increase or decrease			+230,978

The number of Muhammadan pupils is 746,053 or 53·3 per cent of the total, of Hindus 612,538 or 45·9 per cent. In 1921-22, the respective figures were 51·7 and 46·4 per cent. To put it in another way, the Hindu pupils have increased by a little over a sixth during the quinquennium, the Muhammadans by almost a fourth.

Nearly all types of schools have shared in the increase in numbers, as the following table shows:—

	1921-22		1926-27			Increase or decrease or proportion to total
	Number	Proportion to total	Number	Increase or decrease	Proportion to total
Government	108	8·9	97	−11	10·2	+1·3
Local and Municipal	3,054		3,783	+729
Aided	28,912	81·2	29,984	+1,072	78·5	−2·7
Unaided	3,541	9·9	4,323	+782	11·3	+1·4
Total	35,615	100	38,187	+2,572	100

The next table shows the proportion of schools to area and number of villages in the different divisions:—

	1921-22		1926-27
	Area in square miles	Towns and villages	Area in square miles	Towns and villages
Presidency	2·8	2·1	2·7	2·1
Burdwan	1·6	2·6	1·6	2·5
Dacca	1·7	2·1	1·5	1·8
Chittagong	2·2	1·4	1·9	1·1
Rajshahi	2·7	3·5	2·7	3·4

In the whole province, there is 1 school to 2·01 square miles and to 2·2 towns and villages. From division to division, there is evidently considerable variation; if we take the district as the unit, the variation is much greater Thus, in Bakarganj district, there are 10 primary schools to every 9 square miles and eight villages, a proportion three or four times as high as that of the province

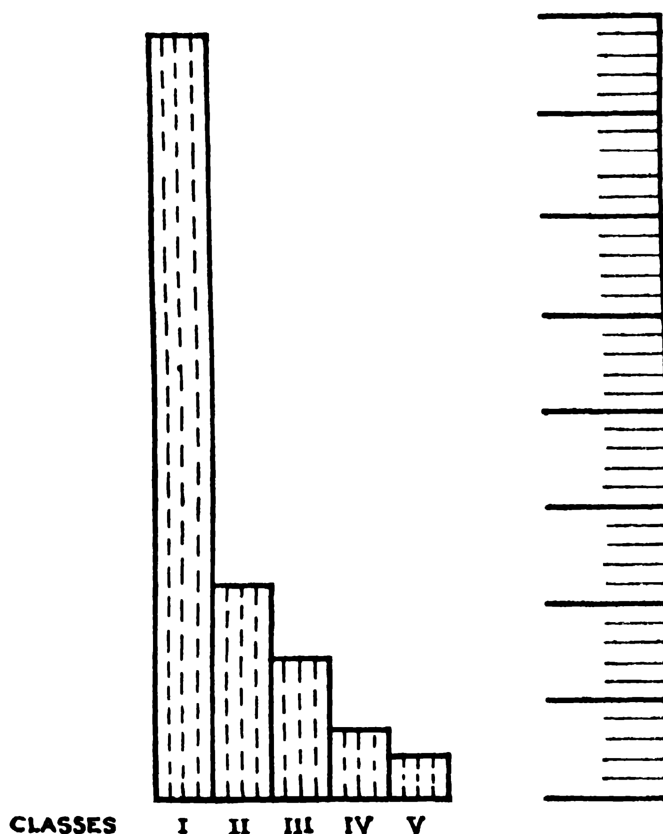
Two diagrams (see pages 895 and 896) before we conclude this statistical section It illustrates the enormous preponderance of pupils in the lowest class and is significant as revealing the proportion of wastage Of 10 boys in class I only 3 reach class II and only 2 of them pass on to class III Here is something to make one pause and think—primary education too often means merely a year in the lowest class As the Inspector for Dacca writes · "The stagnant depths at the bottom of primary schools should be vigorously stirred" It is really in the first four primary classes that there is most loss



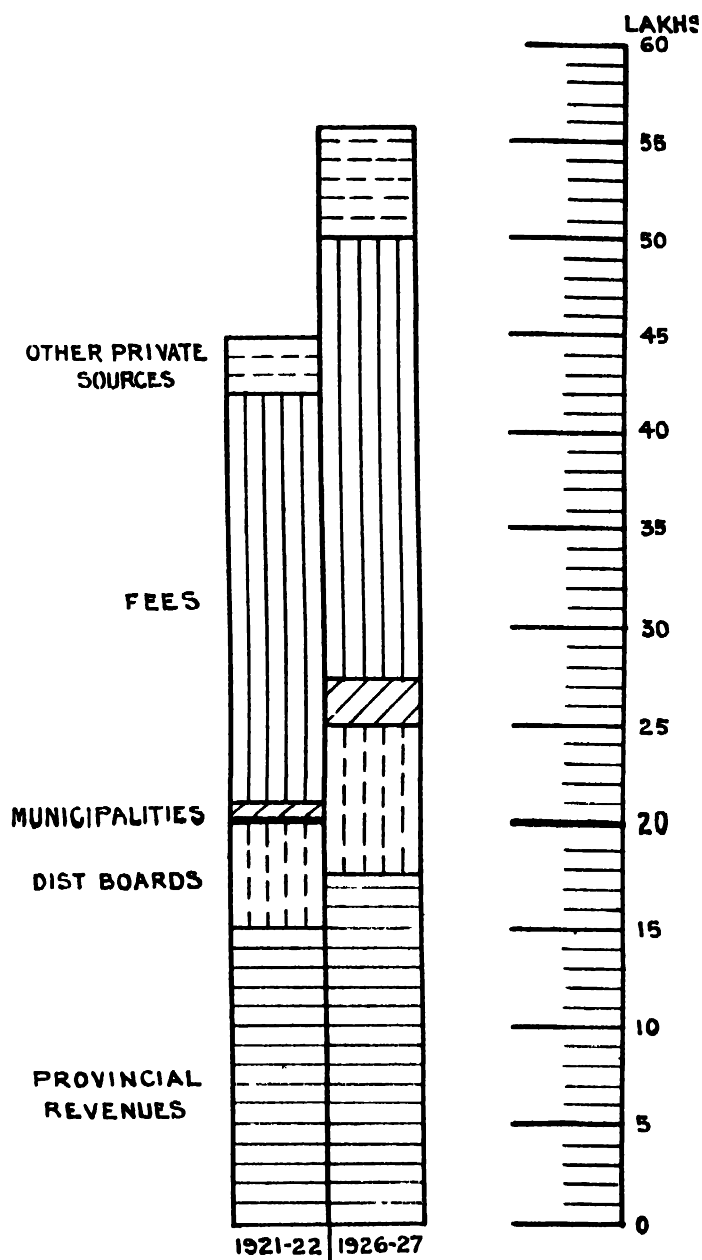


Diagram to show the proportion of Indian pupils in the different primary classes

2 Curriculum and examination.—In January 1923, the revised curriculum (referred to in paragraph 164 of the last review) was introduced into the schools in nearly all districts The exceptions have also fallen into line from January 1925

The compulsory subjects are, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Geography, History, Hygiene, (for boys) or Hygiene and Domestic Economy (for girls), Observation lessons (for boys), Drill (for boys) or Drill or Needlework (for girls) Two of the following optional subjects have to be taken for the Primary Final Examination—Drawing, Manual Work (for boys) or Manual Work, including Clay-modelling (for girls), Science or Nature Study based on school gardening, English and Zamindari and Mahajani accounts

The enforcement of the new curriculum is a noteworthy event. True, it is a compromise—as many other things are—between the two Bengals, a compound of the curricula formerly followed in East and West Bengal But it makes certain important changes First, in place of two courses covering, between them 6 years, it provides a uniform unbroken course lasting 5 years The old division of primary schools into upper and lower primary has thus become irrelevant and obsolete, and the length of the primary course has been reduced by a year Next, it introduces English as an optional language, a measure which has proved popular In Dacca Division, about 1,000 schools teach English, in Rajshahi over 500 History, formerly neglected, is now a compulsory subject in the last two school years, Geography and Hygiene in the last three On the other hand, the course has been simplified by making certain other subjects optional and more attention is directed to the elements of education, reading, writing and arithmetic

Amount and sources of expenditure on primary schools

There are, of course, criticisms One Inspector tersely says " Nothing human is perfect and the curriculum is certainly not an exception " Apart from the imperfection of all things human, the particular criticisms fall into two classes, those which assert that the course is too heavy and those which maintain that the teaching is inefficient Here are some comments from the Inspectors' reports Writing of English, " Pupils learnt letters of the alphabet and could spell a few simple words, beyond this results are not satisfactory, as most of the teachers appointed are not properly qualified to teach anything more in that language " " The revised curriculum lays considerable stress upon the methods of teaching various subjects, which require careful preparation and the undivided attention of a trained teacher But this is hardly possible " " Unless sufficient improvement takes place in the general mental equipment of a primary school teacher, it will be idle to expect more satisfactory results from the curriculum " It is also pointed out that few schools have any arrangements for Science and Nature Study, and that Mental Arithmetic, " so very necessary for the people in their daily transactions," is not practised as much as it used to be

These criticisms are not trivial, but they are inevitable—and there is little doubt that the new curriculum marks an improvement on the old Bad teaching—there's the rub But, during the period, a measure was approved—though not yet enforced—which may have far-reaching effects on the quality of the teaching The conference of educational officers in February 1925 suggested, and Government approved of, the revival of the old public examination at the end of the primary course This will be first held in November 1927.

3 Teachers.—The total number of primary school teachers has risen during the quinquennium from 44,446 to 52,822, an increase of 18 8 per cent But it is gratifying that the number of trained teachers increased from 10,685 to 14,261, by 33 4 per cent In 1922, the trained teachers formed 24 per cent of the whole body, in 1927 26 9 per cent The increase is small, but appreciable The teachers with no certificate now number 2,382 or 4 5 per cent and those who have only passed the Lower Primary Examination are few, being only 1,606

Far the great majority of primary school teachers are not men of any large mental calibre Their qualifications are small, they are neither capable of nor receive any very advanced training But it could not be otherwise, for primary teaching—as was pointed out in the last Review—is a sweated industry It is perhaps not sweated in the sense that the teacher has no time for any other avocation, but it is sweated in the sense that the pay given for the work is generally not a living wage During the last five years, there has been a small increase, an increase, as a rule, of about a rupee per month or less In some districts there is a positive decline Some of the figures are so low as to be almost incredible for instance, in Chittagong Division, the average monthly emoluments (was there ever a bigger word for a smaller thing?) of a teacher in an unaided school is Rs 3 3 In an aided school it is as much as Rs 6

Small wonder is it, then, that primary school teachers are not often well-educated or well-trained themselves and are unable to give their whole time to their work Many of them, perhaps most of them, have perforce to supplement their exiguous salaries by the profits of other occupations Some hundreds of them—unfortunately a smaller number than in 1922*, 246 against 331—act also as village post masters and earn an additional income ranging from Rs 4 to Rs 16

The object which Government has set before itself is the provision of Rs 6 per mensem for each trained teacher in addition to his income from local funds and fees and a minimum of Rs 2 for each untrained teacher An additional grant of Rs 5,51,000 was secured for the purpose, of which Rs 2,81,000 was made available in 1926-27, but it was far from adequate, and the actual improvement effected was small

4 Scholarships.—The upper primary scholarship is now called the final and the lower the preliminary scholarship

The final primary scholarship is of the value of Rs 3 and is awarded by the Inspector of Schools on the result of an examination No school may send more than two candidates, but as the total number of candidates must not be more than four times the number of scholarships, many schools have to be content with only one or even no representative There seems to be a case for adding to the number of scholarships, both final and preliminary A certain proportion is reserved for Muhammadans and backward classes

The preliminary scholarships are of the value of Rs 2 and tenable generally for two years They are awarded by the local bodies As, however, the Accounts Department objected to the payment of scholarships from Municipal and District Board funds as ultra vires, their cost is now met by Government, the amount being deducted from the grants made to local bodies for the improvement of primary education The same object is achieved by a round-about procedure

The total number of scholarships is 1,376 and the expenditure Rs 41,854, of which Rs 41,498 came from public funds

5 Schemes of primary education.—During the period, two schemes for extending primary education were in operation, one new and one taken over from the previous quinquennium The new scheme is that proposed in Mr Biss's report and approved by Government; the old one is the Panchayati Union scheme

The report for Rajshahi Division supplies a concise summary of the history of the latter "The scheme was first initiated by Sir

* Altogether 519 teachers, secondary as well as primary, worked as school postmasters in 1926-27 against 556 in 1921-22

Henry Sharp, then Director of Public Instruction, Eastern Bengal and Assam, and the schools started under the scheme were called by him class I lower primary schools The name was changed by Mr C H Browning, the then officiating Director of Public Instruction, to Board primary schools At a conference of the Divisional Commissioners, it was decided to proceed on a more definite geographical basis, viz, panchayati unions The schools constructed after 1917-18 have come to be known as panchayati union schools"

The plan is to provide each union with a school of a cheap type, the expenses being borne wholly by Government The amount allotted for a building is Rs 1,000, but this has been described as "quite inadequate" Further, the complaint is generally made that it is not always a central site that is chosen, but one that can most easily be spared There are other difficulties In some districts, the panchayati unions are being reduced or enlarged or replaced by Union Boards under the Village Self-Government Act The fact that the schools, once constructed, are placed under the District Board, has an injurious effect on their efficiency and popularity The local public do not feel any special interest in their school or any obligation to repair the building District Boards, on the other hand, are often unable to provide money for keeping the school houses in proper condition New schools are built, while old ones are in some cases falling into disrepair The pay of the Board primary teacher is often lower than that of the trained teacher of an aided school Another difficulty that arose was that the panchayati union schools, which were started on the lower primary basis of 3 years, are unable to teach the full 5 years' course of the new curriculum, unless indeed District Boards undertake to supplement the Government aid by contributions from their own funds for the maintenance of the extra 2 years' course

But, when so much has been granted, we may still recognise that the Panchayati Union scheme represents a well-considered attempt to spread elementary education and has made appreciable progress during the quinquennium Funds to the extent of Rs 5,18,000 were allotted for the construction of 467 boys' schools and 51 girls' schools At present, there are altogether 3,584 schools of this type in the province, rather unequally distributed Thus, Rajshahi Division possesses 1,143 such schools, the Dacca Division 1,243, whereas the Chittagong Division has only 559 and the Presidency Division only 294 One Inspector says "Board primary schools are generally better housed, better equipped and better staffed than most of the aided primary schools" The summary of the annual report for 1924-25 may be here repeated "The Panchayati Union School scheme, as a contribution towards the solution of the problem of the spread of literacy, has solid merits, but it also possesses defects, most of them fortunately remediable with increased funds"

Similar in character, but more ambitious, is Mr Biss's scheme The aim is, again the creation of a network of primary schools all over Bengal, but the unit school area is roughly a circle with a half mile radius, each municipal or Union Board area is eventually to have one central school and as many ancillary schools as are needed The schools are controlled by these local bodies and the cost is to be shared equally by Government and the local authority, the latter having the option of levying an education cess under the Bengal Primary Education Act of 1919 But progress under this scheme has been slow, the chief hindrance being the reluctance of local bodies to meet their share of the cost or to levy a cess There is "apathy, if not antipathy" In many districts, again, Union Boards have not yet come into existence or begun to function In certain cases some of the Biss schools have been abandoned

Nevertheless, here also some progress was made Government gives nearly a lakh of rupees annually to further this scheme The municipalities of Rangpur, Berhampore and Budge-Budge have accepted the scheme in its entirety, others are experimenting with one or two schools A few Union Boards have imposed a cess for primary education and many others have made tentative beginnings Altogether, in about 60 municipalities and Union Boards, the Biss scheme has come into operation, wholly or in part In Dacca Division, no fewer than 64 Biss schools have been started in the last 5 years, and, though elsewhere, the number is much smaller, the total number of schools sanctioned under the scheme during the quinquennium is 223

A few municipalities have awaken to their responsibilities Chittagong has made primary school attendance compulsory as well as free Rangpur municipality has 6 free schools and was the first in its division to resort to taxation for the purpose There are 11 schools in the Madaripur municipality But the largest and most comprehensive scheme is that inaugurated in 1924-25 by the Calcutta Corporation, which now runs 94 free primary schools with 11,561 pupils Most of these meet in the mornings in the buildings of other schools and have no habitation of their own No fees are charged and the schools are largely attended, the minimum strength fixed by the Corporation being 100 pupils per school The teachers are better paid and better qualified than elsewhere The Corporation also employs 5 inspecting officers to supervise the work of its schools and of other schools aided by it The other schools in Calcutta, mostly proprietary, it is difficult to commend The competition of the free Corporation schools and high rents have hit them hard, and their general condition is unsatisfactory

6 Financial aspects of primary education.—The total expenditure on primary schools has increased very rapidly in the last 15 years, in fact has more than doubled In 1911-12, it was, in round numbers, Rs 27 lakhs, but rose in 1916-17 to 38 lakhs or by two-fifths In the next 5 years, a period of financial stringency, it increased at a slower rate to Rs 45 lakhs In 1926-27, the figure is Rs 56 lakhs, an increase of almost a fourth during the quinquennium

Of the total of Rs 55,90,162, a little less than half or Rs 27,59,723 came from public funds, a slightly smaller proportion than in 1921-22 The expenditure from provincial revenues rose from Rs 15,16,657 to Rs 17,74,820 or by a little over a sixth The District Board funds contributed Rs 7,27,857 and municipal funds Rs 2,57,046, of which far the largest share was borne by the Calcutta Corporation From private funds came the balance of Rs 28,30,439, 50 6 per cent of the total, and of this the fee income supplied Rs 22,64,433, an increase of 17 per cent

The increase in expenditure and in fee income is much more marked in some divisions than in others The most striking is Dacca Division, where the total expenditure has jumped from Rs 9,50,718 to Rs 13,29,610 or increased by more than one-third The fees rose from Rs 2,71,577 to Rs 5,66,726, that is, have more than doubled Elsewhere, the progress is not nearly so impressive

The average monthly cost of the different types of primary schools according to management are set forth below

	1921 22	1926 27
	Rs	Rs
Government	71 4	69 5
District Board	15 9	18 6
Municipal	50	101 08
Aided	10 5	11 7
Unaided	3 8	5 0
General average	10 5	12 2

The average annual cost per pupil was Rs 4 in 1921-22 and Rs 3 9 in 1926-27

7 General considerations.—When we survey primary education in Bengal, certain features stand out in high relief First, its extraordinary cheapness For a little over Rs 20, a child can spend 5 years at a primary school and acquire the status of a literate person In a comparatively poor province, such as Bengal, cheapness is a necessity for any general scheme of education Secondly, a high proportion of the expenses are met by the parents, 40 5 per cent of the total expenditure coming from fees, and when we remember that many schools are free, the proportion contributed by those who do pay will appear more striking Thirdly, attention has already been drawn to the wastage, which means that, of the large number of pupils at school, only a small fraction effectually share in the benefits of primary education Fourthly, the basis of the cheapness is cheap labour, and, beyond a certain point, cheap labour is inefficient As a rule, the teachers are men of poor qualifications, untrained or ill-trained and compelled to seek other ways of supplementing an inadequate income But, on the other hand, it should be remembered that higher salaries will not necessarily produce better men—it may create a demand from the wrong type of man, the man with perhaps a degree, but with no local ties, no touch with the conditions of rural life and no personal interest in his pupils or his work The belief that money can solve all difficulties of this nature is particularly insidious and dangerous, because it contains a half-truth

In planning for the future, two aspects have to be considered—the extension of primary education and its efficiency. If primary education is to be made universal, more schools are wanted and larger schools. Not perhaps a great many more, for at present there is, on the average, 1 school to every 2 square miles. But the distribution is uneven: here a large area barren of schools, there two or three schools within call of each other. The schemes to provide for a judicious distribution have, in part, failed, because their progress has been very slow. The average strength of a school is now 36, but it is obviously more economical and efficient to raise the strength of each school than to multiply thinly-attended institutions.

A sufficiency of schools will not by itself lead to universal education. Many parents prefer their children to earn wages than to spend several years in school: often, this is an economic necessity. Hence arises the question of compulsion. Education cannot be universal unless it is compulsory—but, in a country like India, compulsion will be difficult to enforce unless it has the weight of widespread popular opinion behind it. There is need, therefore, not only for more schools, but for more propaganda.

Compulsory education must, of course, be largely or wholly free. Government, local bodies or private agencies should provide the money. At present, a large number of children pay fees, which amount in the aggregate to a considerable sum. But this money will not be lost, it will be realised for the same purpose under the guise of a new tax or local cess. For, it must be admitted that the existing or probable future resources of the Government would be unequal to the drain of any compulsory free scheme of education. If, eventually, 60 instead of 16 lakhs of children have to be taught and teachers have to be paid at least twice as much as they are at present, the total expenditure will be enormous.

Primary education should not only be free, it must be good. The commodity given away must be intrinsically valuable if it is to prove desirable and the ultimate success of any compulsory scheme must largely depend on the general usefulness of the curriculum, its relation to the village environment, the quality of the teaching, the results of the training on the character, mental development and material prospects of the pupil.

On these lines, action or at least discussion has already been initiated. In September 1926 Government issued a resolution for the information and criticism of the public, sketching the outlines of proposed legislation on primary education. In each district a District School Board is to be set up, "essentially a non-official body with an official element," which would first survey the educational needs of the district and prepare a scheme for providing the necessary schools and teachers. Then power would be given to the Board to impose and collect a special cess of the value of about 5 pice in the rupee on the annual value of lands and net profits of mines, and the non-agricultural classes would also be assessed. The Board would dispose of the proceeds as well as the sums at present spent by Government or other public bodies on primary education. When the scheme is on its way, compulsion would be introduced and enforced.

Such, very briefly, are the main features of this measure, which, as yet, exists only on paper.

8. Adult schools.—The night schools are, as a rule, primary schools held in the evening and attended by a considerable proportion of adults. In some places, the adult pupils only come during the "off season," when other work is scarce. The attendance is thus often irregular and, as a rule, not more than 2 hours a day can be given to school work. The night schools leave much to be desired and yet, as the Inspector for Rajshahi puts it, "the spread of literacy among the illiterate adults seems to be one of the most effective methods of securing for mass education the backing of popular sympathy and support." They deserve greater attention. The total number of night schools in 1926-27 was 1,533, the number of pupils 35,276, and the expenditure Rs. 47,216. The corresponding figures in 1921-22 were 1,551, 34,936 and Rs. 44,732.

Continuation schools, intended for those who have already had some schooling, exist only in the Presidency Division and in Calcutta. Group I schools, on paper meant for boys below 15, but actually attended by adults as well and by many who have not been through school at all, are growing in popularity and now number 125 with 3,434 pupils. Group II schools, on the other hand, which give instruction of an elementary kind in one or two technical subjects, as well as in Arithmetic, are generally condemned as serving no useful purpose in their present shape They number 44 with 1,058 pupils, a decline since 1921-22 There is indeed room and need for schools to continue the education of adults along practical lines, but the existing schools are not of the right type Some reorganisation seems necessary

CHAPTER VI.

Education of Indian girls and women.

1 Statistics and their analysis—

Year	Arts and professional colleges	High schools	Middle schools	Primary schools	Other Institutions	Private Institutions	Total
Institutions for girls
1921 22	4	13	57	12,151	55	474	12,754
1926-27	6	19	70	14,605	48	292	15,040
Increase or decrease	+2	+6	+13	+2,454	−7	−182	+2,286
Girls in girls' and boys' schools
1921 22	228	2,647	6,640	322,694	1,661	9,092	343,862
1926 27	364	4,801	8,260	396,056	1,990	8,737	420,217
Increase or decrease	+136	+2,154	+1,620	+73,362	+329	-1,255	+76,355

These figures reveal general progress, as far as numbers are concerned, the number of schools has increased and the number of girls attending schools A more careful examination, however, tempers one's satisfaction—for the increase is greatest in the primary schools and in the lowest classes of all schools generally For instance, in Dacca Division, out of 122,492 pupils in girls' schools, no fewer than 98,826 or 80 68 per cent are in the lowest class In Chittagong, 95 04 per cent are in class I In the whole province, of the girls at school, 96 6 per cent are in the primary stage, of the scholars in girls' schools, only 1 in 231 is in the high stage and only 1 in 1,516 in the Matriculation class

An analysis of the pupils by religion makes the picture still more sombre

Year	Total number of girls at school	Hindus	Muhammadans
1921 22	343,862	153,890	180,888
1926 27	420,217	186,430	226,031
Increase	+76,355	+32,540	+45,143

At first sight, each creed seems to hold its own, the numbers of Hindu and Muhammadan girls at school are roughly in proportion to the size of each community But a comparison of the numbers in different stages of instruction shows an extraordinary disparity Thus, in the whole of the Burdwan Division, there was not a single Musalman girl above the primary stage, and in the Presidency Division, out of 19,759 Muhammadan girls in school, only 6 were in high schools and 33 in middle schools In the Dacca Division, only 3 7 of the total number of girls in secondary schools were Muhammadans Interesting figures are available for the Chittagong Division Here, during the quinquennium, the number of Hindu girls increased by 23 5 per cent and that of Muhammadan girls by no less than 48 8 per cent But a qualitative analysis brings to light a very different state of things

	Female population	Primary stage		Middle stage	High stage
		Class I	Classes II, III, IV
Muhammadans	2,174,658	60,931	1,695	5	0
Hindus	7,04,647	23,134	2,347	115	66

In that Division, only 1 Muhammadan girl in 37 goes beyond the lowest class and only 1 in 13,000 survives the primary stage Among Hindus, 1 in 140 goes on to the middle school. The diagram shown below shows the proportion of Hindus and Muhammadans in the different stages of instruction In face of these figures, it can scarcely be asserted with confidence that there is as yet in Bengal any strong or wide-spread demand for the education of girls, especially among Muhammadans The proportion of wastage is pathetic-- but perhaps it should not be reckoned as wastage The fact seems to be that " the primary school is regarded as a convenient nursery for young children rather than as an educational institution " But it must be remembered that an over-whelming majority of girls leave school after the first year and soon relapse into ignorance No certain conclusions as to the spread of literacy among women can be drawn from general statistics of the number of girls at school

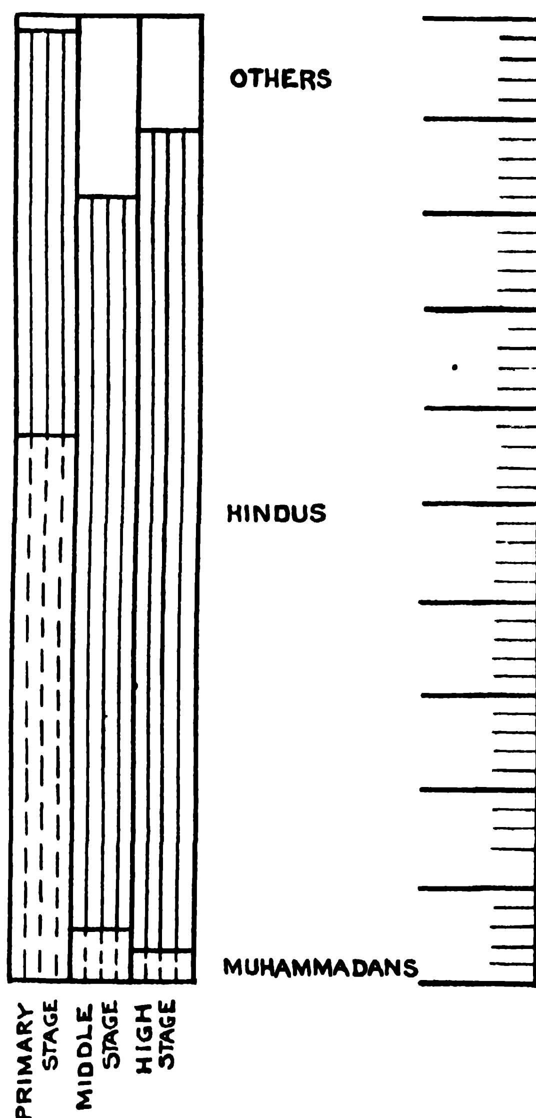

Diagram showing proportions of girls of different communities in schools for Indian girls

A certain number of girls attend boys' schools and some girls' schools accept small boys But this is merely " a matter of convenience and not of policy " and can scarcely be called " co-education "

2. Collegiate education.—During the period there were, as before, 3 arts colleges in Calcutta teaching up to the B A standard and the intermediate department of the Eden High School for Girls at Dacca But, while the number of institutions remained unchanged, the number of students in them increased from 213 in 1922 to 289 in 1927 To this should be added the women students in the University classes and in the men's colleges, in all 321

The demand for higher education for women is thus steadily, if slowly, growing stronger. A particularly noteworthy feature is the increase in the number of Hindu women who attend college. The Principal of the Bethune College reports that the long record of Brahmo majority in the College has been broken and Hindus now outnumber any other single community. This is encouraging, because women's colleges have hitherto been chiefly fed by Brahmos, Europeans and Indian Christians—all small communities, and any great advance in women's higher education depends on the readiness of orthodox Hindu society to welcome it. Among Muhammadans, on the other hand, higher education for women is, as shown above, still a thing almost unknown.

The increase in the number of women students is, however, still so slow that it can be adequately met by the existing women's colleges, if they are developed to the limit of their capacity. For different reasons, a small number of women will probably continue to enter men's colleges. But the number of those who are kept out of women's colleges by lack of accommodation is not likely to be so large as to require the establishment of a new college, at any rate in the near future. On the other hand, there is urgent need for the expansion of hostel accommodation in women's colleges.

At present, the subjects of study and the courses in women's colleges are the same as in other colleges, and they suffer from the same defects and the same difficulties. A peculiar difficulty is, however, created by the lack of a sufficient supply of qualified women teachers. It is, therefore, gratifying to note that 6 women passed the M. A. Examinations of the University during the period. A small number also went abroad for further study and between 1922 and 1927 Government awarded two scholarships to women for this purpose.

The following table shows the number of women students who passed University Examinations during the quinquennium:—

	1917-21			1922-26			Average per year 1922-26
	Number of candidates	Number of passes	Percentage of passes	Number of candidates	Number of passes	Percentage of passes	Number of candidates	Number of passes	Percentage of passes

B. A.	157	130	82.8	266	221	83.08	53.2	44.2	83.8

I. A.	292	225	77.1	388	308	79.3	77.6	61.6	79.3

Matriculation	485	391	80.6	668	574	85.9	133.6	114.8	85.9

3. Bethune College.—Bethune College, which is a Government institution, is the largest of the women's colleges in Bengal. Its history during the last 5 years has been one of steady progress. Affiliation was secured in B. A. Honours, Philosophy and I. Sc. Chemistry and applied for in I. Sc. Physics. For the further development of scientific studies a strong case can be made out, for there can be no question that at least one women's college should provide the opportunity for scientific training. The numbers in the college increased from 114 in 1922 to 135 in 1927. The Principal complains that this was made possible only "by a process of squeezing, which outrages all one's hygienic instincts;" and, in truth, the need for increased class-room and hostel accommodation has long been recognised, although little has yet been done. A scheme has, however, been prepared for the expansion of the College at a cost of about Rs. 8 lakhs. Two new outside hostels were recently opened, capable of accommodating about 50 students. The substitution of motor buses for horse buses has not only "materially shortened the College and school day for non-resident students," but enabled them to take a more effective interest in different College activities, like the Debating Society. The College magazine has been revived. The Old Students' Guild helps poor students and holds a successful reunion in September of each year. The interest in physical culture steadily develops and about 20 students have joined a voluntary drill class.

In University Examinations, the College maintains its high reputation. The Principal emphasises the difficulties caused by the low, standard of the Matriculation, the neglect of Geography, the very imperfect knowledge of the medium of education, English, possessed by first year students. To remedy the last defect, special coaching is given to students in small groups of 12 to 14. These weaknesses have led to the rejection of a considerable proportion of second year students when candidates were selected to appear for the University Examinations.

Perhaps partly owing to this careful weeding out, the University results have been excellent. The following table shows the results of 1926:—

	Number of candidates	Number of passes	First Division	Second Division	Third Division	Failed
I. A.	24	22	9	10	3	2
I. Sc.	6	4	3	1		2
B. A. Pass	22	21(a)				1
B. A. Honours	9	7(b)		7		.

(a) Seven of these obtained distinction.
(b) Seven obtained second class Honours; 2 got their Pass degree.

4. Diocesan College.—The number of students in the Diocesan College varied within small limits, going as high as 76 in 1923 and falling to 62 in 1925. During the period affiliation was secured in History Honours. There are a Historical Society and a Debating Society, a Games Club and a Magazine Club, as well as an Old Girls' Guild. Classes in Home Nursing are held during the rains term.

Here, again, the lack of sufficient hostel space presents a serious problem. The College hostel has room for only 30 students and the attached U. M. S. hostel can take only another 15. There was another outside hostel for a time, which had, however, to be given up on the score of expense.

The financial position of the College is, in fact, by no means secure, in spite of the low cost of maintenance possible for a missionary institution.

5. Loreto House.—The Loreto House recently acquired an adjoining house and grounds, into which the kindergarten classes were moved, leaving the old building free for the college department. There are now 47 students on the rolls and the institution is steadily gaining in popularity. The expenditure during 1926-27 was Rs. 12,360. Twenty students were sent up for the I. A., of whom 19 were successful, and all the 7 candidates passed in the B. A. Examination.

6. Eden Girls' Intermediate College, Dacca.—During the quinquennium, the intermediate classes attached to the Eden Girls' School, Dacca, were made permanent and the institution raised to the status of an intermediate college. A wide range of arts subjects is taught, but no money has yet been available for the starting of Science classes, for which administrative approval has been given. The college classes are gradually becoming more popular and candidates from the College have taken very high places in the intermediate examinations of the Dacca Board, one of them being placed first in 1927. There is a small attached hostel. Regular courses of Home Nursing and Hygiene are given, as well as lantern lectures on Village Sanitation and Hygiene. But the institution still inhabits rented buildings and the office staff appears to be inadequate.

7. Secondary education.—In West Bengal, there are now 9 girls' high schools instead of 8 in 1921-22, but 8 of them are in Calcutta. In East Bengal, however, the number has risen from 5 to 10. Four of the 10 schools are Government institutions, in Calcutta, Chittagong, Mymensingh and Dacca. In Dacca, there is another school and both are under the Dacca Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education. The total number of girls in high schools has increased from 2,640 in 1921-22 to 4,789 in 1926-27, the number in the higher classes being respectively 629 and 1,068.

8. Distribution of schools.—One remarkable feature is the concentration of schools in Calcutta and their almost complete absence in the rest of West Bengal. It is natural and right that Calcutta should possess several institutions, but it is not right that the mufassal should be neglected The consequence is, girls requiring higher education are obliged to come to Calcutta and schools in Calcutta find it necessary to maintain hostels To draw girls away from the healthy open-air life of the country to the conditions of crowded city-life in Calcutta is an act of very doubtful wisdom Most of the Calcutta schools have very small play-grounds and can offer few facilities for exercise or games

It is, therefore, of hopeful augury to note that, in 1926, a new high school was started at Krishnagar, the Lady Carmichael Girls' High School, that the conversion of the Coronation Girls' School at Khulna to a high school is in near prospect, and that plans are ready for the transfer of the Christ Church Girls' School from Calcutta to a spacious and admirable site at Dum-Dum In East Bengal, the schools are more judiciously scattered

9 The curriculum.—The sixth quinquennial report drew attention to the failure of an attempt, well-considered and carefully prepared, to introduce into some girls' schools a curriculum, alternative to the Matriculation and better adapted to the environment and actual needs of Indian girls, most of whom do not proceed to a college course The experiment failed, because parents were anxious that their daughters should pass a recognised examination, the Matriculation, and were suspicious of the value of any training which did not directly lead to this end The experiment has not been revived, but there are signs that the desire for a wider curriculum is becoming more general The Bengal Women's Educational Conference approved "the steps already taken towards greater elasticity in the curriculum of secondary schools for girls and desires to see further progress in the same direction" Vocal and instrumental music has been introduced into all the schools in West Bengal Many schools now teach girls to draw, sketch and embroider, and the work done in these subjects is often of admirable quality and reveals an inherent talent that deserves to be developed On the other hand, the time is not yet when any school can refuse to concern itself with the Matriculation The Gokhale Memorial School, which was founded in Calcutta in 1920, was deliberately intended to train girls for life rather than to prepare them for an examination, but in 1925-26, it found itself compelled to send up girls for the first time for the Matriculation Such is the extent of "the dominance of examinations" in Bengal

10 Physical culture.—There is no doubt that many girls suffer from the unwonted strain of school work and school life In 1923-24, a systematic inspection of the Bethune Collegiate School by Dr (Miss) Cohen of the Public Health Department showed an alarming number of cases of throat trouble, bad eyes and bad teeth It is gratifying, therefore, that regular medical examination is now carried on in most schools in West Bengal—East Bengal lags sadly behind in this matter Attention is being given, in larger measure, to health and the care of the body To the syllabuses, a course in Hygiene, First Aid and Home Nursing has been added The Girl Guide movement is spreading gradually In this connexion, special mention should be made of the work of Miss Carswell, Physical Directress of the Young Women's Christian Association, who has, during the last year, conducted a physical training class for teachers She gave theoretical and practical instruction to them and inspected their own drill classes, and in the examination which concluded the course, many teachers were successful Miss Carswell gave demonstrations at various places in addition to her work in Calcutta, visiting the Eden Girls' School at Dacca, and other schools The result has been not only a supply of teachers qualified to take drill and games classes in schools, but a general awakening of interest in the whole subject The Principal of the Bethune College writes of the attached school "Numerous letters from parents express delight at the proposed organisation of drill classes in the school and readiness to meet the small outlay necessary for a special dress for members of competing teams"

Along these and similar lines, much remains to be done A grant of Rs 15 was given to five schools for a teacher in First Aid, and many girls appear for and hold the certificate of the St John's Ambulance Association But the Inspectress for West Bengal draws attention to the lack of competent hygiene teachers and suggests the award of Government scholarships for women for a special course of Hygiene study abroad to qualify them to organise such teaching in Bengal Something, meanwhile, is being done At the Bethune College and School, special courses of lectures on "Health in the Home" have been given under the auspices of the Bengal Social Service League

During the quinquennium, 789 girls appeared for the Matriculation Examination and 629 were successful

11. Middle schools.—The middle schools, which form a distinct feature of the system of girls' education, have, on the whole, maintained and even extended their position But the middle vernacular schools are declining in popularity and losing ground Many of them are being raised to the middle English standard, no fewer than 8 in West Bengal during the period On the other hand, if a middle English school acquires high school status, its place is at once taken by a new middle English school In 1921-22, there were 57 middle schools altogether, 28 middle English and 29 middle vernacular, in 1926-27, the total is 70, of which no fewer than 48 are middle English schools and only 22 middle vernacular

The importance of middle schools is not only that they constitute the level beyond which few Hindu and Muhammadan girls are able to study, as was pointed out in the last report, but that, as the staff is generally composed of women teachers, married girls can and do attend them in growing numbers They are also considerably less expensive than high schools and are, therefore, more widely scattered all over the province

A suitable curriculum has been drawn up and will come into force shortly

12 Primary schools.—The number of primary schools in 1921-22 was 12,151, in 1926-27 14,605 The number of girls in the primary stage in 1926-27 was 406,137, of whom 347,270 were in girls schools and 58,867 in boys' schools The corresponding numbers in 1921-22 were 330,338, 274,919 and 55,419

13 Types of schools.—In the province, there are different types of primary schools, classified according to the source from which they receive aid The model primary schools, managed by Government, well-staffed, well-housed and well-equipped, were deprovincialised in 1924 and handed over to local committees They have merged, therefore, in the general class of schools which receive a grant-in-aid from the department, of which there are now 286 in West Bengal alone During the period, 10 new schools received building grants Then come the schools which receive aid from District Boards or municipalities, but the aid from these sources is, as a rule, trifling and the Inspectresses report that the condition of these schools remains unsatisfactory The bigger municipalities are, however, more alive to their responsibilities The schools in Dacca have improved greatly, and, in Calcutta, the Corporation in 1924-25 inaugurated the policy of establishing free primary schools Staffed with well-paid teachers and offering gratuitous instruction, these schools have rapidly won a great measure of success Closely akin to the District Board aided schools are the Board model or panchayati union schools, these have been established in selected centres, with a preliminary grant of Rs 1,000 for a building and a maintenance grant of Rs 16 per month Although latterly no funds have been forthcoming for the purpose a considerable number of such schools were created during the quinquennium Then, let us note the free peasant girls' schools of West Bengal, which it is difficult to staff with female teachers, as they are situated in comparatively remote places, the urban girls' schools peculiar to East Bengal, the home girls' schools consisting of classes taught by a single mistress, the schools for backward classes, which have spread largely in certain parts of West Bengal; the schools established by the Nari Siksha Samiti and those maintained by the various missionary societies These two last classes and some of the others receive aid from Government as well The financial difficulties which most missionary societies still have to face have led, unfortunately, to the cessation of a considerable part of their educational work

14 Progress.—Generally, little has been done to improve the condition of primary education as a whole Here, a new school has arisen, there an additional grant given; the pay of some teachers has been raised, the equipment of some schools improved, but in the standard of primary education as a whole—in the nature of the buildings, the training and prospects of the teachers, the quantity and quality of the equipment—there has been no marked rise of level It is needless to labour the oft-made point that primary education cannot be satisfactory, as long as teachers (and there are such now) are paid, in some cases, only Rs 5 a month

The hindrances are, on the one hand, a lack of vision and imagination and, on the other, a lack of money. The demand for primary education which undoubtedly exists, for girls as well as for boys, has not hitherto become to any large extent an effective demand—that is, a demand prepared to pay the price, whether in the nature of increased fees, private benefactions or local taxation. But there are signs that Bengal is beginning to realise its responsibilities in this matter. The Inspectress for West Bengal mentions two instances, where private individuals have started and maintained schools at their own expense, and a few public bodies have arisen, like the Nari Siksha Samiti, which make it their object to develop the system of girls' education. These things are full of cheer and promise. But the general tendency is still to depend on Government for whatever money is necessary.

15. Curriculum.—Since 1925, a revised curriculum has been in force in primary schools. One interesting feature is that English is introduced as an optional language, and both Inspectresses agree that there is a considerable demand for the teaching of English, although qualified teachers are still far too few. Hygiene is compulsory, but for some reason, needlework is optional. The work of the needlework teachers, who go round from school to school and spend about a month in each, has been much appreciated, and the quality of needlework in schools has improved markedly in consequence. The salary and allowances of these teachers appear to be inadequate. Cooking is taught in many schools and some progress has been made in drawing, painting and clay-modelling. The scholarship system remains the same.

16. Education of Muhammadan girls.—In the sixth quinquennial report, it was pointed out that, of girls in public institutions in 1921-22, more than half were Muhammadans. In 1927, the figures are these: Arts colleges, 7, high schools, 172, middle schools, 501, primary schools, 220,330, and special schools, 196. Total, 221,206 or 53·7 (Other communities, 190,274.) The increase is more marked in some divisions than in others. Thus, in Chittagong, the increase is 48·8 per cent., in Burdwan 40 per cent., in Dacca 30·3 per cent., but in the Presidency Division only 11·3 per cent. And let it be remembered also that 96·7 per cent. of the Muhammadan girls at school are in the primary stage and a vast proportion of these have to be content with a single year in the lowest school class. What growth there is, is growth at the bottom and not at the top; in 1921-22, in the Chittagong Division, there were 2 Muhammadan girls above the primary stage, in 1926-27, there were 5. Meanwhile, the number in the primary schools had risen from 42,069 to 62,483.

But, if almost imperceptible, there is still advance, not retrogression. The two middle English schools for Moslems in Calcutta carried on their work. At the Shamshea Zenana Madrasah, middle English classes have been opened, and middle vernacular classes at the maktab at Sonatore. A junior madrasah for girls was started last year at Sutiakati in the Dacca Division. The Hussamia Girls' School at Comilla is meant for better-class purdanashin Muhammadan girls. Primary schools have multiplied, most of them unsatisfactory. The aid given by the District Boards or from the primary or maktab funds is scanty, and the resources of Government are equal only to grants to a few schools. The Inspectress for East Bengal comments on the growing number of Muhammadan girls who join training schools. The general supervision, however, appears to be inadequate. The Inspectress for West Bengal complains that the single Assistant Inspectress in charge of Muhammadan and Zenana Education in West Bengal finds it impossible to supervise the 833 aided maktabs under her charge.

17. Zenana education.—The object of the present system of zenana education is to give an elementary training to married purdah women. With the spread of education the time may come when every girl will have the chance of receiving some education before she is married. But that time is not yet, and, even when it comes, there will be room for a scheme to give more advanced instruction in zenanas. The existing system is thus "a temporary makeshift" and the difficulties in the way are many and serious—the shortage of suitable teachers (and here, more perhaps than anywhere else, personality counts), the waste of time involved in house-to-house visits, the distractions of married life, and so forth. And, thus, a centre which flourishes one year may suddenly fade the next. The Zenana Agency at Krishnagar was described in the annual report for 1922-23 as a unique success but in 1926 it had to be closed down owing to the lack of local interest

Something, however, has been achieved First, the position of the teachers was improved by the introduction of better pay on a time-scale Secondly, an experiment is being tried, on lines based partly on the Parents' National Union scheme of England The idea is to institute a correspondence system of instruction from a centre supplemented by a certain amount of visiting Fortnightly assignments are given in Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Hygiene and general information, and the visits of zenana governesses are to become gradually less frequent, so as to encourage independent work Under the direction of Mr West, Principal of the Dacca Training College, this scheme has met with some success but it is not likely immediately to supplant the older methods of zenana education

18 Private schools.—A certain number of private schools continued to exist The total number of girls in them in 1926-27 was 8,737 A large proportion were Muhammadan girls in Koran schools A new Mahakali pathsala was established at Faridpur, on the model of the one at Mymensingh The aim of these institutions is to teach the domestic and religious duties of Hindu womanhood and the number of pupils in them is 256

19 Finance.—The total expenditure on schools for girls rose from Rs 17,11,666 in 1921-22 to Rs 22,07,483 in 1926-27 Of this, Rs 12,97,200 or 58 7 per cent came from public funds, as against 61 97 in 1921-22

The expenditure on the Bethune College in 1926-27 was Rs 84,369, Government contributing Rs 74,118 The cost per head has increased steadily, in 1916-17, it was Rs 461, in 1921-22, Rs 555, in 1926-27, Rs 649 Towards this, fees paid Rs 79 the balance was met from provincial revenues As long as the number of pupils is small, the cost per pupil in Government colleges will remain high But the expenses of the missionary colleges are comparatively small, largely owing to the much lower scale of salaries

The total expenditure on high schools and secondary schools generally is shown in the following table -

All secondary schools

Year	Expenditure on high schools	Total expenditure	Contribution from public funds	Cost per pupil
	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
1921 22	3,24,795	5,84,889	2,94,191	64
1926 27	4,31,095	7 82,284	3,72,831	60
Increase or decrease	+1,06,300	+1,97,395	+78 640	-4

The cost per pupil varied very considerably in different divisions In 1921-22, the average cost in Chittagong Division was as high as Rs 114, but in 1926-27 it fell to Rs 70 This is the most striking reduction, elsewhere, there is either a small rise or a small fall In Rajshahi, the cost per head is only Rs 37 2, instead of Rs 42 8, whereas in Burdwan it rose from Rs 28 2 to Rs 39 8 It is worth while to compare these figures with the corresponding ones for boys The cost per pupil in boys' schools is Rs 28 1 But, whereas in Chittagong, it costs Rs 47 more to educate a girl than a boy, in Rajshahi the difference is only Rs 7 6

The total expenditure on primary schools in 1921-22 was Rs 8,45,232, of which Rs 6,01,638 or 71 2 per cent came from public sources The figures for 1926-27 are Rs 10,76,463 and Rs 7,19,008 or 66 7 per cent, respectively.

The cost of maintaining a primary school was Rs. 73 7 instead of Rs 69 5 in 1921-22 Here again, the cost varied from Rs. 33 per school in Chittagong Division to Rs 125 1 in Burdwan Division. The cost per head in 1921-22 was Rs 3 3, in 1926-27, Rs. 3·2. The lowest was in Chittagong, with an average of Re 1 1, the highest in Burdwan with Rs 5·3 The expenditure per head in many girls' primary schools is smaller than in boys' schools, for the reason that many girls' schools are maintained by the teachers of the boys' schools, who are paid only a small sum for the additional work

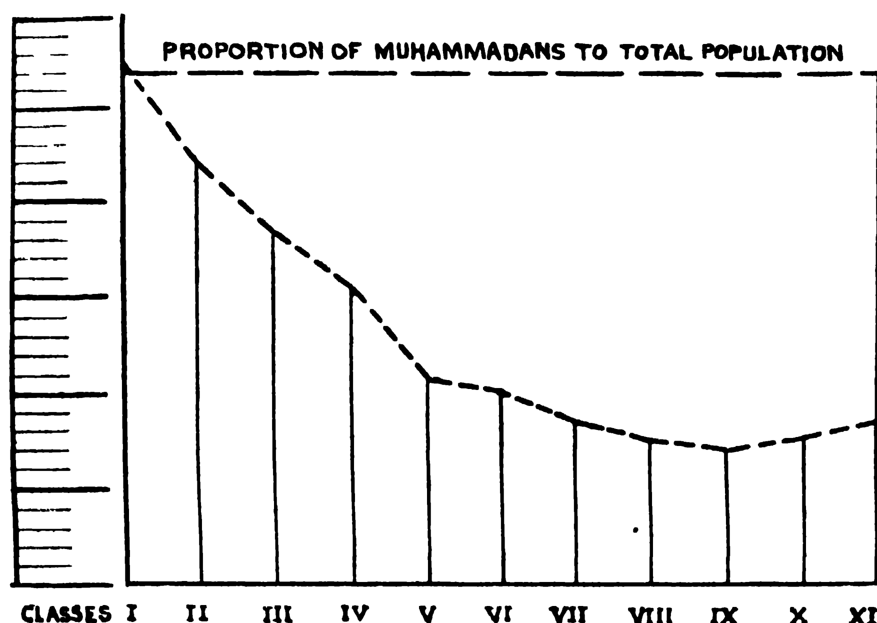
20 Public interest.—The work of the Nari Siksha Samiti has already been referred to, it indicates the arousal of indigenous interest in the vital problem of women's education. The Tripura Hitashadhini Sabha of Tippera has also rendered service, chiefly by examining girls and awarding prizes The Inspectress for East Bengal reports that a friendly feeling has taken the place of the strained relations between parents and teachers during the non-co-operation period and parents can now often be persuaded to visit schools and make suggestions But the most significant event of the quinquennium was the first conference of the Bengal Women's Education League in February 1927, when educated women of all religions and races met to discuss the problems of women's education Papers were read, resolutions passed and a continuation committee appointed Already the League has received two references from Government and it is preparing to embark on a large, constructive programme That women have begun to talk and think of the education of women is perhaps the most hopeful feature in this chapter of our educational survey

CHAPTER VII.

The education of Muhammadans.

1 Statistics and comments.—The number of Muhammadan pupils in all educational institutions for Indians rose, during the period, from 880,374 to 1,139,949, an increase of 29 4 per cent Of this, 913,918 were males and 226,031 females The increase, if not remarkable, is yet satisfactory at first sight But, on a nearer view, the picture appears much less roseate

Moslem pupils are found in general institutions side by side with Hindus and others, but they have their own special and exclusive institutions as well Let us reckon the number of Muhammadan pupils in the former —



Muhammadan scholars in general institutions

Year	Universities and arts colleges	Percentage	Professional colleges	Percentage	High stage	Percentage	Middle stage	Percentage	Primary stage	Percentage	Total	Percentage
1921-22	2,175	12 8	440	9 4	15,715	17 1	16,047	20 9	784,874	49 5	819,251	46 1
1926-27	3,419	14 2	886	14 06	16,049	15 5	18,567	19 3	994,855	51 4	1 033 770	47 7

The most striking feature of this table is the relative decline in the number of Muhammadan pupils in the high and middle stages of instruction This decline is not new, but a continuation of a movement that was noticed in the previous quinquennium In 1916-17, the Muhammadans formed 19 7 per cent of the pupils in the high stage, in 1921-22, 17 1 per cent, in 1926-27 only 15 5 per cent In other words, in secondary education the community is not keeping pace with the general progress It is true that there is advance in higher education and in the primary stage But the progress in primary education is more apparent than real, for many of the pupils never pass beyond the lowest class, and the wastage is enormous The figures for Chittagong Division will illustrate this The Inspector writes "While the total number of Muhammadan children attending school is 283,000 out of a total of 408,000 or approximately 70 per cent, if one excludes class I the figures are 50,000 out of a total of 101,000 or less than 50 per cent If one excludes classes I and II, the figures are even more illuminating, for then the percentage of Muhammadans falls to 22 per cent "

The following is the percentage of Muhammadan boys in boys' schools in the different classes —

Class I 57 3, class II, 44 6, class III, 37 2, class IV, 31 5, class V 22 1, class VI, 20 7, class VII, 17 7, class VIII, 15 8, class IX, 14 3, class X, 15 7, class XI, 16 8

Graph to show the Proportion of Muhammadan boys in different classes of boy's schools

2 Causes retarding progress.—There is, then, little room for congratulation on the progress of the community in education The forces that retard progress are the same as those exposed in the fifth quinquennial review—the apathy of the people, the dispersion of the Muhammadan population in villages often far from secondary schools, the scarcity of Moslem-managed high schools, the preference for special institutions like madrasahs and maktabs controlled by Moslems and teaching Islamic ritual and religion These causes are still operative and apparently in no diminishing measure Add to them the poverty of the mass of Muhammadans who are small farmers or peasants

3 Facilities for Muhammadan pupils.—It cannot fairly be said that, in general institutions, facilities have been lacking for the entertainment of Muhammadan pupils During the period, the Islamia College—of which a description has been given in Chapter III—was established in Calcutta, affiliated to the University and reserved for Moslems In the Chittagong College, the minimum percentage of places reserved for Muhammadans has been raised from 25 to 30 One-fourth of the places in the Bengal Engineering College and the Ahsanullah School of Engineering has been reserved for Muhammadans since 1925 There are many secondary schools meant wholly or mainly for Muhammadans, like the Chittagong Moslem High English School There are 8 such in Rajshahi Division and no fewer than 16 in Dacca Division A certain percentage of seats in Government and aided high schools are reserved for Moslems Scholarships, stipends and free-studentships are bestowed on them liberally Special Muhammadan inspecting officers are appointed as well as Muhammadan assistant masters and Maulvis in Government and aided schools Details of some of these are given later

4 Matriculation results.—In spite of it all, the progress is very slow The results of the Matriculation Examination confirm the inferences drawn from the other statistics Figures are available from two divisions, Chittagong and Rajshahi The number of Muhammadan candidates who passed in 1921-22 was 969 out of a successful total of 3,284 or 29 5, in 1926-27, there were only 306 Muhammadans in a list of 1,403 or 21 8 per cent The raising of the Matriculation standard seems to have affected the Muhammadans more than other communities.

5 Special Muhammadan institutions.—One very important reason for the slow increase of Muhammadan pupils in general schools is, as has been pointed out, their preference for madrasahs and maktabs That the community desires these separate institutions and that they are popular cannot be denied One must sympathise with some of the underlying motives—especially with the conviction that only in separate institutions can "the traditional and revered ideals of Islamic culture and Islamic piety" be preserved But, on the other hand, as one Inspector puts it, "nothing is likely to perpetuate the present unfortunate communal differences more than the separate education of members of the different communities" He goes on to add "The maktabs and madrasahs are extremely inefficient This is not prejudiced criticism, but is the unanimous verdict of the Muhammadan Inspectors It is extremely unlikely that the products of such institutions will ever be able to compete successfully with those who have been taught in ordinary high schools This is the private opinion also of many Muhammadan gentlemen" But this is by no means the opinion of all Inspectors

The special institutions for Muhammadan pupils fall into five classes - Islamic intermediate colleges, madrasahs—high, middle and junior—maktabs, Koran schools, muallim-training schools Something must be said of each of these

(1) Islamic intermediate colleges.—The Islamic intermediate colleges are institutions that aim at the same standard as the other intermediate colleges and lead the way to Islamic studies in Dacca University There are at present three of them, viz , Dacca, Serajganj and Chittagong The colleges at Dacca and Chittagong are Government institutions and that at Serajganj, which acquired this status in 1923, is an aided institution With other intermediate colleges and all high madrasahs, they are under the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca, and conduct a course which includes, besides English and the vernacular, subjects like Fiqh and Usul, Hadis, Logic, Koran, Kalam and Islamic History, and forms Group C of the intermediate courses of the Board The total number of students in the intermediate classes was 119 in 1926-27

(2) Madrasahs—high.—The madrasahs are of two broad types, old and reformed The Reformed Madrasah scheme was introduced in 1915 and was adopted by many of the existing institutions At present, there are 42 madrasahs of the old type and 495 of the new, but occasionally, from conservative quarters comes a demand for the old type, the reformed madrasahs being regarded as merely modified high and middle English schools

General statistics of progress are given below —

	High madrasahs	Pupils in high madrasahs	Other madrasahs	Pupils in other madrasahs	Total of madrasahs	Total of pupils
1921 22	8	1,196	329	23,840	337	25,036
1926 27	17	4,204	521	46,795	538	50,999

The high madrasahs are practically high schools on an Islamic basis, combining religious and secular education Of the total number of 17, 3 are managed by Government, 10 aided and the rest are unaided They are all under the control of the Dacca Secondary Board, which is endeavouring to bring them "within the pale of the General Educational scheme" The Board conducts the High Madrasah Examination for pupils from the reformed madrasahs and successful candidates are permitted to take the Islamic group of subjects for the Intermediate Examination English and the vernacular are, of course, compulsory The number of candidates who appeared in 1926-27 was 218 and 115 passed

The middle madrasahs are middle English schools, in which Urdu is taught in all classes and a little Arabic in some. There were 12 such with 983 pupils in the Dacca Division in 1926-27 against 20 with 1,099 pupils in 1921-22 They constitute a vanishing type

The junior madrasahs correspond to the middle English schools, but the course is heavier The pupils learn four languages, English, Bengali, Arabic and Urdu, but these institutions are popular and have grown in numbers The teaching often leaves much to be desired and the salaries of the teachers are by no means adequate, in spite of Government aid Fees were raised in all Government madrasahs in 1923-24, but, generally, the madrasahs are cheaper than the ordinary secondary schools Manual instruction of different kinds is given in some of them, but not very effectively The junior madrasahs are more popular in rural than in urban areas, for class VI, the top class, of the madrasah is only equal to class V of a high English school, so that, where high schools exist, parents prefer to send their boys to them to save a year

There is a final examination, for which, in 1926, 1,228 candidates appeared and 731 passed

The largest and most important of the old type of Madrasahs is the Calcutta Madrassah, which has provision for advanced Islamic courses Executive action has not yet been taken on the report of the Committee appointed at the close of the last quinquennium to inquire into its condition and make proposals for its improvement

(3) Maktabs.—One of the chief features of the period was the spread of maktabs In 1921-22, there were 14,673 maktabs with 401,751 pupils, in 1926-27, 20,723 maktabs had 628,116 pupils The number of maktabs rose roughly by half and the number of pupils by more than half Many of the indigenous Koran schools were secularised into maktabs and new maktabs sprang up, chiefly in East Bengal, thanks largely to Government grants

A revised curriculum was introduced in 1925, which brought the maktabs into line with the ordinary primary schools The chief difference is that books by Moslem authors are generally used as text books and instruction is given in the reading of the Koran and in Islamic ritual The course is for 5 years The chief advantage is that boys from maktabs are able to compete for the primary scholarships, as the compulsory subjects are the same in both classes of schools But the fact that both secular and religious subjects have to be taught makes it desirable to have two teachers Many maktabs at present have only one, as their resources are small, even when supplemented by a grant

In each division, a special Sub-Inspector is now entrusted with the duty of inspecting maktabs The 7 Government model maktabs were deprovincialised during the period as a measure of retrenchment

(4) Koran schools.—The Koran schools teach the recitation of the Koran and a book on Islamic ritual in simple Urdu Many of them are being secularised and transformed into maktabs

(5) Muallim-training schools.—To meet the need for trained maktab teachers, special muallim-training schools have been established in various parts of the Presidency, although Dacca Division does not yet possess one During the period, these schools adopted the new curriculum intended for the guru-training schools, with modifications There are 3 schools of the old type in the Presidency Division, 1 each of the new type in Burdwan, Rajshahi and Chittagong Divisions

(6) Scholarships and endowments.—According to the new rules, in many public institutions, 15 per cent of the Muhammadan pupils may be granted free studentships But there is a general complaint that the age-limit prescribed for free studentships has prevented them from being fully utilised Besides exemption from fees, a considerable number of "closed" scholarships and stipends are awarded to Muhammadan students During the period, the following special scholarships were created —

(a) Seven scholarships of Rs 5 each a month, tenable for four years, awarded on the results of the Junior Madrasah Examination

(b) Twenty-three stipends of Rs 5 each a month, tenable for two years, awarded on the results of the Junior Madrasah Examination and intended to supplement the existing 23 Mohsin stipends of the same value tenable for two years, so that scholars might enjoy their stipends for the four years of the Senior Madrasah course

(c) Six scholarships of Rs 12 each per month and nine of Rs 8 each per month, for two years, awarded on the results of the High Madrasah Examination

(d) Five scholarships of Rs 15 each per month and two of Rs 10 each per month, tenable for three years, awarded on the results of the Islamic Intermediate Examination

(e) Three junior scholarships of Rs 10 each, tenable for two years, six senior scholarships of the same amount, for three years, and two graduate scholarships of Rs 25 each per month, tenable for a year, the first to be held in any intermediate college in the Dacca area, the others in Dacca University.

(f) Nine junior scholarships and six senior scholarships of Rs 10 each per month, tenable for two years, in any college affiliated to Calcutta University, and two graduate scholarships of Rs 25 each per month, for two years, in Calcutta University

(g) Two scholarships of Rs 25 each per month, for three years, in the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering classes of the Bengal Engineering College; two others of the same amount in the Mining classes

(h) Six scholarships of Rs 15 each per month, tenable for two years, in the Sub-Overseer classes of the Ahsanullah Engineering School and four of the same value in the Overseer classes

The Mohsin Fund is not included in the Education budget During the period, a reduction of Rs 3,516 was made in the expenditure under the Fund in order to balance the diminished income Twenty stipends awarded under it were abolished and the value of 17 stipends reduced by amounts varying from Rs 2 to Rs 5

Nawab Musharruf Hosain inaugurated a scholarship fund for Moslems, named after the late Governor of Bengal, Lord Lytton The Nawab himself gave a donation of Rs 20,000 and promised an additional Rs 1,800 a year for six years, further donations have brought the fund up to Rs 45,000 The interest is to be utilised for sending a Muhammadan to Europe for study every two years

7 Hostel accommodation.—Many educational institutions have special Muhammadan hostels attached to them In the Presidency Division alone there were 35 such hostels in secondary schools with 372 boarders In Dacca University, the Muslim Hall has grown rapidly and, instead of its 87 students in 1921-22, had 208 in 1926-27 For intermediate students and school boys, there were 10 Muhammadan hostels at Dacca The hostels in Calcutta continued during the period to house a large number of Muhammadan students The Elliot Hostel has accommodation for 134 boarders, nearly all of whom are pupils of the Madrasah The Baker Hostel with 200 places is meant for Muhammadan students in Calcutta colleges The Taylor Hostel and the Carmichael Hostel are also non-collegiate hostels, one under the control of Government, the other of the University

8 Muhammadans in the department and in the teaching profession.—In 1925-26, rules were laid down by the Governor in Council regulating the proportion of Muhammadans in the Education Department Of direct appointments to the posts of Subdivisional Inspectors of Schools, Sub-Inspectors, Assistant Head Masters of Government high and normal schools, and English and vernacular teachers, 40 per cent was to be reserved for Moslems, the percentage being raised to 45 in the course of three years

The number of Muhammadans holding appointments in Government high, zilla and collegiate schools and as inspecting officers is shown in the statement below:—

Division	Number of Muhammadan teachers	Percentage of total number	Number of Muhammadan inspecting officers	Percentage
Presidency (including Calcutta)	63	31 3	37	52 8
Burdwan	15	19 1	19	21 8
Dacca	53	26 3	52	53 06
Chittagong	27	32 9	33	61 1
Rajshahi	47	33 08	33	47 1
Total	205	31 8	174	47 3

It is evident that the proportion of Muhammadan inspecting officers is not unsatisfactory, but the proportion of teachers needs to be raised In non-Government schools, the proportion of Muhammadans to other teachers is particularly low, and the higher the type of institution, the lower the percentage The figures for Dacca Division are typical The percentage of Muhammadan teachers in Government and Board schools, aided schools and unaided schools, respectively, are given For high schools, the figures are 26 5, 20 and 13 5, for middle schools, 60 8, 32 9 and 21; for primary schools 65 3, 60 6 and 67 9

The chief reason is the insufficient supply of Muhammadans with high academic qualifications. The Islamia College in Calcutta and the Muslim Hall at Dacca will perhaps attract larger numbers towards University education Government has provided those facilities which were perhaps necessary for a community that had much leeway to make up But it depends on the community itself to take full advantage of those facilities and to work out its own salvation

CHAPTER VIII

The education of Europeans and Anglo-Indians.

1 Institutions and pupils.—The European schools are, like the Anglo-Indian population, concentrated in a few places Calcutta and Howrah have more than half the schools and the greatest variety A dozen institutions, chiefly of the more expensive type of secondary school, are situated on the hills, at Darjeeling, Kurseong and Kalimpong There are a few schools in considerable towns like Dacca, Chittagong and Asansol Finally, along the different railway lines are dotted a certain number of small schools, intended for the children of railway officials

Distribution of schools

	Boys	Girls	Mixed	Total
Calcutta and Howrah	10	12	11	33

Along the Bengal Nagpur Railway	1		1	2
Total	17	22	23	62

The total number of schools was thus 62, against 87 in 1921-22 But the decrease is more apparent than real and is chiefly due to a difference in the method of reckoning—the supplementary and technical classes attached to institutions are no longer counted as separate schools In the number of pupils there is no diminution, even if there is no marked increase In 1921-22, there were 10,702 pupils, five years later, 10,821, composed of 5,886 boys and 4,935 girls The number includes, however, 1,685 non-Europeans Of these, more than half were quasi-Europeans—Armenians, Jews and so forth—and the Indians proper were only 614

The pupils were divided as follows in different types of institutions It should be remembered that, officially, mixed schools are not recognised and they are classed as boys' or girls' schools according to the preponderance of either sex —

	Institutions	Boys	Girls	Total

2 Management and the group—unit system.—The following table shows the distribution of schools according to management, it will be seen that two-thirds of the schools are sectarian —

	Schools		Pupils
	1922	1927	1922	1927

The fact that there are only a few managing authorities, each of which controls several schools, made it possible during the period to follow the policy of organising the schools under one management so as to form an educational unit "In a complete group-unit, there would be every type of institution, from kindergarten to college, from orphanage to boarding school, with a suitable provision of day schools ranging from a free institution to the more expensive form of a big secondary day school" This policy has met with considerable success, and not least in the Bengal-Nagpur Railway system, where the unification of schools has been carried out beyond the provincial frontiers, thanks to the co-operation of the educational authorities of the other province concerned. The group-unit system allows each different management to erect its own educational ladder, and the interests of each school are considered, not in isolation, but in relation to the unit as a whole But the system has its limits and limitations

3 Collegiate education.—The highest rung of the educational ladder is the college and the university, but this is a step which the community has generally been reluctant to climb During the quinquennium, however, the subject of university education for Anglo-Indians aroused a new and welcome interest In some quarters, there was a feeling that the most satisfactory solution was the creation of an Anglo-Indian university But the practical difficulties were insuperable, and many persons felt that it was a mistake to isolate the Anglo-Indian during the whole course of his educational career from the youth of the country with whom he must learn to work and live. And opinion generally has come round to the view that higher education for the European and Anglo-Indian must be developed in connexion with the local Universities In 1923 the Anglo-Indian and Domiciled European Association, Calcutta, proposed that the two Government institutions at Kurseong should be turned into intermediate colleges and affiliated to Dacca University But the proposal was impossible, as the sphere of that University is limited by statute to a small circle round Dacca The only alternative was to find a way of approach from the European schools to Calcutta University

There was already a footpath between the two The Loreto House trained 39 Anglo-Indian girls for the Calcutta I A and B A and L.T Examinations, but it stood alone in adopting the Calcutta courses All other European schools prepared their pupils for the Cambridge Local Examinations Even for them, however, a path had been blazed As was reported in the last review, the University of Calcutta had recognised these examinations for purposes of admission to its colleges and courses Under certain conditions, the Cambridge Senior Local was reckoned as equivalent to the Matriculation and the Higher School Certificate as a substitute for the I A and I Sc The last review described these facilities as "generous," but there were few who were eager to profit by this generosity.

The obstacles were various, partly economic and social. For one thing professional colleges, Government and other employers of labour regarded the Cambridge School Certificate as equal to the I.A. or I Sc., a preferential treatment which made it unnecessary for most Anglo-Indian boys to pursue a university education as an economic necessity. The Inspector of European Schools urges that this differentiation should be abandoned in the interests, educational and political, of the community itself, and there is much force in his contention. Another difficulty was that the results of the Cambridge Examinations were published at a time which made it impossible for successful candidates to join Calcutta colleges at the beginning of the academic year; they had to wait several months doing nothing. This obstacle has, however, been recently removed by a resolution of the Senate allowing students appearing for the Cambridge Senior Local in December to join the first year college classes in January and those appearing for the Higher Certificate to join the third year classes in August, on condition that the admission would be cancelled if the students failed to pass in these examinations. European students who pass the Senior Local may now obtain a Calcutta University degree after 3 years and 3 months in a college. The way from the Cambridge Local Examinations to the Calcutta degrees has thus been made broad and easy.

But there are some who claim that the Anglo-Indian is a statutory native of India and demand that the European schools should train pupils for the Matriculation and the Intermediate. This, however, ignores the differences that distinguish the community from Indian peoples proper and that require and justify a different treatment in the school stage. On the other hand, there was truth in the criticism that the Cambridge Local Examinations were not adapted to Indian conditions—but recently changes have been made which render it more suitable; an Indian vernacular is now an intrinsic part of the examination, in geography, pupils are allowed to specialise in the geography of their own area and region, in botany, local flora may be used for illustration and study, and it appears probable that Indian history will receive due recognition. Nor can it be maintained that the Matriculation is a perfect test or that the courses leading up to it are above criticism. It is well that many, at least, of the European schools should conform to the Cambridge Local regulations. Such was the general opinion of the heads of schools who met in Conference to discuss these subjects in February 1926.

Some schools, however, have begun to experiment with the Matriculation and Intermediate. Besides Loreto College, St Xavier's College—although not technically a European school—provided facilities for Anglo-Indian college students. In 1925 St Joseph's College, Calcutta, abandoned the Cambridge in favour of the Calcutta examinations and started to prepare boys for the Matriculation and the Intermediate, the latter being regarded as the proper conclusion of the school course. St Joseph's College, Darjeeling, has also obtained affiliation to the Intermediate stage; and it seems probable that some other schools will shortly follow suit. The proposed new Code of Regulations for European Schools contemplates the addition of collegiate classes to certain European institutions—and the next period will probably see definite advance along this line.

4 Secondary education.—The difference between the secondary and higher secondary schools has, in practice, tended to disappear and all of them now continue their courses to the Cambridge School Certificate Examination. "The greatest fault of these institutions," writes the Inspector, "was that their courses have generally been too academic." But some improvement has been effected. Where, in 1921, there was only 1 school with a manual workshop, now there are 3. There are 7 schools, instead of 6, which teach science. More girls' schools now make provision for domestic science. But still there is something rather stilted in European education. "The curriculum has been cast in a particular mould owing to the overwhelming shadow cast in India by the public school and the older universities." There is need for the infusion of new educational ideas and of an alert spirit of inquiry and experiment.

Another source of weakness has been the financial instability, which has operated hardly on many schools during this period. But, insofar as it compelled schools to exercise stricter financial control, this was good discipline. In two cases Government came to the rescue of schools crippled by debt. Two schools were fortunate enough to receive bequests, which set them on their feet again. The gift of eleven lakhs by Sir Paul Chater has made La Martinière perhaps the best endowed school in India; and St Paul's, Darjeeling, has recently received a bequest of Rs. 3 lakhs by the will of the late Lord Cable.

The results of the secondary school examinations in 1926-27 were as follows:—

	Sent up		Passed
	Boys	Girls	Boys	Girls
Cambridge Junior Certificate	84	68	67	45
Cambridge School Certificate	83	66	54	44
Cambridge Higher School Certificate	6	2		1

It will be noticed that the numbers appearing for the highest examination were small and the result far from satisfactory Taking the past five years together, 19 candidates appeared for the Higher School Certificate, but only 5 passed The inference is that this course and examination play a very small part in the European educational system in Bengal

5 Higher grade or pre-vocational schools.—The creation of the higher grade school is one of the most noteworthy events of the period "During the year 1922," writes the Inspector, "there was established in this province a class of schools which, directing their curriculum through a reasonably wide general course of education up to standard VI, led that curriculum through the last two years in standards VII and VIII along lines of pre-vocational preparation with the intention of providing a direct entry into the ranks of skilled industry for that class of child who must work immediately on leaving school " Elsewhere the Inspector points out that this type is peculiar to Bengal and has anticipated in a marked degree the suggestions of a committee in England presided over by Sir Henry Hadow

All of the higher grade schools are complete schools, including primary, middle and upper departments It is in the last two classes alone that, in addition to the conventional subjects of English, Arithmetic and Drawing, attention is specially focussed on one or other of the pre-vocational courses

Of these courses, there are five at present The Commercial course, which aims at providing some training in commercial subjects and business methods, has proved useful for girls, but not for boys The Domestic courses A and B, for girls, have had a very limited appeal The Industrial course, designed to fit boys to be engineering apprentices, has proved its worth and happened, indeed, to lead directly to the examination of the Board of Control for Apprenticeship. The Telegraph course, managed and planned by the Indian Telegraph Department, was only attempted in one school and has there been discontinued On the results of the final examinations, two exhibitions were given to the best boys and two to the best girls

The experience of the period has revealed the weaknesses of the scheme Some of the courses are too narrow and rigid, more courses are needed, some concentration is necessary, a stronger link to higher institutions is desirable; the basic general education is often too slight Attempts are being made to remedy these defects and to improve further the quality and widen the appeal of the higher grade schools A new course in Salesmanship for girls, to be conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association has already been planned and sanctioned, and courses in Agricultural science are also in prospect, especially at Kalimpong, where the St. Andrew's Homes have worked out a scheme for emigration to the colonies The old elementary schools have either been reduced to the primary grading or are encouraged to rise to the status of higher grade schools The whole experiment is full of promise and may offer valuable lessons to those who are perplexed by similar problems in the sphere of Indian education

In the Higher Grade School Final Examination, 12 boys and 21 girls appeared and 17 boys and 18 girls passed The far higher percentage of successful girls suggests that the courses mainly intended for boys need remodelling.

6. Primary education.—The primary stage includes the Kindergarten and classes I—IV Most of the primary schools proper belong to the different railways and are usually small station schools. Others are situated in Calcutta and Howrah, and many of them are free schools.

It seems possible to base on them a scheme for free and compulsory primary education for all children of the community At the end of the primary stage a scholarship examination is held, but it seems desirable to enlarge it into a general examination for all primary school children.

7 Teachers.—In 1921-22, there were 657 teachers, including 61 graduates, five years later, the number had increased to 691 with 74 graduates, 378, including 45 graduates, were trained. For the training of men teachers, there were no facilities in Bengal, but the Government of Bengal assist men who wish to proceed to the Chelmsford Training College at Ghoragali for training as elementary teachers, and, during the period, two were sent Women teachers are trained at the Dow Hill Training College, Kurseong, of which a fuller account is given later

8. Scholarships.—The total sum of money expended on scholarships in 1926-27 was Rs 31,512 The following were awarded during the year –

		Value per mensem	Number
		Rs
1	Higher Grade Schools Scholarship	24	2
2	Ditto ditto	12	4
3	Exhibitions (per year)	150	2
4	Ditto (per year)	100	2
5	Junior Secondary	12	4
6	Senior Secondary	20	6
7	Special (arts 107 and 108 of the Code)		79
8	Special (arts 107 and 108 A of the Code)		9
9	Special (outside the Code)		4
10.	Special (outside the Code)—in special schools		10

12	Final Scholarship	40	1
13	Collegiate	30	3
14	State Scholarship (per annum)	£250	1
15	Doveton Trust Fund (up to a maximum)	40	40

9 Expenditure.—The total expenditure according to sources was as follows

	Provincial revenues	Municipal grants	Fees	Endowments, etc	Total.
	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
1921-22	11,54,433	14,057	15,31,787	9,11,563	36,11,840
1926-27	10,63 381	32,443	15,96,792	12,01,488	38,94,104
	—91,052	+18,386	+65,005	+2,89,925	+2,82,264

It will be observed that the contribution from public funds has decreased by nearly a lakh and the income from endowments and subscriptions increased by about Rs 3 lakhs. The boarding charges amounted to Rs 13,14,262

A proposal for the enhancement of annual grants to European schools by Rs 30,000 was submitted to Government

Various special grants were given by Government, chiefly for new buildings, during the period, e g —

	Rs
St Andrew's Homes, Kalimpong	60,000
Calcutta Free School	29,000
Loreto Orphanage, Entally	20,000
La Martinière, Calcutta	30,000

In 1924 the Legislative Council rejected the sum of Rs 99,000 provided in the budget for direct grants to non-Government primary schools for Europeans, but the money was eventually found by reappropriation In that year, an additional grant had to be made to the Kalimpong Homes. The method of granting aid to this institution was changed; and instead of special capitation and other grants, it was brought under the operation of the ordinary grant-in-aid rules for European schools It was also made clear that special grants to European schools could only be given in extraordinary cases

10 Buildings.—Thanks to Government grants and other gifts, it was possible to carry through some major schemes The Queen's Hill School, Darjeeling, was removed to a fine modern building on a new site and Government gave Rs 78,000 towards this project At the Loreto Convent, Entally, a new block was built and large repairs executed St Thomas's Girls' School was removed to Kidderpore A new school, St Vincent de Paul's, was built at Asansol, another step in the removal of the slum boarding schools of Calcutta to more salubrious environment, this was made possible by Sir Percy Newson's gift of Rs 10 lakhs, recorded in the last review To this bequest also is due the fine new dormitory at Dow Hill School A new school has been created at St James's, Calcutta, and plans for further buildings have been made The Jewish Girls' School is under reconstruction The Jewish community has also contributed to the new Elias Meyer Free School for Jewish Boys. At Kalimpong, a new residential Convent of St Joseph has risen and received recognition The quinquennium has therefore seen a great improvement in this direction

11 General activities.—The Dalton Laboratory Plan was tried in 3 schools, during the period St Paul's, Darjeeling, the Diocesan Girls' School, Darjeeling, and the Pratt Memorial School, Calcutta-but it was everywhere abandoned after a short experiment But, in other ways, valuable additions have been made to the range of school activities In 1923 the school singing competition, managed by the Young Women's Christian Association, was taken over and remodelled Music is chosen at the beginning of each year and the competition is held at Calcutta and at Darjeeling The results have been very encouraging "Schools," says the Inspector, "have made their singing classes a real and living thing and, by engaging (in some cases) special teachers, have improved in a remarkable manner" In December 1926 a public concert was given in Calcutta by the combined choirs Candidates have continued to appear for the examinations of the Trinity College of Music, London, and those of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music, London These latter were first held in India in 1925 Both in 1925 and in 1926 one of the two scholarships, tenable in London for two years, offered for the whole of India, was awarded to a candidate from Bengal In conjunction with the Inter-Schools' Singing Contest, an Elocution Competition was also inaugurated in 1926

In 1923 a very successful exhibition of pupils' work was held in the hall of the Calcutta Free School and this was repeated the next year at the La Martiniere They "served to show that there was a wealth of artistic talent in the schools and, by exemplifying special work and special methods of teaching, they had a very sound pedagogical value"

In 1923, the European Schools, Bengal, Athletic Association was inaugurated and welcomed by all schools The annual sports meetings have been largely attended, and in 1925 inter-school competitions were started in hockey, cricket, football, swimming and boxing Physical education has been much improved, especially in girls' schools, by the training courses held by the Young Women's Christian Association Physical Directress The course extends from January to August and in 1926, 20 teachers and students entered for the final examination and all passed Since 1926 an annual Inter-School Drill Competition has been held in two sections, for juniors and seniors, and many schools competed The Physical Directress also visited the hill schools and reported to Government on the state of physical education in them

12 New Code of Regulations.—The Code of Regulations, last revised in 1910, had become out of date, and in 1922 a completely new draft was made This was printed and circulated to teachers and managers and discussed in a conference in March 1923 In the summer of that year it was again revised by the Inspector in the light of the criticisms made and submitted to the department Further changes were made in the following years and in 1926 it assumed more or less definite shape Government have given a general approval,

The intention of the Code is towards a measure of freedom in development directed towards a definite aim. A way of approach is provided towards the higher courses of Calcutta University The Code contemplates a register of teachers and a State Provident Fund—two measures which will improve the quality and status of teachers. Free-boarding grants to secondary schools are to be generally discontinued It proposes the delegation of powers to the Inspector of European Schools in respect of the award of free boarding grant, maintenance grant and cadet grant

13 Government institutions.—Government maintains, as before, three institutions for Europeans at Kurseong The revision of the pay and prospects of the staff took place at the end of the previous quinquennium, in 1922, it was further decided that the Head Master of Victoria School and the Principal of the Dow Hill Training College and School should both be placed in the Indian Educational Service In 1922, a joint hospital was opened with wards for boys and girls in separate wings In 1921, Governing Bodies were established for the respective schools, and the next year a standing committee was formed, consisting of the local Governors and the Inspector and Inspectress, to advise upon ordinary current business and handle matters of detail The scale of fees has been revised to the advantage of the total fee income

In the last period, the Dow Hill Training College and Girls' School were placed under one head But there are strong arguments for carrying this unification further The Inspector suggests in his report that economy in work and money might be effected and much duplication avoided by having a joint Principal for all the three institutions The Principal would be the administrative head, but each institution would have its own educational head But this is a large problem, which cannot be discussed in this report

The Training College trains women teachers, the course is for two years, the number of places is 20 In 1921, there were only 2 second year students, but efforts to bring the institution up to its maximum strength have been successful During the period 43 students have passed out and most of them have fulfilled the agreement to serve Bengal schools for two years But the basis of admission is too narrow, and the College turns out only teachers for the Kindergarten and lower classes It makes no provision for training in domestic subjects and art The Inspector proposes a comprehensive scheme for the development of the College He suggests that it should be affiliated to Calcutta University for the B A, B Sc and B T courses, and admit three types of students—those who will take up a general academic course, those who will take an academic course and a professional training as specialist teachers, those who will undergo Kindergarten training or special training as domestic science or art teachers

The Dow Hill School has been improved by the filling up of vacancies for teachers of Science and Geography A splendid new dormitory of three storeys to accommodate 90 girls has been built, thanks to Sir Percy Newson's gift A vernacular mistress has been appointed and Bengali has taken the place of French in the curriculum There is an excellent system of teaching Domestic Science, and the school is the best equipped girls' school in the province for games and physical exercise A mistress of physical education has been appointed to the staff

In the Victoria School, certain posts, long vacant, were filled during the period and the staff is now practically complete But there is need of better provision for science, manual work and art, and plans are being prepared for the erection of separate buildings for this purpose A scheme for a preparatory school proved abortive

The expenditure and receipts in 1926-27 were as follows.—

	Expenditure	Receipts
	Rs	Rs
Training College	30,165
Dow Hill Girls' School	1 50,253	40,719
Victoria School	1,44,349	45,109

14 Bruce Institution.—The control of this charity is vested, as previously, in a board of 12 Governors, of whom 7 are appointed by Government and 5 are ex-officio The Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, is the Honorary Secretary to the Board. At the close of the year 1926 there were 104 wards on the rolls.

15 Sussex Trust.—The following expenditure was incurred during 1926-27 out of the income of the Sussex Trust Fund —

(1) Construction of dormitories for the Dow Hill Girls' School, Kurseong— Rs 36,285

(2) Scholarships for European boys—Rs 4,053-15-6

(3) Scholarships for European girls—Rs 3,108-7-9

(4) Scholarships for domiciled community—Rs 3,342-8-3

(5) Maintenance of primary school for Indian boys—Rs 179-5-9

(6) Education of depressed classes—Rs 2,725-10-3

(7) Scholarships for passed students of Bengal Engineering College—Rs 4,187-3-9

Altogether 31 scholars profited by the scholarships given Of them 6 are enjoying scholarships in the United Kingdom

CHAPTER IX.

The education of other special classes.

1 Chiefs and Nobles.—In Bengal, there is no special school for Chiefs' sons, but in connection with the Nawab Bahadur's institution at Murshidabad, there is a hostel, under the control of the European Head Master, for boys of the Nizamat family The number of boys was 26, the same as in 1921-22 and 1916-17 The expenditure from public revenues was Rs 6,195 in 1926-27

2 Backward classes.—Very considerable progress has been made in the education of the backward classes, if one may judge from the numbers attending schools and colleges

	1921 22			1926 27
	Boys	Girls	Total	Boys	Girls	Total
Arts and professional colleges	197		197	1,595	3	1,598

	85,159	11,393	96,552	307,784	36,395	344,179(a)

(a) Includes backward classes among Hindus only

That is, where there were two "backward" children at school five years ago, now there are seven But this is not all a real increase, for during the quinquennium some new tribes or classes were placed on the list of educationally backward classes, which accounts in part for the apparent increase Such are the Jugis or Naths, the Mahishyas, the Sutradhars, who between them, in Chittagong Division, for instance, contribute no fewer than 10 315 pupils to a total of 21,198 But, even when this allowance has been made, there is no doubt that education has been spreading among the backward classes at a rate much faster than among other classes The growth is, of course, mainly at the bottom, and a large number of pupils never pass the lowest class in the primary school

Much of the credit for this progress must be given to the various missionary societies,* which have engaged in work among the backward classes Nor should the Society for the Improvement of the Backward Classes be forgotten, it maintains over 400 schools in different parts of the Presidency, with the help of an annual Government grant, recently increased to Rs 9,250 Since 1922-23, Government have made an additional sum of Rs 20,000 per year available for the education of the backward classes Part of this amount has gone to provide facilities for the training of teachers and part for special scholarships But the most gratifying feature is the keenness of some of the backward classes, especially the Namasudras, to help themselves.

3 Namasudras.—The Namasudras are specially numerous in the districts of Faridpur and Bakarganj (Dacca Division), but they are found in other parts of Bengal in smaller numbers In Dacca Division, one in twenty of the total population of Namasudras is at school, the increase during the quinquennium being 68 1 per cent In the two districts mentioned, no fewer than 9 high schools and 17 middle schools many of them maintained by the community -are attended mainly by Namasudra pupils, and they have special hostels in several other institutions In Chittagong Division, the Namasudra pupils increased by 110 per cent The spread of education among them marks the Namasudras as destined speedily to emerge from the position of a "backward" class

4 Santals.—The Santals also deserve special mention In Bengal, they are found chiefly in the Burdwan and Rajshahi Divisions, and here in six districts there are Boards of Sontal Education, "special ad hoc bodies, started mainly at the instance of local Christian Missionaries" Three of these, in Birbhum, Rangpur and Malda, were established during the period Various schemes for the expansion of Santal education were approved by Government, after the close of the quinquennium The school at Bhimpore, "which is the central school and coping-stone of a large system of primary schools in the north-western part of the Midnapore district, established by the American Baptist Mission," was recently raised to the high school status and, in 1927, had 192 pupils on the rolls Reference has already been made to the interesting experiment of teaching by the "project" method, which is in operation in this school

We may also notice in passing the Pods, who have started schools in Khulna and Jessore and the Maghs of the Chittagong district, whose education appears to have suffered a set-back during the period

5 Aboriginal races.—The aboriginal races are limited chiefly to Dacca and Chittagong Divisions In the district of Mymensingh, there were 15 schools (one a middle school) with 1,202 pupils of the aboriginal tribes In Chittagong, a whole district, the Chitttagong Hill Tracts, constitutes a backward area, inhabited by no fewer than 13 distinct tribes, numbering in all over 132,000 There, there is a high school the Rangamati Government High School and 2 middle schools (one new) and 151 primary schools The Rangamati school is largely residential and has 3 hostels attached, the Matriculation results are excellent, but the training given is perhaps too literary, with little relation to the environment of the pupils The industrial school proved a failure and in its place was substituted a manual training class at the high school The number of primary schools dropped from 172 to 151, some unaided schools which were hampered for funds being abolished Thus, no actual, tangible progress has been made in this region, if anything, there is a slight retrogression

6 Miscellaneous classes.—In different places, there are schools for special classes of children Thus, in the Dacca district, there are a few primary schools for Muchi children and the children of fishermen, for whom the Chittagong Municipality also provides schools These schools are free So are the schools in the coal mines area of the Burdwan district, 10 in number In the Presidency Division there are special schools at Titagarh, Ichapur and Kankinara for the children of mill-hands In the Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri districts, there were 136 tea-garden schools, as against 94 in 1921-22 The number of pupils was 2,909 and the total cost of maintenance Rs 18,111, to which Government contributed Rs 8,968 The free primary schools started in the colonisation area of the Sunderbans have increased their numbers from 339 in 1921-22 to 513

There were 8 schools in the cantonment areas of Barrackpore and Dum-Dum, with 493 pupils One of these was a high school for boys, 1 a middle school for girls and the rest primary schools, 4 for boys and 2 for girls Seven were aided and 1 unaided The total expenditure was Rs 24,437, of which Rs 6,247 came from provincial revenues

The total number of Jain students in 1927 was 14 in colleges, 333 in secondary and primary schools The Jain school at Bogra, started in 1923-24, seems to have fallen on evil days The number of pupils sank from 57 in 1924 to 10 in 1925

7 Criminal classes.—Not much information is available about the education of children of the so-called "criminal tribes" The Salvation Army runs a school for the Karwal Nuts in the colony at Saidpur (Rangpur district), which is attended by 59 persons. In Calcutta, the Reformatory School, which has been in existence for some years, has been transferred from the Jail to the Education Department. It has a general section with 3 teachers and a technical section with 4 teachers and a drill instructor. The number of pupils, all under 15, is 51. It is proposed to divide juvenile offenders according to age, to establish an industrial school in Calcutta for those under 14 and to send the others to a "Borstal Institution" at Bankura.

8. Defective children.—The Home at Kurseong for physically and mentally deficient European children carried on its work and had 16 inmates in 1927.

Of schools for the deaf and dumb, there are 6 in the Presidency, including 2 new schools at Chittagong and Faridpur. The total number of pupils was 180. The teaching is of the primary standard, but instruction is also given in other subjects like carpentry, tailoring, printing, hand-loom weaving. Of these, the largest is the Calcutta School, with 109 pupils, of whom about two-thirds are boarders. Several of the day pupils are girls. There is a teachers' training department, which has supplied teachers to deaf and dumb schools in Bengal and as far abroad as Baroda, Ahmedabad and Mysore. In the school department, besides a course in languages, mathematics and elementary science, there is an industrial and technical side, which provides instruction in drawing and painting and modelling, carpentry, sewing and printing. In 1926, the expenditure amounted to Rs. 39,736, which was met by Government grants (Rs. 13,100), a grant from the Calcutta Corporation, donations, fees and the receipts of the industrial department. Different District Boards give 25 stipends to deaf and dumb children tenable at this school and the Government of Assam gives 5 scholarships of Rs. 18 each. The progress made in the education of the deaf and dumb is gratifying, but when one remembers that the census of 1921 recorded 32,560 deaf-mutes in Bengal alone, it is evident that only the fringe of the problem has been touched.

The single Blind School in Bengal was transferred in 1925 from Calcutta to a spacious site in the suburbs at Behala, Government contributing over half a lakh of rupees towards the new building. The purchase of a motor bus allows day scholars to attend, but the great majority are boarders. In 1927, there were 57 pupils, 42 boys and 15 girls or, by religion, 36 Hindus, 3 Muhammadans and 18 Christians. The total expenditure was Rs. 26,198, of which Rs. 5,315 came from public revenues. In addition, the Corporation gives a grant, the Government of Assam awards 6 stipends and various District Boards also offer scholarships. The school has also been successful in attracting private gifts and the capital value of the endowments is nearly a lakh and a quarter. The institution attempts to train blind children to earn their own living, and typewriting and telephony are taught, as well as basket-making, chair-making, wool-knitting, sewing, weaving. General education is also given, up to the Matriculation standard and, in 1926, 1 student passed the Matriculation in the first class with distinction in two subjects. An ex-pupil pursued higher studies in College and University and, after obtaining a first class in M. A. in Philosophy, was appointed lecturer in one of the Calcutta Colleges. The Patna Blind School was started by another alumnus of the Calcutta School. A record like this shows what can be done for the blind and it is a matter for regret that similar institutions have not arisen in other parts of the province to alleviate the condition of the many thousands who are cut off by this affliction from the cheerful ways of men and many of the fairest pages of the book of knowledge.

CHAPTER X.

Professional Education.

Training of teachers.

A.—MEN.

1. Colleges.—In 1921-22, there were 118 students in training in the two training colleges at Calcutta and Dacca. The number fell to 92 in 1923-24, owing to the reduction of the number of stipends given, but in 1926-27 it rose again to 136. Of these, 25 were students preparing for the L. T.

Every year, therefore, about 100 graduates are trained for the teaching profession When we remember that there are nearly 22,000 teachers in secondary schools and that only 1 in 50 of them are trained graduates, it is clear that the output of the training colleges is much too small, little more than is required to fill the places of the trained teachers who retire At this rate, a very long period will elapse before the majority of teachers are trained

But even this supply, a mere trickle as it is, was threatened at the source during the period The Bengal Retrenchment Committee expressed the opinion that a teacher's own capacity and education were his chief qualification and that training made little or no difference They recommended, therefore, that the training colleges should be abolished.

Against this view, however, Government reacted strongly Lord Lytton, the late Governor of Bengal, in opening the new building of the David Hare Training College, said

"The ceremony which I have come to perform may be taken as an emphatic declaration by the Government, that the teaching profession is no longer to be regarded as the last resort of those who are incapacitated for any other profession, that it is rather the most responsible and important of all professions, that those who embrace it require as good a training as those who enter any other profession, and, let me not hesitate to add, that our action involves also the recognition that trained teachers are entitled to adequate salaries"

The existing colleges have accordingly been retained and schemes have been proposed for the creation of two new colleges, one at Chittagong and one for women teachers in Calcutta

The rate of progress is thus very slow, the trained teachers are a mere sprinkling, the atmosphere of many schools is hostile to all experiment, impatient of new methods and new ideas The result is that trained teachers returning to their schools find themselves in uncongenial and unsympathetic surroundings and quickly lose their enthusiasm and initiative Many teachers also go for training after some years in a school, during which they have become wedded to methods from which the one year spent in training is scarcely sufficient to divorce them They come with opinions already formed and are not very ready to give them up Here again cram, that blight of Indian education, thwarts the efforts for better things What is learned at the training college often remains theoretical and unassimilated, regarded merely as necessary for a degree which has a commercial value and not as having any direct bearing on the daily routine of the teacher's task This result may be avoided, partly by making the curriculum as practical as possible and making (as is done now) the student's success depend on his work throughout the year rather than in a final examination alone, and partly by attracting to the training college young graduates rather than those who have already essayed the art of teaching and grown "old and cold and weary"

These difficulties and dangers have not been unperceived Government have had under consideration the feasibility of a "refresher" course for trained teachers A scheme has been submitted to give a short course of training to all untrained teachers of English of high, middle and normal schools and senior madrasahs in the province Owing to the impending vernacularisation of the Matriculation course, it has become urgently necessary to make teachers of English familiar with modern methods of language teaching This scheme is now being considered The Inspector for Chittagong Division, after a careful survey of the present situation, proposes an interesting alternative scheme, which may be presented in his own words.—

"Allow teachers to train themselves by private study—reading and applying their newly-gained knowledge in the classes After, say, 5 years' experience in a recognised school, they should be allowed to take an examination consisting of all the necessary theory papers, together with a prolonged test Sufficient safeguards could be introduced in the condition of admission to the examination to ensure a reasonable probability of passing

"Such a scheme would have the following advantages:—

"(1) It would obviate the necessity of building and maintaining a large number of training colleges and would provide the requisite number of trained teachers.

"(2) It would provide an atmosphere in each school such that those who have been trained in the normal way will be able to apply their knowledge on return The reason why the majority of people do not see the necessity for training is that it is unfortunately too often true that there is no perceptible change in the efficiency of a teacher after he returns from college He is afraid to try new methods for fear of being laughed at and quickly relapses into the old ways

"(3) The best teachers of the schools will study the new methods and become trained, for their market value will thereby increase At the present moment those deputed to the training college are not always the best teachers Committees will not allow their best men leave for the requisite time to attend the training college

"(4) The scheme would be relatively inexpensive Apart from good teachers' libraries in all schools and the cost of conducting the examination, there would be no outlay involved"

This scheme appears attractive, but one may doubt its feasibility For one thing, very few teachers would have the energy, enthusiasm and capacity to devote time and study to their profession in addition to their ordinary school duties, and, for another, it will be difficult for them to get the all-important practical training under the right conditions Any scheme which attempts to accelerate the progress of training deserves, however, the most careful consideration

2 The David Hare Training College.—The chief event in the history of the David Hare Training College is its removal to a new site at Ballygunge The land, 6 acres, had been bought as early as 1914, but it was only in 1923-25 that the buildings were erected and the institution moved out from its narrow lodgings in Harrison Road to its new and permanent home This includes a college and a hostel for 60 students and a demonstration school for 270 boys, houses for the Principal and Head Master and some additions to the school remain to be built

The majority of the students are now stipendiaries Most of the eligible Government school teachers and inspecting officers have been trained and the number of such during 1926-27 was only 5 Of aided school teachers there were 22, and the rest 30, were stipendiary students The sanction of allowances for all students-in-training in 1926 and the offer of a guaranteed post to the non-teacher student who stands highest in the first class in the examination have proved strong attractions to young graduates Every year a considerable number has to be rejected for lack of accommodation, but the Muhammadans have never taken full advantage of the number of stipends reserved for them In 1926-27, there were 21 Muhammadan students in the College

The B T is far the more popular course And now that Government have passed orders that all selected candidates for posts in the English teachers' grade or for Sub-Inspectorships must have obtained the B T degree, except first class M A 's or M Sc 's, the demand for the L T course has almost ceased

The demonstration School attached to the College was opened in January 1927 by His Excellency Lord Lytton The staff has been carefully selected out of 800 applicants and consists of 9 experienced B T 's, 2 pandits, a maulvi, a drawing master and a drill master

3 The Dacca Training College.—The number of students at the Teachers' Training College, Dacca, increased from 68 in 1921-22 to 79 in 1926-27 The Principal reports that the demand for admission greatly exceeds the accommodation available and, what is of good augury, that the students are of much better quality than before Most of the students come from the eastern divisions of Bengal, but there is each year a large contingent from Assam and a few from Hyderabad, Deccan The hostel accommodation is insufficient and a scheme for another hostel is before Government The class room space is also inadequate.

Two or three features distinguish the Dacca Training College from other institutions of the same type First, the course is selective, allowing many possible combinations and groups of subjects Secondly, the system of "internal marking," according to which the examination is used rather to confirm or adjust the opinion of the staff than to be the sole criterion. Thirdly, the conduct of research and experiment in educational subjects Thus, a Bengali handwriting scale has been prepared, a study is nearly ready of the word frequency of Bengali based on a count of 100,000 words Seven papers were contributed by the staff and ex-students of the College to the section of Psychology in the Indian Science Congress at Lahore in 1926, and the researches in English teaching made during the past six years have been published in Occasional Report 13 of the Government of India

The College has also done much propaganda work In 1925, it held an Educational Exhibition at Dacca, which aroused great interest and attracted many visitors and subsequent inquiries Exhibits from the College were sent to Aligarh, where they were awarded a first prize in the Education Section Lectures, exhibitions and demonstrations have been given at various places in East Bengal The College is largely responsible for those developments in the methods of teaching which have of late been so rapid, that a pamphlet on Experiment in Education has been issued through the Director of Public Instruction to be used in schools and to serve as a basis for discussion in the proposed annual conference of Head Masters

The expenditure on the College in 1926-27 was Rs 93,465 as against Rs 89,341 in 1921-22

4 State scholarships.—In the latter part of the quinquennium additional facilities were created by Government for the professional training of graduate teachers employed in Government secondary schools in the Presidency During each of the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 two State scholarships of the value of £250 a year each (with war bonus of £37½ annually) were awarded to one Moslem and one non-Moslem teacher to enable them to pursue a course of training in Great Britain for two years

5 First grade training or normal schools. The first grade training schools are intended for the training of vernacular teachers for secondary schools The opinion was reported in the last review that these schools had been tried and found wanting But they filled a useful place in the educational economy and could not be dispensed with Their reorganisation was the only alternative In 1926, a Committee of educational officers was appointed to report on the whole question of training schools It recommended that the course should be one of two years (as now in East Bengal, whereas West Bengal has a three years' course) and should include an advanced course of instruction in general knowledge through the vernacular The equipment of many of the students was very scanty and there was often no foundation to build on But it may be noted that a better class of pupil is being attracted or driven to the normal school in the Hooghly School, out of 87 pupils 11 were Matriculates The Committee suggests that the qualification for the admission of students should be the Matriculation and that the courses of instruction should be at least of the Matriculation standard But a better type of pupil will come only by the pressure of economic necessity or by the attraction of decent posts It is proposed, therefore, to put the trained Matriculate on the same level as the I A and eligible for the Head Mastership of a middle school In this connexion, it may be pointed out that at the Krishnagar Training School a scheme has been devised to combine the training with the high school course, so that pupils who go through the training school may also be able to appear at the Matriculation

The financial difficulties of the Government caused in 1922-23 a reduction of the stipend given to normal school pupils from Rs 10 to Rs 6 This was an insufficient sum and compared unfavourably with the Rs 10, which the pupils of guru-training schools received, and in 1925-26, the former amount was restored, as were 79 stipends which had been in abeyance The Committee proposes to increase the stipend to Rs 15

The number of normal schools remained unchanged at 6, 5 Government institutions and 1 managed by the Church Missionary Society and aided by Government at Krishnagar The number of students was 469 in 1921-22; and, in 1926-27, 441 The total expenditure at the beginning of the quinquennium was Rs 1,16,898 and at the end Rs 1,24,328 Of this, provincial revenues contributed Rs 1,24,182

The Committee does not propose any increase in the number of normal schools or pupils About 200 trained teachers a year is all that is needed—and that the existing schools can produce What is needed is an improvement in quality and not an increase in quantity This can be done by obtaining a better kind of pupil and by giving him a better training in a better course.

The course suggested includes the following compulsory subjects: General method and School management, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic and Geometry, Hygiene, Practical teaching In addition, the pupil has to pass in the matter and method of teaching three of the following subjects English, Geography, History, Elementary Biology and Agriculture, Drill, Games, Scouting and First-Aid, Manual work and Drawing

The report of the Committee is under the consideration of Government

6 Guru- and Muallim-Training Schools.—For the retention of the guru- and muallim-training schools, the Retrenchment Committee saw no need, and Government decided to abolish 32 guru-training schools of the old type when 8 new schools of the improved type had been built This policy had been steadily followed during the quinquennium The total number of guru-training schools in 1927 was 84, not including 6 muallim-training schools In 1922, there were 102 and in 1917 as many as 118 Of the 90 existing schools, 28 were of the improved type, 85 were managed by Government and the rest by Missions The number of pupils also fell considerably, from 2,047 to 1,749

As things are, it is doubtful if there is any cause for regret in the decline in numbers The pupils who come are for the most part very ill-qualified The Rajshahi report says "Recruitment of gurus is becoming increasingly difficult year after year The general attainments of the existing untrained gurus are so low that very few of them can stand the admission test of the schools, not to speak of their profiting by a course of training" An intelligence test of the applicants for admission in that division revealed the fact that a large number were quite unfit to be teachers There is a consensus of opinion on this point The first thing to be done to improve the quality of the teaching is to attract to the training schools men likely to benefit by training and this is impossible unless the teacher is paid better The Inspector for Dacca Division comments "The importance of providing an adequate supply of trained teachers is obvious, but so far at least as primary schools are concerned, the task cannot be accomplished, because no solution has yet been attempted of the problem of giving the guru a living wage The existing number of guru-training schools cannot turn out a sufficient number of trained teachers to take the place of those who year by year retire But it is useless to increase the number of guru-training schools, unless the teaching profession is first made more attractive A guru under training is given a stipend of Rs 10 But many gurus when actually at work in their schools earn little more than Rs. 6 or Rs 7 The question of improvement in primary teaching hinges on finance"

That is the first problem The second is to provide a sufficient number of good training schools, teaching a suitable curriculum The old type schools are generally condemned, but the new type schools seem satisfactory, up to a point—their number, however, is still small There is yet another problem The primary schools themselves, with few exceptions, are, as the Inspector for Burdwan points out, "so poor in everything—situation, buildings, furniture and teaching apparatus—that the teachers hardly find scope to show the value of their training The net result is that the quality of the teaching in the ordinary primary school does not improve much, notwithstanding the large expenditure incurred on training institutions"

The departmental Committee dealt with guru-training schools as well and made the following recommendations among others (1) that the entrance qualification should be middle English or middle vernacular passed, (2) that the length of the course should be two years, (3) that the old type of training schools should be abolished, (4) that Government should guarantee a salary of Rs 15 to passed students, (5) that the Head Masters of training schools should be B T 's

The number of candidates who obtained the certificate in 1921-22 was 1,412; in 1926-27, only 1,109

The expenditure in 1921-22 was Rs. 3,02,132 and in 1926-27, Rs 2,73,343 Of this, Rs 2,71,176 came from provincial revenues

B.—WOMEN.

7 Training colleges.—The higher training of women teachers continued throughout the period to be in an unsettled and unsatisfactory state The Training Department of the Diocesan College was the only institution that prepared women for the B T degree The authorities of the College, however, found the task increasingly difficult, in spite of an addition of Rs 1,074 to the annual grant of Rs. 7,200 In 1923 Government sanctioned a capital grant of Rs 5,971 for the construction of an additional lecture room, but the accommodation, both for classes and boarders, is still unsatisfactory The College, therefore, appealed to Government to be relieved of the responsibility of this department, which was undertaken as a temporary measure in 1913 until a Government training college could be provided The scheme for such an institution has often been proposed, but no action has yet been taken Plans are, however, now being prepared and it may be hoped that the next review will be able to chronicle the establishment of a women's training college

In 1926-27, the Diocesan College presented 16 candidates for the B T, of whom 15 passed The Loreto House trains women for the L T, and in 1926-27, 5 of them were successful in the examination

8 Training schools.—Here, again, there is no marked progress to report In fact, the number of training schools fell from 12 to 10 The English training class attached to the Eden High School, Dacca, ceased to exist and the St Mary's Training Class, Calcutta, merged into the United Missionary Training Class But the loss was apparent rather than substantial, for the Dacca English Training Class had in 1922 a single pupil and the Calcutta Institution has merely been absorbed by a larger school The total number of pupils in 1921-22 was 200, in 1926-27, 201

Of the 10 schools, no fewer than 8 are in the western divisions and 7 of these are in Calcutta Three of the 10 are managed by Government and the rest by Christian and Brahmo Missions Of the Government institutions, the largest is the vernacular Training School at Dacca, which during the quinquennium sent up 112 candidates for the Senior and Junior Vernacular Teachership Examinations, as against 67 in the preceding quinquennium, 79 were successful The Hindu Widows' Training Class, also managed by Government, moved in 1926 from Ballygunge to a more spacious house in Entally The third Government institution is the Moslem Women Teachers' Training School, which was reorganised and stabilised during the period The number of stipends was increased from 10 to 15 and the staff was also strengthened But an outbreak of beri-beri compelled the school to change its habitation at the end of 1926

Of the aided schools, one is at Krishnagar and one at Kalimpong, while the rest are all in Calcutta The best of them appears to be the United Missionary Training Class which—so says the Inspectress for West Bengal—"gives a very superior training and turns out a superior type of teachers" "Their handwork," she continues, "deserves special comment, there is a great deal of originality in the work"

The results of the examinations were as follows —

WEST BENGAL

1924 25	22	17
1925 26	27	23
1926-27	30	27

The total expenditure on all these schools together was Rs 70,970 as against Rs 82,635 in 1921-22. To this sum, provincial revenues contributed Rs 60,264 It is clear that the main burden falls on Government, which is perhaps one reason why more progress has not been made That there is a demand for trained women teachers is admitted The Inspectress for West Bengal says that the candidates are "booked before the examination results are out The schools realise the necessity for engaging trained women teachers and in many cases the authorities are willing to do anything for their comfort" The existing schools can, without much difficulty or increase of staff, train a larger number of teachers The trouble is partly that the number of applicants is limited, and partly that the number of stipends is inadequate More could and should be done—but the whole problem of women's education is only now beginning to receive the attention which is its due

9 Legal education.—As in 1922, there are 3 institutions for the teaching of Law—the Calcutta University Law College and the Law classes of the Ripon College and Dacca University But the number of students has risen by about 50 per cent from 2,439 in 1922 to 3,638 in 1927, only about a sixth, 615, were Muhammadans, while the great majority were Hindus Out of 1,732 candidates who appeared for the B L Examination, 786 were successful It is a significant thing that for every 1 graduate who trains for teaching, 8 men qualify to be lawyers The expenditure from fees alone in the Calcutta Law Colleges was Rs 3,03,846, the expenses of the Law Department at Dacca are not separately reckoned, but are included in the general expenses of the University

10 Medical education.—To the two medical colleges, the Calcutta Medical College and the Carmichael Medical College, Belgachia, a third was added early in the period in the School of Tropical Medicine

The Calcutta Medical College, which is a Government institution, had altogether 939 pupils on its rolls on 31st March 1927, the maintenance charges for 1926-27, amounted to Rs 4,49,295.

The Carmichael Medical College is an aided institution, but of the total expenditure of Rs 1,33,859 in 1926-27, only Rs 14,500 came from provincial revenues—the rest was met by the fee income The hospital appointments are honorary, but the teaching staff is underpaid, owing to the lack of funds Various improvements have been made during the period and, in particular, a new building has been erected for the Anatomy Department, the greater part of the expenses being defrayed by a Government grant of Rs 50,000 But there is still need for a fully-equipped maternity hospital, which is estimated to cost Rs 3 lakhs The number of students was 598 in 1926-27, almost all Hindus A provident fund for the staff was started in 1926

In the School of Tropical Medicine, there were 79 students in 1926-27, including 6 women The expenditure was Rs 3,40,183, all from provincial revenues, except Rs 20,270, which came from fees

The number of medical schools is difficult to determine, for they spring up easily and wither easily and many of them are not officially "recognised" The number, 10, in the official returns, is not therefore exact Of the institutions managed by Government, the Campbell Medical School, Calcutta, is the largest The others are the Ronaldshay Medical School, Burdwan, established in 1921-22, which had 180 pupils and cost Rs 50,124 including Rs 8,571, which came from provincial revenues, in 1926-27, the Medical School at Dacca with 573 pupils, including 16 women, and a total expenditure of Rs 96,966, and the Medical School at Mymensingh, which was provincialised during the quinquennium and cost Rs 37,528 for its 210 pupils. The total number of pupils in all medical schools was 2,282 and the total cost Rs 3,37,758 The corresponding figures in the last review were 1,415 and Rs. 2,42,907.

11 Bengal Veterinary College.—On 31st March 1927, there were 125 students on the rolls in the three classes as against 143 on the corresponding date of 1922 The total expenditure on the college during the year 1926-27 amounted to Rs 2,23,777, of which Rs 2,23,511 came from provincial revenues and Rs 266 from fees

The Committee of Management, which was reconstituted during the year 1926-27, consists of 9 members

The Bengal Cruelty to Animals Act, 1920, was introduced into Calcutta on the 1st October 1926, and the hospital attached to this College was declared an infirmary under the Act for the treatment and care of animals

12 Engineering and surveying—Bengal Engineering College.—The higher training in engineering is imparted in the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpur In civil engineering, the four-year degree course is followed by a year of practical training, in mechanical and electrical engineering, the course is of three years, ending in a Diploma Examination, followed by an additional year in mechanical engineering leading to the Associateship The practical training is specially important in mechanical engineering and extends to two or three years and in recent years attempts have been made to co-ordinate college and workship training An engineering college cannot maintain fully-equipped workshops nor would training under such conditions be nearly as useful as training in an actual engineering business The solution, therefore, was in co-operation between educational and workshop authorities It was with this object that the Board of Control for Apprenticeship Training was formed in 1921 It aimed, to quote from the Principal's report, first "to provide men so trained as to be qualified intelligently to fill positions of secondary authorities in the industries of Bengal, and, secondly, to enable all apprentices who appear qualified to obtain a training in mechanical engineering equal to that which can at present only be obtained by going to England" The preliminary training of apprentices is undertaken by the senior technical institutions, like the Calcutta Technical School, of which some account is given in the next chapter

Apprentices who have completed the course in the schools can join the second year class of the College or even the third year class and proceed to the Associateship (Degree standard) after two years in College A few apprentices have already been admitted to the second year class But the Board has only been working for five years and it is too early to judge of the success of the scheme The Principal is confident that the next review will be able to claim "very considerable progress," which will, however, be "qualitative rather than quantitative"

As a corollary, the subordinate or apprentice class at the College has been abandoned The first Diploma Examination of the Engineering Department was held in 1923 and the first Associateship Examination in 1924 The opening of the Indian School of Mines at Dhanbad has led to the closing of the Mining classes at the College; no fresh admissions have been made in 1927

Various additions and improvements fall to be recorded The staff has been strengthened and posts, long kept vacant, owing to financial stringency, have been filled Except on the Electrical side, it is now adequate to the work. The practice of having visiting lecturers in different aspects of civil engineering was continued A new hostel has been erected for European and Anglo-Indian students. The water-works and sewage disposal, sanctioned in 1919, were completed during the period The latter follows the activated sludge system A grant of Rs 60,000 for the extension of the power plant was sanctioned by the Legislative Council in 1923 and new oil-engines have been installed, hitherto, the College depended for power on steam-engines, which are now 25 years old Some other machinery has also been purchased

The total number of students was 291 in 1926-27, as against 356 in 1921-22, 143 were in the Civil Engineering classes, 70 in the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering side, 26 in the Mining classes and 52 in the Industrial or Artisan classes Of these, 245 were Hindus, 15 Europeans and Anglo-Indians, 2 Indian Christians and 29 Muhammadans. The Principal deplores the considerable falling off in the number of Anglo-Indian students and the small number of Muhammadans "The conditions," he says, "are very much the same for both They do not like to work to qualify for what they in many cases consider they should get as a favour. In spite of their inclination to shun purely literary pursuits, many members of both communities have the making of excellent engineers in them, if and only if they make a sufficient effort to reach a standard of education which will enable them to benefit by the instruction given here"

The rate of fees was increased in 1926, slightly for the Civil Engineering classes and subsequently for the Mechanical and Electrical Department The change has not affected the number of applicants The Principal regrets that the same rates were not imposed for both departments, at any rate for the first two years, where the instruction given is common. The scholarship system was also readjusted in the same year

The College supplied a platoon to the Calcutta University Training Corps in 1924 and another platoon was formed the next year The College platoons have acquitted themselves very creditably in the camp.

The results of the B E and I E Examinations in 1927 are as follows —

B E Candidates, 32, passed 21
I E —Candidates, 39, passed 22.

In the Associateship in Mechanical Engineering, 4 candidates appeared and all passed, in the Mining Diploma Examination, the 13 candidates who appeared were all successful

The total expenditure during 1926-27 was Rs 3,38,692, of which Rs 33,257 came from fees, Rs 3,01,825 from provincial revenues and the rest from other sources

13 Ahsanullah School of Engineering.—The closing of the subordinate classes at the Bengal Engineering College threw the whole burden of training overseers on the Ahsanullah Engineering School at Dacca The demand for admission became too strong to resist, and the number of students rose from 375 in 1922 to 417 in 1923 and 478 in 1925, falling slightly to 440 in 1927 Nearly all the changes and improvements in the school were, directly or indirectly, the result of this increase in numbers

Classes had to be divided into sections, and this duplication was afterwards made permanent The staff also had to be strengthened and several new posts were created, 5 new lecturers being appointed in the Subordinate Educational Service, at first as a temporary measure and later permanently Fresh hostel accommodation became necessary and several houses were hired for the overflow from the school hostels In 1926, however, Government sanctioned the construction of a new hostel for 200 students, estimated to cost Rs 3,60,000 Two buildings situated in the school compound, which had been used as temporary hostels, were permanently allotted to the school

The clerical establishment was increased to cope with the fresh volume of work

The Committee of Technical and Vocational Education, Dacca, proposed (i) a Mechanical and Electrical Engineering course of an intermediate type at the school, and (ii) University courses in Civil and Mechanical and Electrical Engineering to be conducted by the Dacca University and the Ahsanullah School in co-operation Government, after consideration, found itself unable to accept these suggestions, on the ground that the concentration and development of higher engineering studies at Sibpur was the most economical and fruitful policy

In the previous quinquennium, the four years' Overseer course had been transformed into a three years' Upper Subordinate course But experience showed that it was impossible to crowd into three years the subjects and studies that were necessary, and in 1926 the reintroduction of the old four years' course was sanctioned. Two years are taken for the Sub-Overseer course and two more for the Overseer course At the same time, certain consequential changes were made in the scheme of scholarships for Muhammadans and members of the backward classes.

Of the 440 students, 391 were Hindus, 49 Muhammadans In the examinations of 1926-27, 105 candidates appeared for the Upper Subordinate, Part B, and 70 passed; out of 131 candidates for Part A, 98 passed; and in the Lower Subordinate Examination, 36 passed out of 70.

The cost to Government in 1926-27 was Rs 91,821. Government also gave large grants during the period to meet the expenditure involved in the duplication of classes The fees were increased from Rs 3 to Rs 5 per month.

14 Surveying.—The Ahsanullah School also conducted field classes in practical surveying for its students A Pleaders' Survey Training class was also held at intervals and examinations conducted every year But the chief institution for teaching surveying in Bengal is the Mainamati Survey School This school has become increasingly popular and now attracts a better type of students In 1917, only 1 passed Matriculate was admitted and in 1921 only 14; but from 1922-27, out of a total of 230 admissions only 6 were non-matriculates and a few were graduates Most of those who pass out secure good appointments

During the period, new buildings have been constructed for the school and administrative sanction has been given for the construction of houses for the staff and a dispensary The pay of the staff has also been revised A bathing tank has been excavated The school has been placed in the non-vacation category and the number of working days has accordingly increased by about 15 per cent The courses have been revised and the first year course cut down from 14 to 12 months The mode of examination has also been improved by the Survey Education Advisory Board, greater emphasis being laid on practical surveying Government have sanctioned two stipends of Rs 20 each for students who undergo mine surveying During the period 16 candidates were trained for appointment as district kanungoes in the different divisions To attract Muhammadans, boarding stipends are given to all Muhammadan students, varying from Rs 3 to Rs 6

In the Final Survey Examination, 30 candidates appeared and 18 passed, in the Amin Examination 41 appeared and 22 passed

The expenditure on the school in 1926-27 was Rs 15,850, of which Rs 11,790 came from provincial revenues

15 Agricultural education.—Bengal is pre-eminently an agricultural country and a desire for agricultural education has slowly been gathering strength The appointment of the Royal Commission on Agriculture has stimulated this desire further, but no general plan has yet been formulated Government sent to the Punjab a committee, including both educationalists and agricultural experts, to study the scheme followed in that province, by which agriculture has been introduced into the curriculum of middle schools A report was published, which recommended the introduction of agriculture into selected secondary schools as a subject of the curriculum, displacing science, drawing and drill The course is to be similar to the Punjab course and to last four years, covering classes V and VI of the middle English school with a two years' extension course or classes V- VIII in a high school Teachers are to be sent on deputation for training to the Dacca Agricultural School A school which works a garden will receive a capital grant of Rs 550 and a school with a farm a grant of Rs 2,000 Government is to give Rs 10 per month for the pay of the teacher

The proposals have been accepted and 15 schools have been selected for the experiment Meanwhile, there are 8 secondary schools which have attached Agricultural classes Such are the Amarpur High School, the Bara Bainan Middle English School, in the district of Burdwan, the Durgapur High School, in Chittagong, and King Edward Middle English School, Hat-Chapra "The first-named institution had an officer of the Agricultural Department maintained on its staff for the practical teaching of agriculture His pay was met partly from provincial revenues and partly from district funds and partly from the interest of a large investment made by the founder of the Amarpur High School . . But the output of agricultural work done was scanty and not at all commensurate with the expenditure incurred "

Of agricultural schools proper there are 3 instead of 2 in 1921-22 The Agricultural Secondary School at Manipur Farm has 3 qualified teachers and 24 pupils, undergoing a two years' course It is a Government institution The Chinsura Agricultural School was abolished as a result of the Retrenchment Committee, but was re-established in 1924-25 as an aided institution The Manmathapur Agricultural School in Nadia is an unaided institution. The total number of pupils in the 3 schools was 117 and the total expenditure

Rs 9,388 Mention should also be made of the Ashabaree Methodist Episcopal Mission School at Asansol, which teaches practical agriculture.

For higher agricultural training, little provision has as yet been made in Bengal The Dacca Agricultural Institute, which was sanctioned, has not been established In Calcutta University there is a Professor of Agriculture, who is now a member of the Royal Commission, but no beginning has yet been made in the teaching of agriculture Proposals have been made for the addition of an Agricultural Department to Rajshahi College and a substantial endowment has been offered by the Dighapatia Raj But the matter is still under consideration and action is likely to have to await the report of the Royal Commission on Agriculture.

Finally, reference must be made to an independent institution The Inspector for Burdwan reports "One most interesting experiment in industrial education was the Institute of Rural Reconstruction at Sriniketan under the Visvabharati of Dr. Rabindra Nath Tagore Though unrecognised, the institution commands wide respect and support, and candidates are deputed from far and near to be trained in its various departments of Agriculture, Sericulture, Poultry-keeping Dairy Work, Weaving, Carpentry, Village Sanitation and Public Welfare It trained a number of teachers of primary, middle English and high schools during the quinquennium It is trying to solve the question of unemployment in a serious way."

CHAPTER XI.

Industrial and Commercial Education.

1 Technical training in universities.—In the field of industrial and technical training, Bengal can point to no new schemes or experiments In 1921, the Dacca Vocational Education Committee presented its report This made it clear that "vocational education cannot be cheap and involves much new expenditure, and that it is in general waste of money and labour to prepare students for vocations that do not exist or are already overstocked. It throws doubt on the belief of the Sadler Commission that at the intermediate stage vocational education can be so combined with general education as to produce a worker competent to earn his living" Among the definite recommendations were the following.—

(1) the making of drill and drawing compulsory in high schools,

(2) the introduction of manual training and science courses in school curricula,

(3) the establishment of University courses in such subjects as electrical and mechanical engineering, chemical technology, tanning and leather industry, botany, bacteriology and commerce

On the report, Government issued a resolution, which stated the opinion that schemes like the creation of university courses in electrical and mechanical engineering, tanning and leather work were inadvisable at present, but that Government would be prepared to support the other proposals of the Committee, provided that the institutions concerned would share the financial obligation.

2 Technical education in general schools.—Not much has, therefore, been done, to develop technological training at the University stage Scholarships for technical study abroad are, however, regularly awarded by Government, as well as for courses in higher technical colleges in other parts of India, such as the Technical College, Cawnpore, the Indian School of Mines, Dhanbad, the Jamshedpur Technical Institute In the Jagannath Intermediate College, dyeing has been introduced as one of the subjects in the I Sc course and has proved popular Several secondary and primary schools have provision for manual work or elementary industrial training, but the training given is more in the nature of an adjunct to a general education and not really vocational It is of interest in this connexion to note the work done at the Baira Primary School The Inspector for Dacca Division writes· "This was originally a free primary school under the Biss Scheme. Instruction in various crafts, such as rope-making, jute-carpeting and brick-laying, as well as agriculture, is given This is not an attempt to combine industrial with general education The industrial work done is of a very simple kind, its object being to give boys who have no money a chance to educate themselves by showing them how they can earn money in their spare time"

There are some secondary schools also which attempt to combine a general education with technical and industrial training Among these, the Maharaja of Cossimbazar's Polytechnic Institute, Calcutta, should be specially mentioned The object of this institution is to enable students to earn while they learn and to combine technical training with the Matriculation course More advanced training is given to students who give their whole time to the workshop Carpentry, smithy, cutlery, weaving and spinning, clay-modelling, tailoring, shorthand and typewriting are all taught As a rule, however, the work done by boys in the industrial sections of general schools has little market value, nor has it been found easy to fit the vocational subjects into the general curriculum, so that they usually have to be taught outside school hours The Inspector for Chittagong writes "If the vocational work of a general school has to be conducted in a separate organisation, as has invariably been the case, it is difficult to see why a general school should take up this work, which may more efficiently be done by a special vocational school"

3 Special industrial and technical schools.—And, in fact technical and industrial training is, for the most part, given in special schools Of these, there is a considerable number in Bengal—in 1926-27, no fewer than 153, representing an increase of 67 during the quinquennium, chiefly in weaving schools The number of pupils rose from 3,631 to 6,234

Apart from weaving schools, these institutions give training in crafts like carpentry, blacksmithy, tinsmithy, basket-weaving, cane-work, pottery, most of them are really artisan schools A few prepare apprentices for the railway workshops, there are some telegraphic training schools, some have sub-overseer and amin classes The girls' schools teach lace-making, embroidery and similar industries

In recent years, however, the Department of Industries has followed a definite policy in reorganising and planning the scheme of technical education "Provision is being made for technical education to commence from any stage in the cultural scheme, pari passu with a progressive course from the lowest, leading to the highest stages of technical education available It will be possible for students to enter some sphere of employment at intermediate stages, if circumstances do not allow them to continue training to the highest stage" Thus, for the illiterate or primary schoolboy, there are the artisan classes, for those who have passed the middle stage, the junior technical schools cater, while matriculates and graduates can enter the apprentice or diploma classes of the senior technical institutions

4 Senior technical schools.—There are at present three senior technical schools in the Presidency The Calcutta Technical School, opened in 1926, absorbed the Calcutta Technical Evening School, mentioned in the last review It is intended to give "theoretical training with laboratory practice in technical subjects to those actually employed in trade and industries in Calcutta and the neighbourhood, thus enabling a student to receive a sound, theoretical training, while concurrently he receives a practical training under commercial conditions" The school is affiliated to the Board of Control for Apprenticeship Training and its students may appear for the Board's examinations It is also recognised by the City and Guilds Institute of London The classes are held in the afternoon and the course is covered in four or five years The school has begun with mechanical and electrical engineering only The Director of Industries is the Chairman of the Governing Body, which includes members appointed by the Government of Bengal, by public bodies and by business firms in Calcutta. In 1926-27, Government gave a grant to the institution of Rs 47,500; and nearly Rs 20,000 was realised from fees

The two other senior technical schools are the Kanchrapara School and the Kharagpur School, run in connexion with the Eastern Bengal Railway and the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, respectively They are intended mainly for the training of railway apprentices A specialised training of a high order is given by the Ishapore Ordnance Training Class

5 Junior technical schools.—The junior technical schools have often artisan classes attached to them The scheme is to provide such institutions for the district towns, wherever possible A brief account is given of some of the more important —

(1) The Burdwan Technical School, managed by the District Board, has three departments—the Lower Subordinate, teaching up to the Sub-Overseer standard, the Artisan class, the Amin class There are 48 pupils and the 8 candidates who appeared at the Sub-Overseer examination in 1926-27 were all successful The cost to Government was Rs 2,618

(2) The Khulna Coronation School, managed by the District Board, which contributed Rs 8,817 The subjects taught are carpentry, blacksmithy, tinsmithy, brass-moulding The course is for three years and no fees are charged

(3) The Rangpur Technical School, managed by Government, had 73 pupils in the Artisan and Amin classes Twenty-eight pupils were successful in different examinations Of the total cost of Rs 14,699, Government met Rs 11,324, and Rs 1,884 came from the sale of work done The Amin course covers 14 months and the Artisan course 3 years

(4) The Pabna Elliot Banamali Technical School was provincialised during the quinquennium and had 91 pupils in the Sub-Overseer, Survey and Artisan classes There is a year's course for button-making Twenty passed in different examinations Rs 12,101 of the total cost of Rs 18,218 came from provincial revenues The hostel accommodates 80 boys

(5) The Rajshahi Sericultural School had 11 pupils Successful students are given an advance of Rs 250 each to construct rearing houses, with a view to taking up the profession under the supervision of the Agricultural Department, on a five years' agreement The cost to Government was Rs 5,024

(6) The Rajshahi Diamond Jubilee Technical School had 103 pupils Besides the Sub-Overseer and Amin classes, it gave instruction in carpentry, smithy, weaving and cane-work The total cost was Rs 15,479 including Rs 1,200 from Government

(7) The Kalimpong Schools, aided, 16 in number, in Kalimpong and the surrounding district, taught crafts like weaving, embroidery, tailoring, carpentry, gardening, lace-making There are schools for boys as well as for girls Altogether there were 547 pupils and the total expenditure was Rs 37,498, as against Rs 24,431 in 1921-22, but the Government grant remained unchanged at Rs 6,000

(8) The Barisal Technical School, managed by Government, had 32 pupils in its Artisan classes The abolition of the Sub-Overseer class has led to a diminution of numbers A new site was acquired long ago, but the school still remains within the Zilla School compound The total cost was Rs 10,904, of which Rs 9,283 came from provincial revenues

(9) The Elliot Technical School, Comilla, had only half its former number of pupils, 62 instead of 124 The expenditure fell also from Rs 22,667 to Rs 16,969 The District Board paid Rs 10,102 The sale of the manufactured articles brought in nearly Rs 5,000, showing a substantial increase The subjects taught are carpentry, smithy, weaving, brass-moulding and elementary mechanical engineering

(10) The Pahartali Industrial School is under the direct supervision of the Locomotive Superintendent of the Assam-Bengal Railway, and trains apprentices for the railway workshop The number of pupils was 31, the cost increased from Rs 755 to Rs 2,330

(11) The Kashi Kishore Technical School, Mymensingh, under the District Board, trains artisans in the usual subjects. There are no fees and Rs 2,000 is spent annually on scholarships The course is for three years There were 103 pupils and the total expenditure was Rs 19,328

(12) The Edward Industrial School, Bogra, managed by Government, which gives instruction in carpentry and smithy, as well as theoretical training in elementary mathematics, estimating and drawing. Twenty-five Government and 10 District Board stipends are attached to this institution.

Special mention should be made of the Calcutta Tanning Institute, which, in addition to other work, trains apprentices. There is accommodation for 24, but the applicants—several of them graduates of the bhadralok class—outnumber the vacancies. Several ex-students have set up small tanneries themselves.

6. Weaving schools.—The progress made during the period was almost entirely in weaving institutions; these have sprung up everywhere. In Chittagong, to take the most striking example, the number of weaving schools rose from 4 to 27. But the number of pupils did not rise in anything like equal ratio and the average strength of a school fell from 40 to 19. In Burdwan Division, there are 32 weaving schools, but the number of pupils is, as a rule, small. There is reason to doubt if these institutions have not multiplied beyond the needs of the moment. Besides the regular schools, there are peripatetic instructors and classes. Several of these institutions are managed by Government. Far the most important of them is the Government Weaving Institute at Serampore.

7. Government Weaving Institute, Serampore.—This institute provides instruction for two different grades of students. The higher course, extending over three years, is intended for those who have passed at least the Matriculation Examination and wish to qualify as teachers, overseers and managers of hand-weaving factories. The artisan course, of one year, is meant for actual hand-loom weavers and their sons as well as for those who engage to make weaving their profession. There were 75 students in 1927. During the period, 83 students passed the Final Diploma Examination of the Institute and 116 students passed the City and Guilds Examination of the London Institute, several of them being awarded bronze and silver medals. The session commences now in July, instead of in November. The expense has risen from Rs. 51,826 to Rs. 72,540 during the period.

But the training of men students at Serampore does not exhaust the activities of the Institute. The Female Industrial classes, organised by the Y. W. C. A. at Serampore in 1922, have been taken over by Government and affiliated to the Institute. They are in the charge of a Lady Superintendent under the supervision of the Principal of the Institute, and the pupils are taught plain and fancy needlework, spinning, weaving, carpet-making and hose-making. A higher class for women is also to be opened. Besides, a considerable number of other schools, in which instruction is given to weavers in the mufassal, are attached to the Institute. Of such there are now 8 District Weaving Schools and no fewer than 26 peripatetic weaving centres, scattered all over the province. The Institute also sends out demonstration parties to important centres to exhibit and introduce improved appliances, and it takes part in local exhibitions. Three demonstration parties have been created. Since they were organised, "jute, waste silk and coir spinning and weaving have become an important cottage industry", many peasants may be induced to take one of them up as a supplementary home industry. A handbook containing useful information on small hand and power-loom factories has been prepared, and enquirers are supplied with the addresses of firms where machinery and raw material can be purchased. Passed students are either employed in the local weaving schools or in mills and factories or set up weaving or dyeing concerns of their own.

The Weaving Institute has been doing most useful work in a thoroughly practical way. But it is badly in need of permanent buildings. Money was sanctioned for a power weaving factory attached to it, but there were no buildings available.

Reference should also be made to the Silk Weaving and Dyeing Institute which is to be established at Berhampore. Government sanctioned the scheme in 1925 and it is expected that the school will open shortly.

8. Schools of Art and Music.—In the province, there are altogether 6 schools of Art, of which one is managed by Government and three others are aided. The total number of pupils rose from 424 in 1921-22 to 567 in 1926-27, the total expenditure was Rs. 1,01,936, of which Rs. 71,149 came from public funds.

The music schools are found chiefly in Burdwan Division, where there are three aided and five unaided schools The total number of pupils was 168 in 1927 and the cost to public funds Rs 929 The question was raised during the quinquennium whether it might be possible to improve the school at Vishnupur into a first-rate institution with liberal grants from the department Vishnupur, in the Bankura district, has always been noted for musicians, and it is in the fitness of things that the music school there should be improved

9 Government Schools of Art, Calcutta.—Far the most important of the six art schools is the Government School of Art, Calcutta In October 1920 it was put under the Industries Department, but in April 1923 was transferred back to the Education Department

The number of pupils increased during the period from 268 to 335 The expenditure in 1926-27 was Rs 59,133, against Rs 49,526 in 1921-22, the part that came from fees was Rs 13,744 and Rs 4,467 respectively The large increase of fee income is due to the raising of fees in 1924, when the number of free and half-free studentships was also reduced It was, perhaps, as a result of this measure that the number of pupils, which had risen to 361 in 1924-25, dropped slightly to 354 the next year and to 335 in 1927 The local bodies continued to give scholarships to their nominees Pupils came from all parts of India, 2 were Europeans and Anglo-Indians, 6 Indian Christians, 12 Muhammadans, 2 Buddhists, 1 Sikh and the rest Hindus, including 13 of the backward classes,

A commercial Art Section class has been started on an experimental basis, to train students in subjects like designing, poster-drawing, advertising, illumination During the period the school executed some important commissions, a "Roll of Honour" memorial in metal for the Eastern Bengal Railway, a design for the Mrs Graham Memorial Entrance at Kalimpong and so forth The Fine Art Exhibition, first held in 1921, is repeated annually Many of the students obtain good posts without difficulty after passing through the school At the final examination in 1926-27, 32 candidates appeared and 18 qualified for the certificate

The Principal, Mr Percy Brown, retired after the end of the quinquennium, after having rendered to the school valuable services for many years

10 Commercial Education.—A few years ago there was a great demand for commercial education From an ordinary secondary or university education little, it was considered, was to be hoped, the professions were overcrowded, and a commercial training was supposed to open the way to a spacious range of new careers These expectations, based on no rational reckoning, but on oversanguine hopes born of disappointment in other avenues, have proved to be largely illusory But, at the same time, there have been interesting developments and steady progress in this sphere More business careers are now open to Indians of talent There is more scope for private enterprise The Imperial Bank recruits educated Indians for responsible positions There is a steady demand for trained men from an increasing number of Indian banks Schemes have been mooted for an all-India Association of Accountants and Auditors and for an Indian Institute of Bankers

11 In Universities.—Commercial education has grown to meet the demand Departments of commerce have been started in the two universities, and there is a commerce group in the Dacca Intermediate course Several colleges secured affiliation in commercial subjects and a number of commercial schools sprang up in different parts of the country

12 In Commercial Schools.—The University Commercial classes, which lead to a degree, have proved popular Apart from them, there were in 1927, fourteen commercial schools in the mufassal, with 437 pupils The subjects taught were short-hand, type-writing and book-keeping, with (in some schools) telegraphy In Calcutta, there were 12 schools with 1,148 pupils Far the most advanced and important of these institutions is the Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta

13 Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta.—The history of the institute during the period was eventful In 1923 it was retransferred to the Education Department from the Department of Industries. The Retrenchment Committee recommended that it should be deprovincialised; and accordingly in 1924 Government appointed an expert committee to report on the future of the institution. In 1926 the Committee reported against deprovincialisation and suggested lines of advance Government have accepted this report in the main and details are now under consideration In 1923 the question was raised whether the Institute should not be affiliated to the University, which had just inaugurated its department of commerce But it was decided that "commercial education would have nothing to gain by such affiliation unless this department of the University was reconstructed as a Faculty of Commerce, controlled by commercial men, as suggested by the Sadler Commission"

The Institute has, therefore, gone its own way, but it has not been content to stand still In numbers, indeed, there has been a fall The number of students on the roll increased from 287 in 1922 to 349 in 1924, but after that it declined rapidly to 230, 181 and 225 in successive years In 1922 the Day and Evening Classes had, respectively, 251 and 545 pupils, in 1927 only 117 and 353 The reasons for the decrease were various, among them was the heavy depression in trade

This decrease is far from being an unmixed evil, as the following extract from the report of the Institute will show "A very much larger number of enrolments, under the existing arrangements, would, if anything, have been an impediment to the material progress of vocational commercial education, of which this Institute has been, is, and will in future be the centre Now that the rush of students to the Shorthand, Type-writing and Book-keeping classes has been happily disappearing, it has been possible to devote attention to the development of classes like those intended for candidates for Public Auditorship or for the Association of the London Institute of Bankers--which last, by the way, is the hall-mark of a sound banker and to strive to make this Institute the model of its kind in Bengal It has been thought fit to see that training in subjects of minor importance, such as shorthand, type-writing and book-keeping, is left to the various commercial institutions that have sprung up almost everywhere in the province, while this Institute, by holding model classes in these subjects, besides others, and by holding Diploma Examinations, should maintain a definite standard of efficiency"

It was thus possible to give time to more advanced studies In 1923, classes were opened to train candidates for the examination of the London Institute of Bankers Classes for the examination of the Bombay Government Diploma in Accountancy were continued throughout the period A committee was appointed to draw up a scheme for a separate examination in Accountancy in Bengal, its report is under consideration The proposal for a commercial museum was raised, but was not sanctioned

The results in the Diploma in Accountancy Examination have shown steady improvement of late For the Final Commercial Examination, 22 candidates appeared in 1926 and 12 passed In the special examinations, there were 54 entries in different subjects from the Institute, 203 from affiliated schools, 60 from private candidates Of these 17, 93, and 15, respectively, passed

The expenditure during 1926-27 was Rs 61,523 of which Rs 13,382 came from fees and Rs 48,141 from provincial revenues In 1921-22 the total was Rs 37,556, including Rs 15,044 from fees and Rs 22,512 from provincial revenues

CHAPTER XII.

Physical and Moral Training.

With its usual thoroughness, the Calcutta University Commission Report thus summarises the conditions which weaken or neutralise the influence of education: "The neglect (often through ignorance) of personal health, the disregard of physical exercise, the prevalence of malaria and inadequate medical care conduce to frequent illness and in some cases have led to serious breakdown, a too limited horizon of thought and interest, monotony of life, and the lack of a well-regulated system of tutorial guidance have in many cases stunted intellectual growth In some instances, the weakening of moral control through the decay of good traditions, through the absence of ethical or religious training, and through the want of corporate life in the University and the colleges have led to serious outbursts of indiscipline and even to violent crime, . Some of these hurtful conditions are so widespread that systematic effort, patiently maintained over a number of years, can alone rectify them" Has the quinquennium seen any progress in this direction?

1 Personal health and medical care.—Whenever a careful examination of the health of students is made, the facts revealed are alarming Medical examination has been held in various places, e g, in Rajshahi by District Board Doctors, at Asansol on the initiative of the Mines Board of Health, in the Bethune (Girls') School by Dr Cohen But there was only one large and systematic survey The Students' Welfare Committee of Calcutta University has, during the last six or seven years, carried out a comprehensive examination of the students in the arts colleges in Calcutta and the neighbourhood The Report of the Committee for 1925—the latest available—makes mournful reading 11,000 students had then been examined, a number large enough to justify general deductions and to establish "normals" for the quantitatively measurable traits of health But far more important than the scientific value of this investigation is its practical value as a warning Roughly, 25 per cent of the students in colleges are thin and physically ill-developed, 45 per cent stoop About one-third have defective eyesight, but, of them, a large proportion are unaware of it, half wear no glasses at all and about one-fifth wear wrong glasses One in three again have bad teeth One in twenty suffer from some affection of the heart Only about one in three are generally sound

These figures might well make one anxious for the future of young Bengal What makes the situation worse is that, after the age of 16 both eye-sight and hearing become steadily more impaired This is partly due to the conditions of life and work of the students and partly to the fact that weaknesses are not remedied and become progressively worse by neglect

The moral is clear—there is need of both prevention and cure The Welfare Committee gives advice to students, but much more needs to be done in this direction The attention of parents must be drawn and the way made easy for students to obtain both advice and treatment But it is really at the school stage that these defects have to be tackled Every schoolboy should be examined and his physical weaknesses noted, treated and corrected Nor is this enough The only effective solution is the prevention of preventible deformities and defects It is necessary to provide that healthy recreation, that sufficiency of nutrition, those conditions of residence and work which will help the naturally healthy child to grow up into a healthy and well-developed man

One difficulty is that the home, where the boy spends the greater part of his time, does not always help in this matter The Physical Instructor, Dacca University, notes that 70 per cent of the students lose in weight and in physique during vacations

2 Physical training and drill.—During the last two or three years much attention has been given to the problem of physical training The University, Government and the Legislative Council have all discussed the problem and suggested solutions On the motion of Mr A C Banerji, the council passed a resolution recommending that immediate steps be taken to make physical culture compulsory for boys between 12 and 18 in all schools affiliated to the two Universities and in all Maktabs and Madrasahs, February, 1926 Meanwhile, already in August 1924 the Senate had appointed a Committee, which came to the conclusion that some form of drill or games should form part of the school curriculum and should be introduced also into the first year of the College course The Senate accepted these proposals and added that provision should be made by schools, in conjunction with the parents, for the proper nutrition of the boys and that military training should be made compulsory for all college and university students

3 University training corps—Government pointed out that compulsory military training for many thousands of students was not a practicable proposition and suggested an extension of the facilities of the Calcutta University Corps, which was accepted by the Senate At present the University Corps, which has a strength of about 700, is confined to Calcutta, with the exception of platoons at Hooghly College and the Bengal Engineering College A reasonable degree of efficiency has been reached and the spirit of the corps is excellent The example will spread and there is little doubt that the corps will grow in numbers It seems better to rely on voluntary enthusiasm than on the passive discipline (or indiscipline) enforced by a compulsory system

4 Compulsory Exercise.—In 1927 the Physical Education Committee of the University proposed that some sort of physical training for at least one year should be a qualification for every Matriculation candidate, except such as were medically exempted or had not belonged to any school The salaries of physical instructors in schools were to be met by an athletic fee paid by the boys, with the help of a Government grant if necessary

As a matter of fact, drill is compulsory now in all middle and primary schools as well as in junior madrasahs, and in the new curriculum for maktabs, it is proposed to introduce callisthenics In all Government high schools, again, all the scholars except those of the top classes have to do drill, and this is the rule in many aided and unaided schools as well But, here again, there is a wide gap between the ideal and the achievement "The actual drill," writes one inspector, "is a travesty of what it should be and the whole situation is rendered rather Gilbertian by the drill being entrusted as often as not to a master who is himself incapable of performing the exercises and operations supposedly taught and whose physique is a standing example of what physical instruction seeks to eliminate" The master has often very primitive ideas of drill, and the boys would be completely bored if they did not regard it as a "rag"

5 Physical instructors.—The fact is, of course, that the drill master, like other masters, needs training An attempt has been made to provide this training A temporary post of Physical Adviser to the Government in the Bengal Education Service, was created and filled by Mr N Ghosh throughout the period The Physical Adviser revived in 1924 the class for training drill masters and so far 122 teachers have obtained the certificates granted after the examination at the end of the course Teachers from private schools are admitted free and Government officers are paid travelling expenses and house-rent in Calcutta

But the course is short six weeks, and with the existing staff it is impossible to train a sufficient number of men quickly It is hoped, as vacancies occur, to recruit for the more important institutions some men who have passed through the longer and more thorough course arranged by the Y M C A in Madras, but the expense and length of this course make it impossible to regard it as the only source of trained men, Dacca University has appointed a Physical Instructor and an assistant to supervise the compulsory physical training of its students The pivot of any scheme of general improvement must be an adequate scheme of local training of teachers of drill and organisers of games To reorganise the whole system, Government have sanctioned the appointment of a special Physical Director, with the highest qualifications, for five years

In some Calcutta colleges, like the Presidency College, drill is now compulsory for the students of many of the classes

Drill, in the narrow sense of the term, is in schools of real, if limited, value, properly done, it exercises the body and instils some sense of discipline But its physical and its moral value are limited and drill, in schools as in the army, needs the complement of organised games Organised games are far more enjoyable to those who participate and create a sense of esprit de corps, of playing with and for the side, which can be a strong moral influence Scarcely a boy would choose drill rather than games if he were free to choose

6 Games.—There is no doubt that games are becoming increasingly popular in Bengal Football, in particular, evokes immense enthusiasm, in the towns lawn-tennis is rapidly winning its way into general favour Cricket is played, with keenness and with growing skill, in most colleges and a few schools But the difficulty is that these games are comparatively expensive and also require considerable space In towns, space is precious, is often unattainable There are very few colleges in Calcutta which have playing grounds within or near the college compound Where the field is on the maidan, it is idle to expect many students to attend and play For schools, the expense is often prohibitive It is, therefore, a matter for satisfaction that team games like basket-ball, volley-ball, deck-tennis, badminton are being taken up by institutions These require little room and involve little expense The indigenous games are, perhaps, more suited for the country schools than for towns; but they should be encouraged. They need no apparatus and can be played almost anywhere. What is needed is to find for each school and college games suited to its conditions and needs, in considerable variety.

Much more might be done to develop rowing The Calcutta University Welfare Committee maintains a few boats, at Rajshahi College rowing has been taken up with much enthusiasm and is popular In many schools in East Bengal, boat-rowing is a favourite sport during the rains when the play-grounds are flooded But the achievement does not come up to the measure of the opportunity,

Besides the lack of play-grounds, a serious difficulty in the way of anything like general games is the fact that many boys and students live at a considerable distance from their school and college and more eat no meal between leaving home in the morning and returning home in the afternoon. Games after school would, therefore, prolong the interval of fasting, already unduly long. The remedy lies, in the provision, by the school or by the parents, of some kind of midday lunch or tiffin, and the University and the Department have rightly laid insistence on this. It is easier for boarding schools and residential colleges to make games compulsory, and there is the widest participation in games in just those institutions which provide for a large proportion of boarders, in colleges like St. Paul's, Calcutta or Carmichael College, Rangpur, and in the schools like the Mission School at Bishnupur, and St. Paul's School, Calcutta.

7. Boy Scout Movement.—But games not only exercise the body and teach unselfishness and self-control, they are useful also because they supply a healthy interest, a means of occupying the time harmlessly. As a rule, the Bengali boy has very few real interests or hobbies and is often hard put to it to spend his leisure. It is not the least of the merits of the Boy Scout movement that it sets out to interest the boy in the world of nature and to give him other hobbies. During the period, the Scout movement has spread widely, overcoming initial prejudices in some places. Government has provided funds to start troops in selected schools and has encouraged teachers from Government schools to attend the Scout Masters' Training Camps held each year. Thanks to the energy of the Provincial Organising Secretary, Mr. N. N. Bhose, local associations have been formed in many centres and public support has steadily increased. The latest statistics show in Bengal 47 local associations with 3,384 scouts, 281 rovers and 961 cubs. Of Scout masters there are 206 and of Cub masters 37.

Gratifying as these figures are, they represent but a small proportion of the total schoolgoing population of the province. It is right and wise to hasten slowly, to lay the foundations securely, to show in the first recruits those results in character and mental and physical alertness which alone can justify the movement. Numbers are quite capable of destroying the value of scouting, as indeed they have contributed to complicate most educational problems in Bengal. And the movement is an independent organisation, which Government may properly encourage for its educational value, but cannot control. At the same time, it should be pointed out that there is urgent need of Scout masters—for men, not necessarily teachers, who are prepared to sacrifice a little time and quiet for the youth of the land.

All that has been said of scouts applies equally to the Guide Movement, mutatis mutandis. This is spreading among Indian girls, especially in the larger towns.

8. Moral and religious influence.—Scouting is not only a form of physical exercise, although it is that—nor a mere new interest—it is also a moral and social instrument of the first magnitude. Other active moral influences there are few in the schools of Bengal. In Mission Schools, Madrasahs, Maktabs and Tols, religious instruction of a denominational character is given. This is excellent, but the greater number of schools fall outside these categories. The moral teaching given in some of them is, by general consent, not of any great value. And, after all, practice is better than precept. It is from the character of the teacher that the boy must unconsciously learn the lessons of honesty, goodness and service. But, unfortunately, intercourse between master and boy outside school and informally is the exception rather than the rule. Then contact is of a purely official kind—the closing bell rings and each goes his own way.

Here, again, the residential institution scores. In many colleges there is some attempt made now to introduce the tutorial system. But the objects of the system are sometimes misconceived and the methods employed are consequently futile. It is significant, however, of the changing temper of the times—of the consciousness that there is some vital element lacking, that there is something to be gained by bringing the teacher and the pupil into unofficial contact, that there is great educative value in personality. And once the need is felt, it will not long remain unsatisfied.

9. Discipline.—At present, all is not well. True, the effect of the non-co-operation movement in the sphere of education has almost been effaced, but discipline as an active principle is losing strength One inspector writes, "it is becoming daily less rigid and, when an attack is made from any quarter, it is too weak to defend itself" Says another, "the common complaint is that boys show scant respect for parent and teacher that they are wayward and impatient of control The oldtime politeness is fast fading into a legend" The troubles at Rajshahi College are a case in point, and another was recorded in the Report on Public Instruction, 1924-25 Actual instances of disobedience may be rare, but the spirit of willing obedience and co-operation is often absent

Here, the parents and the home must also shoulder their share of the responsibilities But "parents are often too busy or unmindful" and unwilling to co-operate with the teacher "In many schools," says one inspector, "teachers tried by visiting parents to get to know them and institute co-operative control inside and outside the school Everywhere the attempts have had to be abandoned Guardians take an interest in the management of the school, but they definitely regard the teachers' duties and sphere of action as confined to the class room" Fortunately, this is not universally true- but where it holds true, any attempt to raise the standard of discipline must be vain

10 Hostels.—(1) For college students —Where a boy lives with his parents, some control exists Many of them, however, live away from their homes and it is here that the greatest attention has to be given This is even more true of colleges, which are located in the larger centres of population For college students it has long been the rule that those who are not living with parents or guardians should live in a hostel or recognised mess, and generally it may be said that this rule is now enforced Most colleges have now well-equipped hostels attached In Government colleges, during the period, fresh accommodation was provided at Rajshahi for 300 students and at Chittagong for 60 Muhammadan boarders Elsewhere, as at the Ahsanullah Engineering School, houses were rented and used as hostels The David Hare Training College buildings also include a hostel

The superintendence, however, is not always adequate It sometimes happens that quarters are not provided for a family and the choice is then restricted to the unmarried members of the staff Sometimes a junior lecturer is selected as warden, or there may be only one superintendent to some hundred or more students But these things are gradually being improved

The University of Calcutta makes itself responsible for a number of messes for students belonging to private colleges who cannot find hostel accommodation In 1926-27 the total number of places available in these messes was 412 and the total expenditure involved for rent was Rs 34,821, which was met partly by the seat-rent paid by the boarders and partly by the annual grant of Rs 9,000 given by Government for the purpose The superintendents are paid by the authorities of the colleges to which the messes are attached With the growth of proper hostel accommodation, the number of these messes is slowly decreasing, in 1922-23, there were 21 with room for 654 students, in 1926-27 only 15 with room for 412 Besides, the number of non-collegiate hostels, managed by public bodies, is growing year by year

Of the Halls of Dacca University some description has been given in Chapter III

The total number of hostels attached to arts colleges was 104 with 5,267 boarders, of these, 8 with 127 inmates were for women The cost to Government was Rs 54,289 There were 15 hostels attached to professional colleges (excluding the medical and veterinary colleges) with 851 boarders, and Government spent Rs 3,723 on them

(2) For school boys —The total number of hostels for schools of all kinds was 798, and the number of inmates was 18,253 Generally speaking, this indicates an increase of hostels and boarders The expenditure to Government, however, has not risen in equal proportion, because, as a measure of retrenchment, the scales, in accordance with which the allowances of superintendents of Government hostels were paid, were reduced The allowance of the superintendent of a college hostel was reduced by a third and of a school hostel by a half Government also readjusted the apportionment of charges in hostels attached to its institutions. It was laid down that seat rents should be levied at a uniform rate throughout the province and that while Government would bear the cost of medical supervision, the cost of medicine should be paid by the boarders and that they should also pay furniture rent, lighting charges and the occupier's share of municipal taxes The hostels attached to the Presidency College and the Bengal Engineering College, as well as hostels for girls and backward classes, were exempted from these general orders The total cost to Government for school hostels was Rs 1,08,439 But the introduction of rent and the increased cost of living prevented some boys from taking advantage of the hostels and in many cases seats remained vacant throughout a whole year. Other causes that led to the depletion of hostels were impatience of discipline and restraint and the failure of headmasters to insist on residence in proper conditions The Hindu Hostel of the Hooghly Collegiate School was abolished in 1926 and the Muhammadan hostel of the Birbhum Zilla School existed only in name The Hindu Hostel of the Bankura Zilla School was only half-full

Superintendence in the hostels themselves was not all that could be desired "The selection of suitable superintendents," writes the Inspector for Dacca Division, "is both important and difficult The task of supervision is one that many men dislike and the selection is limited to those who are living without their families" The Inspector for Rajshahi goes further "The incumbents have not, with few exceptions, proved to be equal to the task This seems to be due not only to the want of sympathy and sense of duty of the superintendents, but also to the fact that most of them are junior or vernacular teachers, with little experience and lacking in personality" In many hostels, the superintendent receives no allowance, but is merely given free quarters "His supervision is, therefore, that of a boarding house-keeper, with none of the latter's inducements to work efficiently" The duties of the superintendent are supposed to be merely enforcing rules and keeping accounts Corporate life there is little, no common rooms, no arrangements for games or discussions, no libraries An opportunity for developing esprit-de-corps is largely wasted

There is in Government hostels provision for medical attendance, and in a few aided hostels, but elsewhere there is none The inmates of hostels attached to guru-training schools, however, do not receive medical attendance free, but have to attend the out-patient department of local dispensaries.

The cost of living in hostels varies considerably In Chittagong Division, it was about Rs 20 for a Hindu boarder and Rs 15 for a Muhammadan In Burdwan, the expenses in a town hostel ranged from Rs 15 to 20 and in a mufassal hostel from Rs 10 to Rs 15

In Dacca, there is a proper Students' Residence Committee and scheme In 1925 the post of Proctor or Inspector of Messes was abolished and its duties transferred to the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education The Board acts through an Assistant Inspector of Students' Residence The number of messes under the Board in 1926-27 was 25, and of boarders 739 Of these, 10 messes belonged to intermediate students alone and 12 to high school students, 3 were for students not under the control of the Board Ten hostels were for Muhammadans only Fourteen of the boarders were girls, and 118 were members of the backward classes All messes were inspected at least once a month and many surprise visits were paid The state of discipline was generally satisfactory. The charges ranged from Rs 9-8 to to Rs 12-8 per month for board and establishment, and the seat rents from Re 1 to Rs 3-8 In the case of Namasudra messes, the rent was paid wholly by Government and in other cases Government contributed 40 per cent Medical aid was rendered by five officers The total cost to Government in 1926-27 was Rs 18,537

The buildings, especially of Government hostels, are generally commodious and well-planned But, unfortunately, neither hostels nor school buildings are properly kept up "School rooms," one Inspector reports, "are dirty and dust-laden Expensive buildings are allowed to deteriorate and jungle allowed to spring up at the very doors of the school The boys are not likely to apply in their homes principles which they see neglected in their class rooms and school premises" It is often forgotten that the practice of hygiene is more important than the theory

11 Hygiene.—The theory is taught in schools Hygiene is a subject in the revised primary school curriculum and it is also an optional subject for the Calcutta Matriculation and the Dacca High School Examination, but it is not usually taught in the top classes of middle English and high schools Lectures on hygiene and sanitation were given by health officers of municipalities or sanitary inspectors in several schools The Bengal Social Service League has also done admirable work by illustrated courses of lectures on this subject in educational institutions A general knowledge of the laws of cleanliness and health and the causes of disease is thus being given to a growing number of children

CHAPTER XIII.

Miscellaneous.

1 Unrecognised schools.—Under the name "Unrecognised institutions" are grouped different types of schools which do not belong to a single category and often have no resemblance to each other, except the negative quality of not following any courses prescribed by the University or the Department Many of them are small, indigenous religious schools, tols or Koran schools or Kyang (Buddhist monastic) schools, others are primary schools with less than ten pupils or not teaching the full curriculum, others are "national" schools, started as a result of the non-co-operation movement A few aim and reach higher and, while preserving their independence as a matter of principle, provide wide and advanced courses of instruction

The number of unrecognised schools is naturally fluctuating Many of them, on reaching a certain standard, seek and obtain recognition as maktabs or primary schools On the other hand, primary schools which are refused stipends, may revert to the unrecognised class In 1921-22, there were 1,840 institutions with 55,437 pupils In 1925, the number dropped to 1,283 with 43,815 pupils, but rose again in 1927 to 1,610 schools with 53,504 pupils Little reliance can be placed on these figures

As a rule, the condition of the more elementary unrecognised school is far from satisfactory The building, staff and equipment are usually inadequate, discipline weak, teaching defective, finances precarious There are, however, some very notable exceptions

The best known is the Santiniketan School and Viswabharati, founded by Dr Rabindranath Tagore, at Bolpur This institution is too well known to need a long description The work which it does in different spheres is admirable To its agricultural and industrial work, reference has already been made in another Chapter Another noteworthy feature is its encouragement of artistic talent and the place given to art in its school curriculum The higher branch of the institution has secured the co-operation of distinguished foreign scholars and done valuable work in advanced oriental studies Arrangements have been made by which pupils of the institution can, if desired, appear for the examinations of Calcutta University

The Kabindra College, Goila, Bakarganj, is a centre of higher Sanskrit studies, of Ayurved and Hindu philosophy

The Mahakali Pathsala of Mymensingh is a girls' school and has 200 pupils on its rolls It teaches up to the 7th standard and, besides the ordinary subjects, pays special attention to religious teaching The teachers are, however, men, but an attempt is being made to replace them by women teachers The pathsala receives a grant Rs 40 per month from the municipality

2 National schools.—The national schools have not fulfilled the bright hopes with which they were started With the collapse of educational non-co-operation, their clientèle was reduced and many of them found themselves without either pupils or money Their number has, therefore, steadily diminished At the end of 1921, there were 170 schools with 13,468 pupils, but, five years after, the 45 surviving schools had only 3,208 pupils In several cases, dissension among the school authorities caused the downfall of the school At Dacca, the larger part of the staff and pupils seceded from the National College and started a separate medical institution The schools which remain have religious instruction as well as spinning and weaving—but in most cases, the spirit and fervour of the first days have vanished and the heart has gone out of the whole enterprise One hardly knows which to be most sorry for—the unthinking optimism of the beginning or the tragedy of this quick disillusionment. For the national school properly conceived and managed might make an immense contribution to the education of Bengal More than anything else we need truly "national" schools in Bengal.

3 Text Book Committees.—The constitution of the Text Book Committees remained substantially the same during this period With the introduction throughout the province of the revised primary schools curriculum, the task of examining all text books for primary schools was entrusted to the Calcutta Committee, which was afforced by the addition of two non-official Muhammadan members from East Bengal The Dacca Committee continued to receive and examine other books

Books intended for school prizes and libraries were also diverted to the Text Book Committees in 1925, instead of being sent to the Director of Public Instruction The work of the Committees, especially of the Calcutta one, was thus materially increased What made matters worse was that most of the books were received and sent out to members for examination in the course of two or three months in the year The examination tended, as a result, to be rather perfunctory in many cases, and bad books got on to the list

There were other defects in the system The lists of approved text books and other books grew year by year, as old books were not as a rule discarded and fresh additions were made regularly, till finally the lists became long and unordered and of little use as a guide to Head Masters and schools An educational officer was therefore placed on deputation to make recommendations for the reorganisation of the Committees, and his report is now under the consideration of Government The chief proposals are that the number of text books in any subject for a class in any one year should be limited and that a fee should be given for the examination of each book

During the quinquennium, 5,041 books were considered by the Calcutta Committee and 1,573 approved The Dacca Committee approved 1,566 out of a total of 4,085 books examined

4 Oriental Education.—Both Universities encourage higher Sanskritic and Islamic studies To commemorate the services of Sir Ashutosh Mukerjee, the Senate of Calcutta University founded two chairs, one for Sanskrit studies and the other for Islamic culture In Dacca University, there are departments of Arabic and Islamic studies, of Persian and Urdu, of Sanskritic studies and Bengali Dacca University has also gathered an admirable collection of manuscripts, already no fewer than 10,000 in number, and including many rare and interesting items Some of the earliest manuscripts of the Mahabharata, the Puranas and the Tantras are there, and the collection of the epics and the Puranas is almost complete and indispensable to scholars This is a field in which much work remains to be done, but the University has made an excellent beginning

Leaving aside the Universities, Sanskritic studies are chiefly carried on in the indigenous tols The largest of them is the Tol department of the Sanskrit College, which teaches Veda, Vedanta, Yoga, Sankhya, Nyaya, Mimansa, Smriti, Vyakaran The pupils, as in other tols, pay no fees and numbered 83 (45 in 1921-22) in 1926-27 Reductions in the staff, as a result of the policy of retrenchment, have to some extent affected the usefulness of the institution Students appear for the First, Second and Title Examinations conducted by the Sanskrit Association

Of other tols there is a large and growing number, no fewer than 750 in 1926-27 Each of them as a rule is under one pandit who gives instruction in one or two branches of study, and the students are allowed to appear at the examinations of the Sanskrit Association Government gives small grants-in-aid to some of the pandits

The Sanskrit Association, to which reference has been made, was founded in 1918 It is governed by an executive council of 20 persons, 5 of them being scholars trained in Western methods There is a convocation of 500 pandits, which, however, has never met The chief functions of the Association are to conduct the examinations, award titles and certificates and advise Government about Sanskrit studies Independent of it are several local samajes, of which the most important is the Dacca Saraswat Samaj, established in 1878, which conducts its own examinations and has done a great deal of quiet, solid work in the promotion of oriental learning It receives an annual grant of Rs 2,400 from Government, but has been largely supported by local liberality.

The report of the Sanskrit College Committee, appointed in 1923, dealt also with the general system of Sanskrit education. The Committee recommends the strengthening of the collegiate tol, so that it might become a model for all tols throughout Bengal. It also makes proposals for the reconstitution of the Sanskrit Association on a new basis and the provision of more generous and more numerous grants for the local tols. No action has yet been taken on the report.

Islamic studies find their home in madrasahs, of which the most advanced is the Calcutta Madrasah, which alone trains students in the Title course. The original intention was to divide the course into several parallel groups, literature, tradition, law, history, etc., but only the tradition group is actually in vogue. The number of students in this section was 37 in 1926-27. For the Madrasah Higher Standard Examination, 17 madrasahs in Bengal and one each in Assam and in Bihar are affiliated to the Calcutta Madrasah. In 1926-27, 17 students appeared in the Title Examination and 7 passed; 78 were successful out of 174 in the Higher Standard Examination and 218 out of 392 candidates in the Lower Standard.

5. Conferences and meetings.—Several times during the period, conferences of inspecting officers were held in the different divisions, when questions like the distribution of grants-in-aid and modification of grant rules, extension of provident funds, rules for admission and withdrawal of pupils were discussed. In 1923, a conference was held in Calcutta to discuss changes in the European School Code; and, in 1926, another, consisting of the heads of European Schools in Bengal, to consider the secondary school system and its relation to the University. In 1925, the Director of Public Instruction presided over a conference of higher educational officers to discuss matters connected with the organisation and administration of the department, such as the powers of Inspectors of Schools, promotion of subordinate officers, the system of grant-in-aid, the revival of the primary and middle school public examinations.

The draft Primary Education Bill was explained and freely discussed in a series of conferences in each division during 1925-26. Three were addressed by the Secretary, Education Department, one by the Director of Public Instruction and one by the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division. Keen interest was shown and much criticism, both destructive and constructive, was evoked. This marks a new stage in the public discussion of matters of general educational policy.

But, perhaps, the most important conference of the period was the Bengal Women's Educational Conference, 1927, to which reference has been made in Chapter VI. Important resolutions (Appendix) were passed, covering the whole ground of women's education and a standing committee was appointed, to which Government has already turned for advice on more than one occasion.

The work of the different committees appointed from time to time has found mention in other parts of this review. The most important were the Presidency College Committee, the Sanskrit College Committee, the standing Advisory Committee for Higher Education, the Accountancy Examination Committee, the Dacca Technical and Vocational Education Committee, the Committee on the Normal and Guru-training Schools.

Both Government and non-Government teachers have their own conferences each year.

Educational exhibitions can be a very useful instrument of propaganda for the diffusion of new methods and ideas, but they have been all too rare. In 1926 a very successful exhibition was held at Malda, largely attended, not only by teachers and students, but by guardians, including many ladies. More exhibitions of this kind will help to create an intelligent interest in education in the general public; for education has nothing to gain and much to lose by being regarded as the exclusive concern of a profession, the monopoly of a guild. Rather is it a matter of national concern, the foundation of the spiritual and moral, as well as the material, well-being of the country at large; and it is the duty of each one and of all to make sure that that foundation is well and truly laid.

K. ZACHARIAH,

Special officer.

APPENDIX.

Resolutions passed by the Conference of the Bengal Women's Education League, 1927.

A — PRIMARY EDUCATION

1 That the present state of the primary education of girls in Bengal is acutely unsatisfactory

2 That compulsory free education is required for every girl in the province

3 That in order to enlist public sympathy the curriculum and schedule of text books be revised on national lines by a committee of experts, both men and women

4 That the medium of instruction be decided in consultation with local bodies

B —SECONDARY EDUCATION

1 That the Conference approves the steps already taken towards greater elasticity in the curriculum of secondary schools for girls, and desires to see further progress in the same direction

2 That Government should be asked to create a special Secondary Board for Girls' Education in Bengal, composed of women and men educationists and experts

C —UNIVERSITY EDUCATION

1 This Conference recommends that a higher standard than at present in the language selected as the medium of instruction be required of all candidates for the Matriculation Examination

2 This Conference urges the University to reduce its prescribed minimum of lectures, so that the tutorial system may be encouraged

D —TRAINING OF TEACHERS

1 That the present training institutions for women teachers in number, equipment and staff are inadequate

2 That Government be asked to establish at least one model training college in the city to supply women teachers for kindergarten, primary and secondary schools

E — GENERAL

1 That adequate representation of women on—

(a) the Senate,

(b) the proposed Secondary Education Board,

(c) municipal bodies; and

(d) executive bodies created by Government especially the District Board,

be urged

2. That this Conference desires to co-operate as far as possible with existing bodies for the employment of girls and to take such other steps as may be necessary to influence public opinion towards the employment of educated women in callings for which they are fitted

3 That in the opinion of this meeting there should be the closest co-operation possible between the home and school or University—

(a) That there be active propaganda, either direct or indirect, by educational authorities, to show the necessity of female education and to popularise modern educational ideas

(b) That along with culture subjects there should be taught in the higher classes of schools subjects relating to the life of the children, e g, Domestic Science, Hygiene, Biology and Physiology, Child Psychology and Citizenship

(c) Contact centres should be established between the home and school or college, either through women's organisations, social gatherings, or lectures and "Education Weeks"

4 In the opinion of this Conference the ultimate aim of all educational work in schools and colleges is the presentation and development of the highest ideals of life and character, thus helping to produce God-fearing leaders of thought and action in the country To this end, the training of young people should be entrusted only to persons of strong religious conviction and consistent character and high ideals of life

5 That in the opinion of this Conference physical culture is an essential part of a girl's education and Government should, therefore, be urged to establish a centre for physical culture with authority to grant a diploma

6 That this Conference considers that efforts should be made to foster the traditional arts and crafts of India, that systematic teaching of drawing be given in every school and that art should be taught with special reference to its application in the home

CALCUTTA, the 30th July 1928.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Summer Til crop of Bengal, 1928-29.

[NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1925-26, the area under til in Bengal has represented some 28 per cent of the total area under til in British India.]

Character of the Season.—In the two important districts of Pabna and Mymensingh which contain more than half the acreage of the province, the crop was reduced to 50 per cent of the normal, owing to drought in the former and excessive rain in the latter. In the rest of the districts, the crop generally suffered from absence of sufficient moisture. On the whole, the weather was unfavourable to the crop.

Acreage.—The area sown this year is reported to be 102,300 acres as against 98,800 acres last year.

Outturn.—From the estimates furnished by the District Officers, the average outturn of the crop for the province works out at 60 per cent of the normal this year as against 74 per cent last year.

Taking the normal yield at 6 maunds per acre, the gross outturn of the crop for the province is estimated at 13,500 tons this year as against 16,100 tons last year.

Assistant Superintendent.—Babu Somadev Ganguli

Store-keeper —Babu Jugal Kishore Roy

Overseer --Babu Niranjan Mukherji.

Clerk.—Babu Tarak Chandra Chatterji

Gate clerk.—Babu Bipin Behari Chatterji

The menial staff of the Garden at the end of 1927-1928 comprised in addition to temporary men who were engaged as required—

1 Salutri	3 Sweepers
1 Jamadar	1 Chaprasi
8 Durwans	1 Carpenter
20 Keepers	2 Cartmen
2 Bhisties	1 Syce
1 Cook	1 Scytheman
1 Head Gardener	1 Night-watchman
14 Gardeners

The healthy condition of the collection, generally, has been well maintained. No outbreak of serious epidemic has occurred and the casualties were only such as are to be expected among a collection of animals in captivity, many of them in a climate to which they are by nature unaccustomed

The outstanding improvement effected during the year is the construction of the Island Enclosure. The old enclosure for the Sambar deer was dismantled and remodelled after the design of the New Extension which has proved so successful The fences and railings were removed and a wide ditch, too deep to be waded across, with a retaining wall in front, was substituted The low-lying grounds were raised and levelled and the tank partly filled in with earth from the ditch The enclosure which formerly was unattractive and congested has now been converted into an open space with a view unobstructed by railings in all directions Confinement by these means enables animals of various kinds to be given opportunities of comparative freedom otherwise unattainable It is believed that nowhere else in the world can orang-outangs and gibbons be seen living in practically a wild state With them are grouped a tapir, a capybara, rabbits, wallabies, and many kinds of birds all of which dwell together in complete harmony and form a most attractive exhibit

The question of improving the existing Laboratory building and the adjoining grounds and converting them into a dispensary and a hospital suitable for sick animals engaged the attention of the Committee of Management, and a portion of the Laboratory was set apart for a hospital and old and useless material and instruments were sold by auction The flooring of the adjoining verandahs were renewed The roofs were recovered with tar and cement and the ceilings which had been damaged by leaks in the roof were repaired. The adjacent ground which was enclosed by a wall was thrown open, and cleared of vegetation and waste materials, and raised The drainage was improved by the construction of a pucca drain and the whole was converted into a useful self-contained block

The godown behind the Reptile House, formerly intended as quarters for the keeper of the Snake House, which had lain vacant for a number of years and been used for stores, was dismantled and the adjoining land cleared thus giving a full view of the Zebra paddock A brick-on-edge road was constructed on the east side of the paddock, and the general appearance of this part of the Garden has thus been also improved

New paths were laid and gravelled and others widened and altered as necessary Portions of the main drive were remetalled and all paths and roads were covered with surki-siftings

The general repairs to the buildings could not be taken in hand during the year 1926-27 on account of want of funds and they consequently were in great need of repair during the year under review, but nevertheless, though urgent general repairs were effected, funds did not permit of all being carried out that might have been done Details are as follows —

The Boundary wall, Burdwan House, Small Carnivora House, the servant's quarters, Superintendent's quarters, Sonebursa Enclosure, Rodent House, Drill and Mandrill House, Sarnomoyi House, the store-godown were repaired, sand-plastered, colour-washed and painted as necessary and in the case of the last two items, extensive repairs were required and executed to the roofs

The following buildings were limewashed and colourwashed—

Dumraon House, Gubbay House, Reptile House, Schwendler House, Refreshment Pavilions, Bear House, Circular Monkey House

In addition, minor repairs to smaller houses, sheds and enclosures were effected

The Gardens generally have been maintained in good order Considerable attention has been paid to the lawns, flower-beds, shrubs and trees Many shrubs and trees which had outgrown their original purpose were cut down and with the removal of these obstructions the appearance of the grounds has improved considerably Flowering Annuals were exhibited at the Annual Flower Show of the Agri-Horticultural Society of India and the Gardens were awarded several prizes

The financial condition of the Garden is on the whole satisfactory, due to the rigid economy which has been imposed during the past few years The increase in the number of visitors and in the receipts at the gate is attributable in some measure to the return to normal conditions of which mention was made in the last Annual Report But it is also attributable to the attractiveness of the collection and improved methods of exhibition, for both as regards the aggregate total and the number of varieties of animals and birds exhibited, the Gardens contain more specimens than there have ever been in the collection This necessarily involves expenditure, without which the standard of the collection would deteriorate rapidly As the sum available is limited, and, as has been frequently pointed out a margin against unforeseen contingencies must be kept in hand, a careful adjustment has to be made between expenses incurred on the maintenance of the Gardens and collection and that incurred in the purchase of new specimens which, as an additional attraction, may become a source of profit as well as of interest

The following s a comparative statement of visitors and receipts for recent years —

Year	Number of visitors.	Receipts Rs	A
1923-24	877,478	64,420	7
1924-25	943,553	67,706	13
1925-26	1,030,647	72,500	10
1926-27	826,211	58,486	4
1927-28	1,107,161	76,701	2

It is to be regretted that in the last Annual Report the figures were inaccurately stated The above are the correct figures.

A large number of children under four years of age and school children, attended by their teachers, were admitted free On the occasion of the Fancy Fair on 31st December 1927 and 2nd January 1928 about 17,240 people visited the Garden

In addition 48,475 persons visited the Gardens on free days A detailed statement of the number of visitors and receipts appears in Appendix B

The thanks of the Committee are due to those ladies and gentlemen who have added to the zoological collection by donations, a list of which is given in Appendix C Thanks are also due to those who kindly offered to present animals to the Garden, but whose offers could not be accepted, either because the particular species was already sufficiently well represented, or owing to want of accommodation

The Committee also desire to express their thanks to the following Railway and Steamer Companies for kindly conveying the animals belonging to the Garden free of charge -

E I Railway, B N Railway, B I S N Co, Ltd, through Messrs Mackinnon Mackenzie & Co, and R S N Co, Ltd, through Messrs Macneill & Co

The Corporation of Calcutta at their meeting held on 19th September 1927 sanctioned a grant of Rs 26,233-6 to the Garden for the year under report and the amount of the rate bills in respect of the Garden was adjusted against the sanctioned grant as the rate bills fell due The Committee desire to take this opportunity of expressing their thanks to the Corporation of Calcutta for their generous contribution to the funds of the Garden

Thanks are also due to the Officer Commanding and Officers of the 3-12th F F Regiment for permitting the regimental band to play at the Garden on Tuesday afternoons free of charge

The Committee are much indebted to those members of the public who send their old and broken-down horses to the Zoological Gardens for destruction in a humane manner

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First forecast of the cotton crops of Bengal, 1928-29.

NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1926-27, the area under the cotton crops in Bengal has represented some 0 2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India

There are two crops, early and late. The "early" crop is chiefly grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the Tripura State and only to a small extent in other districts The "late" crop is grown in Bankura and Midnapore. As the late crop has not yet been sown, this forecast deals only with the "early" crop

Character of the season.—Owing to drought the weather was not favourable at the sowing time. Subsequent conditions were helpful for the growth except in Mymensingh where heavy showers affected the prospects The present condition of the crop is promising on the whole

Area sown.—The area sown is reported to be 76,998 acres this year, as against 76,752 acres reported in the corresponding forecast of last year

PUBLIC.

The 1st August 1928

No. F.-279-28.—The following minute of the Indian Statutory Commission constituting the Auxiliary Committee on the Growth of Education is published for general information .—

The Growth of Education in British India.

The Growth of Education in British India is, by the terms of the Royal Warrant under which the Indian Statutory Commission is constituted, one of the subjects on which the Commission is required to report. The Royal Warrant further empowers the Commission to appoint, with the sanction of the Secretary of State for India, any person, or persons, to make subordinate enquiries and to report the result to the Commission.

With the sanction of the Secretary of State for India the Commission accordingly appoints —

Sir Philip Hartog, K C I E (Member of the Public Service Commission), Chairman, Sir Amherst Selby-Bigge, Bart., K C B,
Sir Saiyid Sultan Ahmad (Vice-Chancellor of Patna University),
Sir George Anderson, C I E (Director of Public Instruction, Punjab), Raja Narendra Nath (Member of the Legislative Council of the Punjab), Mrs. Muthulakshmi Reddi (Deputy President of the Madras Legislative Council), to make subordinate enquiries into the growth of education in British India and to report the result to the Commission.

The Committee will be designated "The Auxiliary Committee on the Growth of Education", and it will be convenient to describe the Report it is asked to make as the Auxiliary Committee's "Review of the Growth of Education in British India".

The Commission understands its terms of reference regarding Education as requiring from it, not a general survey of the whole field of Education in all its branches and aspects throughout British India, but a Review within moderate compass, limited by the general scope and purpose of the broad enquiry with which the Commission is charged. The Commissioners therefore regard themselves as primarily concerned with Education and its organisation in British India in relation to political and constitutional conditions and potentialities of progress

It is in this sense therefore that the Commission desires the reference to the Auxiliary Committee on the Growth of Education to be interpreted. Subject to this, the Committee will be free to pursue its enquiries and to draw up its Review in whatever way seems best to it.

It is the Commission's intention, without excluding such general evidence as it may receive on the question in the ordinary course of its enquiry, to set apart a portion of the time available during its next visit to India for the special consideration of that part of its terms of reference which deals with the Growth of Education in British India, and it will desire to have the Review of the Auxiliary Committee before it in good time for this purpose After the Committee's Review has been received, and the Commission has had sufficient time to digest its contents, it is hoped that there may be an opportunity for the Commission to discuss the contents of the document, probably in some place in Northern India, with the members of the Auxiliary Committee or some of them. In view of the great importance of the subject, the Commission desires to give the Auxiliary Committee the longest time possible for its work, but on the other hand it is important that the discussion between the Commission and the Committee on the Committee's Review should take place before the Commission's tour of enquiry has progressed too far. For these reasons it is desired that the Auxiliary Committee's Review should be in the hands of the Commission not later than 15th December 1928. The Review will be treated as confidential* in the first instance, but it is contemplated that it will at a later stage form part of the documents published as an Appendix to the Commission's Report

* It will of course be made available to Committees of Indian Legislatures collaborating with the Commission

DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIES, BENGAL.

Bengal Tanning Institute.

Note on the careers of the past students.

The Bengal Tanning Institute provides a two-year course of instruction in modern tanning. A demonstration tannery equipped with necessary machinery and a chemical laboratory are attached to the Institute. The training is imparted through practical work and lectures. Manufacture of different varieties of commercial leather from local raw hides and skins is practised at the demonstration tannery, and the chemical analyses required in modern tanning are taught at the laboratory Course of lectures is delivered on (1) Principles and methods of tanning and (2) Analytical chemistry of leather manufacture

A previous knowledge of chemistry is helpful in following the course, but those who join the Institute without such knowledge are at first taught elementary chemistry by special lectures and laboratory work.

The training offers a new career to young men, and it is gratifying to note that the opportunities provided have not been neglected. Quite a number of boys have been trained and the after careers of most of them are encouraging

Thirty-nine students have passed out of the Institute up to date, of whom eight took only one year's training and the rest completed the full course Eight among the past students have started small tanneries, two of which are known to have been equipped with machinery. Five are doing business on their own in leather goods manufacture, and sixteen were either provided with or have themselves secured services as tanning chemists and tannery assistants. Two are working as assistants in laboratories and one in a distillery. Of the remaining seven, most of whom have passed out very recently, definite information about their activities is not yet known. They have not had sufficient time to stabilise their position, but some are reported to have started small tannery concerns. It will be thus seen that more than 82 per cent. of the trained students of the Institute have been suitably employed.

Annual Report of the Royal Botanic Gardens and the Gardens in Calcutta and of the Lloyd Botanic Garden, Darjeeling, for 1927-28.

ROYAL BOTANIC GARDENS.

1 General.—As the main collections of the gardens consist of trees and shrubs mostly deep-rooted, the shortage in the monsoon rainfall recorded for Bengal passed without any deleterious effect and, had the usual cold weather showers come, the light monsoon might even have been welcomed as a convenient means of keeping the undergrowth in manageable condition But the June till September shortage, followed by a cold weather during which not a single shower fell and when even morning mists were wanting, gradually brought the garden in January and February to a state such as must have been very rare in its history Deciduous species seemed to have an earlier than usual leaf-fall while evergreens flagged to an unhealthy degree and many of the lawns became scorched till, all grass having disappeared, they recalled the appearance of the deserts of Upper India It is indicative of the fertility of the soil and of the rapid transformation that a water supply will effect that, with the advent of rain in March, all hands were again busily engaged at the end of the year under review in keeping the undergrowth down.

Annuals with plants established in the Palm and Orchid Houses and the herbaceous collections generally—the watering of which is a routine feature of garden work—showed no ill effects from the prolonged spell of drought

The annuals were somewhat late but gave a welcome relief of colour to the garden once they did come into flower and were quite up to the usual standard of past years. A fresh supply of Orchids was obtained from Assam and the Darjeeling District. Apart from some species of Dendrobium, Vanda, Phalaenopsis, Cypripedium and Cattleya, which last and bloom for several years in the plains, fresh supplies of other Orchids require to be continually imported. These fail to survive more than a couple of years in the unnatural conditions they find here, but they make such welcome additions to the Orchid House that their re-importation is always worth while. There was a good display of Orchids at the end of the year, and the house in which they are staged is probably more frequented by the visiting public than any other plant house in the garden. Indeed, many people seem to defer visits until the Orchids come into flower.

The large Palm House was selected for special attention during the year and, while work on it is not yet completed, already it presents a much more pleasing aspect. For some time past it has been so overcrowded that the variety of its collections tended to become obscured in the mass of its vegetation. With the opening out this defect has disappeared. Variety rather than scenic effect should be the key-note of all such houses and this will determine all future additions to it.

The following additions amongst others were made to the Palm House:—

Calamus Lindeni, Stevensonia grandifolia, Actinophloeus Sanderiana, Acanthophoenix crinita and Deckenia nobilis.

Species planted out to permanent and requisite geographical position in the garden include Cestrum diurnum, Averrhoa Carambola sweet variety, Terminalia pyrifolia, Terminalia bialata, Acacia pseudoeburnea, Dodonaea viscosa, Michelia fuscata, Grewia occidentalis, Millettia Caffra, Geijera parviflora, Cassia laevigata, Byrsonima crassifolia, Brownea macrophylla, Anona Cherimolia and Chorisia insignis.

Some of these merely represent the replacement of species which had died or been removed, others are new to the garden.

The loss of one of the Conifers—Juniperus recurva—during the year calls attention to the need for the replacement of several belonging to this group of plants. Apart from some possible members of the genera Araucaria, Agathis and Pinus, the Conifers cannot be said to flourish under garden conditions. They constitute a group which only just tolerates Bengal but to many visitors their unfamiliar habit forms a source of attraction, and the symmetry of their outline makes them an easy and desirable group of plants to fit schemes for the improvement of garden scenery. Attempts are being made to add to the comparatively small list falling under the group.

Attention has been called of late to the value of mahogany grown in the garden, and claims are made that the wood of this tree locally grown surpasses most other mahoganies known to commerce. Enquiries have originated with a view to conserving such supplies as may become available here for Government House purposes at Delhi.

The garden mahoganies, of which there are at least three species, must be the oldest in India. They originated from seed from the West Indies and there can be no doubt that the wood produced is of a very fine class. Doubtless there are many areas in Bengal where the true mahogany could be grown. It would form quite a useful shade tree for country road sides. It will last for well over a hundred years and if at the end of this time its wood can be prized as equal to the best in commerce, there are abundant reasons why it might now be occupying the bare and unutilized road side spaces of this province. In this connection it will be of interest to recall that the East India Company were influenced in their support to the foundation of the garden by the belief that it would prove an institution capable of determining what woods could be grown to purpose in the Indian possessions.

Although it finds its centre of distribution further to the south of the Indian peninsula, the Indian Satinwood, Chloroxylon Swietenia, is another tree that reaches considerable dimensions in the garden. It also produces a very fine wood here but its value in comparison with the Satinwood of commerce is not known.

Of the commercial value of the mahogany, Swietenia macrophylla, first known to science from this garden, less is known. This is a much quicker growing tree and it seems unlikely that its timber would possess anything like the value of the older species.

The Students' Garden, for which part of the economic ground has been utilized and to which reference was made in last year's report, continues a centre of attraction for all those visitors who take an interest in the botanical side of gardening. It has been begun in such a way as to allow of expansion and, while the number of species is yet limited, there is no reason why it should not develop into an area containing, named and labelled with notes of interest, many of the common plants found in the Bengal plains. With arboreal species already represented in the garden, the object should be to devote this section to herbaceous and shrubby vegetation. For the present, its expansion is limited by the necessity of maintaining an extra labour force to carry water during the dry season.

During the coming year, and now that the Orchid and Palm Houses are in a better condition, special attention will be paid to renewing and adding to the garden labels. While the cast iron label with double ground fixture now utilized for several years is an improvement on the old type in appearance, experience has shown that it fails to withstand the usage it too often becomes subjected to. Many of these labels are broken and it is feared a reversion to the old type or a modification of it has become necessary. The disadvantage of the old type lies in the repainting of names that its usage entails, but it is less easily damaged than the modern type and considerations of utility determine a reversion to it.

Several major schemes for the improvement of the garden are under the consideration of Government. Administrative approval to the construction of new coolie quarters is anticipated and work on them will then merely await the provision of funds. A site at the back of the economic ground has been chosen for the new blocks and a tube well centrally placed will provide a safe supply of water for the coolies.

The conditions under which the labour in these gardens at present lives have given cause for much anxiety during the recent widespread epidemic of cholera. But for the presence of an energetic medical officer who induced the coolies to submit en masse to inoculation and who in spite of objection for interference with the water-supply, had the drinking water tank treated, a spread of the epidemic to the garden would almost certainly have taken place. The few cases of cholera that did occur were promptly dealt with, but it cannot be over-emphasised that the present housing arrangements are a continual source of anxiety to those responsible for the health of the garden, and that work on the new housing scheme with its inclusive water-supply should proceed with as little delay as possible.

Reference has so often been made in past reports to the state of the garden roads that it is pleasing to note these also are scheduled for the attention they require. Here again, however, money awaits a favourable vote and while this is so, any improvement on the roads depends on the meagre savings that may be spared from garden funds proper. Nothing short of resoling and surface tarring will now give the roads the condition that modern traffic demands.

2. Plant and seed exchange.—Some 39,000 living plants were distributed during the year. As usual, India itself forms the main area for distribution, but small consignments for despatch abroad are always being prepared. Its geographical position in relation to America, to Europe and to West and South Africa, from all of which requests for living plants frequently arrive, makes India a difficult country from which to cater for foreign correspondents, for, no matter what care is taken in packing, the long journeys with no attention en route often prove more than consignments will stand.

About the usual numbers of packets of seeds were distributed and received throughout the year.

3. Herbarium and Library.—The appointment of a permanent Curator of the Herbarium has allowed of arrears of work in this Department being overtaken. Routine work in acquisition, identification distribution and loan has proceeded uninterruptedly throughout the year.

Some 1,400 specimens have been distributed, including a fairly large collection of Chittagong district plants to the herbarium of the Royal Botanic Garden, Edinburgh.

Of plants received, some 1,500 have been mounted and placed in their proper positions in the cabinets.

Identifications for the herbarium or for correspondents cover a range of 1,618 specific names, but, as many species were identified in different collections and at different times, the actual number of specimens examined greatly exceeds the sixteen hundred odd.

Some two thousand specimens were loaned out during the year, the largest loan being a collection of mosses for Dr Bruhl's use in connection with his forthcoming work on the group as it occurs in South Eastern Asia A good deal of arrear work has been overtaken in the mounting of 5,158 sheets in addition to the usual repairing of specimens already incorporated.

Besides attending to the routine of the Herbarium, the newly appointed Curator has devoted part of his time to a study of the genus Avicennia and to an analysis of the Algal Flora of the Chilka Lake

Much valuable assistance in the work of the section has been given by Messrs Narayanaswami and Srinivasan, the former of whom has brought to a stage near completion an examination of the exact geographical distribution of the collections of Wray, Kunstler and Scortechini When finished, this work will probably be given to the Asiatic Society whose journal already contains the materials for a Flora of the Malay Peninsula to which the information in Mr Narayanaswami's paper should form a valuable addition

Mr Srinivasan, Second Assistant for systematic work, whose appointment to the department of Botanical Survey was effected during the year, was engaged generally in becoming acquainted with the range of his new duties To gain experience in field work he was on tour towards the end of the year to the Garo Hills from which he has brought back a carefully prepared collection of some 1,000 specimens representing 250-300 species

Dr Cowan, who held charge as Officiating Superintendent for the first seven months of the year, completed his work on the Trees of Northern Bengal and his analysis of the Chakaria Sunderbans Flora

A scheme for the extension of the Herbarium is under consideration and it is essential, if the continuously accumulating collections are to be properly looked after, that the additional building be undertaken at no distant date Cabinets in excess of what are now housed, cannot be added to the present structure the capacity of which is already limited by its dimensions and lighting arrangements

Additions to the library have been limited to serials in view of the necessity of conserving funds for the preparation of Signor Martelli's plates of Asiatic Palms This work will be finished during 1928-29, but library funds are likely to be taxed thereafter in the preparation of plates for Sir David Prain and Mr Burkill's monograph of the Asiatic Dioscoreas The orders issued last year restricting the number of plates required by Signor Martelli for the illustration of the palms have been cancelled, and work on them again proceeds in accordance with the author's views of what is necessary In the absence of special grants for work of this description, library development has to accommodate itself to the double purpose its fund serves

4 Publications.—No purely garden publications apart from seed lists of the Royal Botanic Garden and the Lloyd Botanic Garden were issued during the year Dr Cowan's Trees of Northern Bengal is in the press, and reference is elsewhere made to the progress of work on the Asiatic Palms

Besides garden publications proper, the Flora of the Chakaria Sunderbans, a survey publication by Dr Cowan, appeared during the year as Volume XI, No 2 of the Records

5 Finance.—Out of a total budget allotment of Rs 42,785 for staff and permanent establishment, Rs 42,593 were spent Rupees 800 were surrendered to Government from the allotment for clerical establishment and garden staff, but this was practically balanced by an excess expenditure of Rs 751 under "Pay of Officers—voted" The grant of Rs 31,000 under "Temporary Establishment" was practically all used up, and, after a surrender of Rs 5,200 from a grant of Rs 38,720 under other heads, there was an expenditure of Rs 32,913 and a saving of Rs 607 After a total surrender of Rs 6,000, there remained a small net saving of Rs 7 on the year's budget On the revenue side, the sale proceeds of surplus plants amounted to Rs 494

6 Staff.—The Officiating Superintendent, Dr J M Cowan, held charge till the undersigned returned from leave on the 20th November to resume his former duties Mr K P Biswas, Curator of the Herbarium, was confirmed in his appointment after a year's probation on the 1st February 1928

Mr W V North, substantive holder of the post of Curator of the garden was on long leave till the 19th July 1927 when he resigned his appointment Mr Mitra, who filled the leave vacancy, continued acting after Mr North's resignation and no permanent Curator has yet been appointed Messrs Jones and Joneja occupied the posts of Assistant Curator and first Overseer, respectively

The permanent Head Clerk, Babu Santosh Kumar Mitra, died while on long leave preparatory to retirement, and the officiating clerk Babu A T Bannerjee took charge substantively of the post from the 10th August 1927

In the at times difficult atmosphere of unrest and discontent amongst the labour force, all subordinate members of the staff and the clerical establishment have carried on their duties tactfully and faithfully

During the year gazetted rank was conferred on all members of the Provincial Gardeners' Service

CALCUTTA GARDENS.

Work in these gardens was again mainly of a routine character

The display of cold weather annuals, a feature of gardening calling for more attention in these than at Sibpur, was quite up to the standard of past years The proximity of a municipal water-supply system renders the attention beds require after planting out less of a drudgery here than it is at the Royal Botanic Garden

Some variety to the gardens was given by the formation of new flower beds, and the colour schemes seemed to draw the attention and admiration of visitors

A rearrangement of the North-East part of the Curzon Gardens has been decided on with a view to improving the rather desolate corner at present utilized by the Tramway Company New plots of trees and shrubs are to be put in and it is hoped to render less obtrusive the unsightly structures that have disfigured this corner of the maidan for some years While the condition of this corner detracts from the appearance of the Curzon Gardens it is outside the garden area proper, and the improvement is, therefore, not being carried out departmentally

In the Eden Garden some fifty new shrubs or trees suitable from the horticulturist's point of view were added during the year A rockery was rebuilt near the Pagoda lake and the lake itself, which has become badly silted up was partially excavated

Mr Mitra acted as Curator while Mr S N Basu was Assistant Curator and Mr Quasem Ali, Overseer, throughout the year The total allotment for the three Calcutta Gardens was Rs 23,372 of which Rs 23,020 were spent Passes for fishing in the garden tanks realized Rs 176

LLOYD BOTANIC GARDEN, DARJEELING.

With a mild winter during which no damage from snow or hail calls for report, and a rainfall better distributed than was the case in the plains, the year may be said to have been favourable for the garden

A part of the road from the south gate which had sunk in places was relaid and other roads given surface repairs Extensive repairs were executed to cold frames many of which were renewed and improved by the fixing of iron gauze as a protection against hail Other improvements involved attention to the garden fencing, the lavatories and the Summer House

Of seeds and bulbs received for annual plot purposes those from Europe gave good results, the Japanese supply did not do well Fifty-four young trees and shrubs were planted out in the garden to replace casualties or as species new to the collections

A list of seeds available from the garden or possible of collection in the district was prepared and issued to correspondents on the distribution list while the catalogue of garden plants is being revised and brought up to date

Some 7,773 packets of seeds, 2,481 plants seedlings and 45 tubers were distributed, and 247 packets and 77 plants received

Mr Leslie, who has held charge throughout the year, continues to maintain the very high standard of work set by his predecessor and that the gardens are attractive and appreciated may be inferred from the large number of visitors—42,021—willing to undertake the climb back that a visit to them entails A special feature of the Curator's work continues to be the collection of East Himalayan plants and seeds for correspondents in India and abroad, and the writer's thanks are due to Mr Leslie for the energetic manner in which he has tackled this somewhat specialized duty Extensive tours for purposes of collection were made and the requirements of botanical and horticultural institutions throughout the world as fully attended to as was possible

There was a net saving of Rs 477, mostly effected under purchase of seeds and implements, out of a total budget allotment of Rs 21,857

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1928-29.

[NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1926-27 the area under Sugarcane in Bengal has represented some 7.1 per cent of the total area under Sugarcane in British India.]

Character of the season.—During the time of planting and early period of growth, the weather was generally unfavourable owing to drought. Subsequently since the month of May, the conditions have been generally favourable although heavy showers have affected the prospects in Mymensingh and Bakarganj. The present outlook is reported to be promising on the whole.

Area planted.—The total area planted with sugarcane for the Province is reported to be 195,300 acres this year, against 208,800 and 208,900 acres reported in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT—CIVIL.

General Letter No 11, dated Calcutta, the 30th July 1928

From—H. C STORK, ESQ, I C S, Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, Appellate Side,

To—The District Judges in Bengal and Assam.

I am directed to address you on the subject of gentlemen who were enrolled as Vakils of this High Court before the 1st July 1928, and who practise wholly or ordinarily in the mufassal courts It appears that considerable doubt exists as to what their position is under the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926, which came into force in Bengal on 1st July 1928

2 I am to say that all the courts subordinate to this High Court should act for the present on the footing that the Indian Bar Councils Act does not abrogate the rights accruing to Vakils by virtue of section 4 of the Legal Practitioners Act, XVIII of 1879

3 Under the Indian Bar Councils Act, however, no legal practitioner has a right to practise in the High Court unless he gets himself enrolled as an Advocate of the High Court under that Act Any Vakil, therefore, who desires to retain that right, or to claim any of the advantages given to Advocates under the Indian Bar Councils Act, or to wear any robes that may eventually be prescribed for Advocates, is bound to get himself enrolled as an Advocate under that Act To do this, he should, in the first instance, pay the sum of Rs 10 required by the Act to the Chairman of the Bar Council of this High Court, who will furnish him with a receipt This receipt he should submit to the Registrar, Appellate Side, High Court, with evidence of his identity, that is to say, by giving the year and date (when known) of his enrolment as a Vakil, his name in full, with degrees and titles, if any He will then be enrolled as an Advocate under the Indian Bar Councils Act by the Registrar who will forward him a certificate to this effect

4 I am to request you to inform local Bar Associations and individual enquirers accordingly.

CIVIL.

POLITICAL.

Simla, the 7th August 1928.

No. D.-1752/28.—The Indian Cinematograph Committee, with Diwan Bahadur T. Rangachariar, C.I.E., as Chairman, was appointed by the Governor-General in Council under the orders contained in the Resolution of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. D.-4169Poll., dated the 6th October 1927. The Committee assembled for the first time at Simla on the 18th October 1927 and after settling its questionnaire reassembled at Bombay on the 6th November 1927. The Committee, after visiting nearly all the provinces and recording evidence from all, adjourned for a period on the 25th February 1928 owing to the claims of the session of the Central Legislature on the time of the majority of the members, and, after reassembling early in April, submitted its report to the Government of India on the 9th June 1928. Before coming to any conclusions on the recommendations made by the Committee, the Governor-General in Council considers that the report should be published for general information and he has been pleased to order accordingly.

2. The Governor-General in Council desires to take this opportunity of expressing his cordial appreciation of the services rendered by the Chairman and the members of the Committee. The numerous problems connected with the rise of the cinematograph industry have been subjected to close examination from every point of view, and the Governor-General in Council has no doubt that the Report of the Committee will prove of great value both as a comprehensive presentment of the conditions now obtaining in India and as material for the determination of future policy.

ORDER.—Ordered that the above Resolution be published in the Gazette of India and that a copy be communicated to all local Governments and Administrations and departments of the Government of India (except Legislative Department) for information.

In compliance with the provisions of clause (2) of rule 9 of Schedule XVIII of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, it is hereby notified for general information that in modification of the general order of the Corporation made under rule 9 of Schedule XVIII of Act III of 1923, on the 15th September 1926, and published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 17th March 1927 (Supplement portion—page 337), the Corporation of Calcutta at their meeting held on the 1st August 1928 passed, under rule 9 of the aforesaid Schedule, a general order applicable to the whole of the area within their jurisdiction, prohibiting the sinking of tube wells except on the following conditions:—

1. No person shall sink a tube well or allow a tube well to be sunk in any portion of Calcutta until the site has been sanctioned by the Health Officer to the Corporation, provided that if permission is neither granted nor refused within one month from the date of receipt of the application an appeal shall lie to the Health Standing Committee whose decision shall be final.

2. No tube well shall be sunk by any person or firm other than one duly licensed by the Corporation in that behalf.

3. Every application for permission to sink a tube well shall be submitted in duplicate and shall contain particulars as to the size, capacity and depth of the well, and the purpose for which the water will be used. It shall be accompanied by a plan in duplicate, drawn to a scale of 50 feet to the inch, showing the position of the tube well and the position of every building, tank or other structure within 50 feet so far as is known to the applicant and a detailed specification giving full particulars, specially of the method which the applicant proposes to adopt to prevent contamination of the well by the percolation of sub-soil.

4 Every tube well shall be sunk to a depth sufficient to allow the whole of its length of strainer embedded in a layer of sand below at least the third layer of impervious clay.

5 On completion of the tube well, and before the casing pipe is withdrawn, the space between the well pipe and bore hole shall be properly filled up with cement in the presence of an officer of the Corporation authorised in this behalf.

6. Every tube well shall be provided with an impervious platform at ground level sloping away from the tube, and of a radius of at least 8 feet.

7. Every person sinking a tube well shall keep a record and sample of the different layers he taps and submit the same to the Executive Engineer, Waterworks. The records and samples so furnished shall be treated as confidential.

8. No person shall use or allow to be used the water of a tube well for drinking or domestic purposes until the Health Officer of the Corporation has examined the water and certified that it is fit for such purposes.

9. Any tube well the water of which is in the opinion of the Health Officer of the Corporation at any time not bacteriologically safe may be immediately closed on receipt of a notice to that effect from the Health Officer under Schedule XVIII

10. Every tube well shall be open to inspection between sunrise and sunset by the Health Officer of the Corporation, the Executive Engineer, Waterworks, and such other persons as may be authorised in this behalf by either of them.

11 Any infringement of the above rules shall make the owner of the well or the person in charge of permitting the use of the well liable to punishment under clause 9 of Schedule XVIII.

The annual interest is Rs 37,929 which is banked with the Imperial Bank of India. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 14,640-15-10 and closed with one of Rs. 14,472-6-2.

III. Election to Vacancies, etc.—(1) The annual election of wards was held on Thursday, the 22nd December There were 7 actual vacancies, but, in accordance with a scheme drawn up by the Rev Father Vander Schueren, and approved by the Governors, so as to ensure a fixed number being elected each year irrespective of vacancies, 8 vacancies were advertised, and 57 applications were received These were considered by a sub-committee consisting of (1) the Ven'ble Archdeacon C. J. Grimes, (2) the Rev. Father F. Keyeux, S J., (3) the Rev. E. S. Johnson, and Mr Maurice Remfry; and on their recommendation eight girls were elected and two kept as reserves pending further vacancies Of these three were placed in the Loreto Convent, Entally, one in the Calcutta Girls' School, one in St. Paul's Mission Home, two in St. Thomas' School, Kidderpore, and one in the Loreto Convent, Asansol.

(2) Of the seven wards withdrawn during the year, five had attained the age-limit of 17, one was withdrawn by her mother, as her circumstances had improved, and sent to a day school, and another was removed as she was absent without report for more than six months.

(3) Of the girls who had been withdrawn during the previous year and in respect of whom reports have been received during the year under review, one is engaged in teaching at the school in which she was educated, and one has joined the Bengal Telephone Company.

(4) At the close of the year there were 107 wards on the rolls against 104 in the previous year. They were distributed as follows.—

Loreto Convent, Entally { 1st Boarding 33, 2nd Boarding 18 }	...	51
Calcutta Girls' High School	...	12
Pratt Memorial School	...	4
St. Thomas' School, Kidderpore	..	13
St Paul's Mission Home	...	7
Old Church Parochial Home	...	4
Loreto House	...	2
Loreto Convent, Asansol	...	11
St Mary s Convent, Naini Tal	...	1
Queen's Hill School, Darjeeling	...	2
Total	...	107

(5) The following table affords particulars as to the class and religion of the wards at the close of the year —

Class	Roman Catholic	Church of England	Non-conformist	Total
1. Orphans, or deserted by their parents ...	20	11	1	32
2 Fatherless or motherless, or deserted by their fathers or mothers ...	37	15	6	58
3. Those who have both parents alive ...	8	6	3	17
Total ...	65	32	10	107

(6) The health of the wards was on the whole satisfactory, but one ward who was in poor health was transferred to a school outside Calcutta and another was sent to the Meath Convalescent Home, Shillong, for a few months. Wards having defective sight were supplied with spectacles, and those whose teeth required attention received it.

IV. Education and Maintenance.—(1) The nature of the education given to the wards was that prescribed for Higher Grade Schools under the Code of Regulations for European Schools in Bengal, and in a few cases that for Secondary Schools

(2) The Governors are anxious that their wards should not be allowed to drift when they leave school and have accordingly asked the Visiting Governors to make, in consultation with the school authorities, some definite proposals, where this seemed desirable, in regard to the wards who have attained, or are about to attain, the age of 15, so that the last two years of their school life may be spent to the best advantage and be a preparation for earning a living One ward was, on the recommendation of the school authorities, transferred from a Secondary to a Higher Grade School as she was found to be unfit for secondary education.

(3) One ward was sent up for the Trinity College of Music (Theory and Practice) and passed with honours. Another was sent up for the School Certificate Examination and passed, while the third who was sent up for the Government Scholarship Examination, failed. Some wards also appeared at the Cambridge Local Examinations held in December 1927. The results are not yet known.

(4) Under the rules a ward is not ordinarily allowed to remain on the Fund after the age of 17, when an outfit grant of Rs. 100 is generally given on application, to enable her to make a start in life. In cases where wards wish to be trained as teachers and have the support of the school authorities, or where some special training is recommended, or are preparing for higher examinations, some extension of the period of benefit is generally allowed. Four wards were granted extensions during the year under review

(5) The monthly average cost for the education and maintenance of each ward amounted to Rs. 26-11 against Rs. 26-3-6 in the preceding year

(6) The amounts paid under the different heads of expenditure were as noted below —

		1927.			1926

V Inspection.—The Rev. Father F Keyeux, S J, was appointed Visiting Governor for the first half, and Mrs H Barton for the second half, of the year They visited the schools in Calcutta having Bruce wards Father Keyeux reports that the wards, in most cases, made on him the best impression, he found them in good health and in good spirits, with nice and open manners He pointed out that the want of punctuality on the part of parents or guardians to send the children back after the holidays was a matter of complaint nearly everywhere. The Governors have accordingly requested the school authorities to report at once the name of any ward who does not punctually return to school after the holidays Mrs Barton reports that the wards all appear to be contented and happy, well cared for and in the best of health It appeared to her that the girls were properly placed and that progress in study was satisfactory all round.

VI Meetings.—Four meetings were held during the year, and among the resolutions passed the following may be noted —

(a) That no ward elected be confirmed without a satisfactory medical certificate being submitted during the first year

(b) That schools be asked to send medical reports annually on all wards

(c) That no ward should be removed from school before the age of 17, without the previous permission of the Honorary Secretary in writing, and that the Visting Governor should first note upon the case

Honorary Secretary to the Governors

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 29th August 1928.

Summary.—During the week the rainfall has diminished, the fall being generally light throughout the province. The present weather is favourable to the growth of standing crops in the water-logged tracts of East and North Bengal The outlook of transplanted winter paddy is promising Normal sowings are expected for the province as a whole. Cutting, steeping and washing of jute are progressing in highland tracts ; elsewhere the operations are well advanced A satisfactory harvest of autumn paddy is anticipated. Distress prevails in parts of Birbhum, Bankura and Dinajpur where the number of persons employed on test-relief works is reported as 135, 1,466 and 200 respectively. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 0 18 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE POLICE ADMINISTRATION IN THE BENGAL PRESIDENCY FOR THE YEAR 1927.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

Police Department.

CALCUTTA, THE 29TH AUGUST 1928

RESOLUTION—No 4231 PL.

READ—

The Report on the Police Administration in the Bengal Presidency for the year 1927

Mr T C Simpson, C I E, held the post of Inspector-General of Police from the beginning of the year until the 11th April, when he was succeeded by Mr A E O'Sullivan who officiated for the rest of the year

Eastern Frontier Rifles.—The Battalion was maintained at full strength, and in spite of difficulties arising from the fact that detachments were frequently on duty in different parts of the province, the discipline and efficiency of the unit were highly satisfactory While pleased with the present state of the Battalion as shown by the good work done, and the small number of dismissals and desertions, the Governor in Council views with some concern the steady increase in the number of resignations during the last five years and will give careful consideration to any scheme for making service in the Battalion more attractive

Recruitment and Health of the Civil Police.—There was an increase of 149 in the permanent sanctioned strength of the subordinate police, a considerable portion of which was due to the strengthening of the town police in certain mufassal stations The Governor in Council trusts that this addition to the force will have as satisfactory results as those which the Inspector-General says have followed the strengthening of the town police in Barrackpore in 1926

The number of vacancies in the men's ranks was 405 which is less than 2 per cent of the sanctioned strength of these ranks and, therefore, not alarming taken by itself, but the casualties for the year indicate that all is not well with the force No fewer than 1,128 men resigned, while there were 121 desertions and 335 deaths Out of 484 men who retired on pension, or gratuity, no fewer than 355 were invalided Such heavy casualties react seriously on the efficiency of the force because they have to be made good by recruiting large numbers of men who remain ineffective for at least the training period of six months The ineffective period, in fact, is generally longer, as the number of men who can be trained at Sardah is limited to 700 at a time, or 1,400 in the course of a year, whereas in 1927 the number of recruits was over 2,700 Thus, in addition to men undergoing the recruits' training course at Sardah, there were large numbers of untrained men in the districts As explained by the Inspector-General, untrained men including men at Sardah are not available to take the place of trained men on leave, with the result that leave had to be restricted mainly to men for whom it was necessary on medical grounds The bad effect of this on the contentment and health of the force needs no elaboration. Convinced by the evidence provided by the figures of casualties that the conditions of service in the police were unsatisfactory, Government decided to ask the Legislative Council for a grant to make it possible to raise the pay of constables from the present scale of Rs 16—20 per month to one of Rs 20—24 which, however, was refused The demand was restored by His Excellency the Governor in exercise of his powers under section 72 D of the Government of India Act.

The Governor in Council has in recent years commented on the effect of bad housing conditions on the health of the force He, therefore, regrets that inadequacy of funds made it impossible to make any great improvement in this direction, but he trusts that as new type plans of less expensive buildings have now been prepared, progress will be made with a comprehensive building scheme to be financed out of loans His Excellency in Council observes that in the United Provinces, with the aid of a large loan from the Government of India, an extensive building programme has been drawn up, and trusts that it will be possible to take similar action in Bengal where conditions of service are probably much more trying than in the United Provinces.

Discipline.—Although there was an increase in the number of men judicially and departmentally punished as compared with 1926, the Governor in Council is pleased to read that there was a big decrease in the number of major departmental punishments and also in the number of criminal charges preferred by private individuals against the police No fewer than 48 per cent of such of these cases, as were disposed of, were summarily dismissed, 40 per cent ended in acquittal, while only 11 6 per cent ended in conviction, these results clearly indicating the danger to which Police officers are exposed from maliciously false charges The counter-case is a common form of tactics in private criminal litigation in Bengal, and it is evident that such tactics are frequently resorted to by persons against whom police officers have to proceed in the course of their investigation The Governor in Council shares the Inspector-General's regret that action was taken against only a very small proportion of persons bringing false complaints against police officers, and agrees with him that the prosecution of such complainants would go far to reduce their number The results of civil suits instituted by private individuals against police officers were also satisfactory from the point of view of the police, only one case out of seventeen disposed of in the course of the year being decided against the defending officer

Crime Statistics.—As compared with 1926, there was an increase in the total number of cognizable cases reported, but the figures are considerably less than those of 1924 and 1925 This remark applies also to the figures of true burglary and theft cases, but dacoities show a big increase as compared with 1925 and 1926, though they are still well below the number reported in 1924 The Governor in Council agrees with the Inspector-General that bad economic conditions are largely responsible for the increase

His Excellency in Council notes with satisfaction the decrease since 1924 in the number of reported cases of crime on the railways, especially on the East Indian Railway where the figures have fallen from 6 273 to 1,876

The percentage of cases brought to trial was practically the same as in 1926, and among such cases there was a slight improvement in the percentage of convictions, Bengal again comparing favourably in this respect with other provinces among which only Madras shows better figures The Governor in Council has read with interest the Inspector-General's remarks on the work of District Detective Departments, and is prepared to consider proposals for the establishment of such departments in some of the districts which they do not now exist

The Inspector-General has again brought to notice the delay in the disposal of cases brought to trial Since 1924 there has been a steady decline in the percentage of cases in which there have been only two remands, and there has also been a considerable increase in the actual numer of cases remanded more than six times The Governor in Council is satisfied that one of the reasons for this unsatisfactory state of affairs is that the magisterial staff is inadequate, and has decided that the number of Magistrates should be increased if funds can be made available for the purpose He has also directed Commissioners of Divisions to satisfy themselves that orders which have been issued with a view to minimise delay are duly observed by District Magistrates and Subdivisional Officers, while police officers have been directed to eliminate, as far as possible, such causes of delay as the undue prolongation of investigation after the arrest of suspected persons, the production of an unnecessarily large volume of evidence, and the failure to secure the attendance in Court of prosecution witnesses

The Inspector-General has given instances of inadequate sentences and the inappropriate use of section 562 of the Criminal Procedure Code under which certain classes of convicted offenders may be released on giving security for their good behaviour The Governor in Council desires the Inspector-General to impress on local police officers the necessity of bringing such cases to the notice of District Magistrates without delay as they occur

Rural Police.—The Governor in Council notes with regret the fact that the Inspector-General again finds it necessary to remark on the unsatisfactory state of the rural police, but hopes that as union boards acquire experience and grow more efficient, the position will improve He trusts that in his future reports the Inspector General will be able to devote some space to an examination of the extent to which these bodies have shown a real interest in the prevention and detection of crime and have co-operated with the regular police in such work

Revolutionary Crime.—There was only one overt criminal act of a political character in the course of the year, and Messrs Armstrong and Lowman are to be congratulated on the success of their department in preventing a recurrence of the outrages which were so prevalent some years ago, but in view of the persistent attempts on the part of certain persons both in India and abroad to disseminate propaganda of a revolutionary character, the Governor in Council is convinced that constant vigilance on the part of the Intelligence Branch is essential

His Excellency in Council has read with pleasure the list of officers whose services have been specially brought to his notice and thanks Mr O'Sullivan and all ranks of the force for the good work which they have done under conditions which are not always encouraging

Order — Ordered that copies of the resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police, Bengal, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, and all Commissioners of Divisions, for information

Ordered also that the resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette

W S HOPKYNS,

Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal (Offg.).

NOTIFICATION.

The following subject is selected for the essay for the Jogendrachandra Ghosh's Research Prize in Comparative Indian Law for the year 1928 :—

"Law of Suretyship under the Smritis and liability to pay debts by Sureties, as modified by Case Law"

The attention of the intending candidates is expressly called to the following conditions laid down for the prize :—

(i) By Comparative Indian Law shall be meant the Hindu Smriti Sastra called "Byabaharkhanda" and a comparison of the standard Sanskrit authorities on the subject with British Indian Law as contained in Parliamentary Statutes, Regulations and Acts of the Indian Legislative Council, and the law as laid down in leading cases. The study, which it shall be the object of the prize to encourage, is the history of the Hindu Smriti Sastra as it existed at and from the time when India came under British Rule and how and to what extent it has been altered under British influence, regard being had not only to the existing Statutes, Regulations and Acts, but also to those which, having been in operation for a time, have now been repealed or become obsolete and regard being also had not only to the existing leading cases, but to cases which were considered leading at one time, but have now been overruled, and how and to what extent such alteration has affected Hindu society.

(ii) The essay may deal with the whole of the Indian Comparative Law as before defined or with part or parts thereof, but in no case shall an essay be entitled to competition which in any way attacks the religious belief, usages or institution of His Majesty's subject

(iii) By Adhyapak shall be meant scholars of the Smriti Sastra, students of the Smriti in the Government Sanskrit College in Calcutta, and in the tols of indigenous Brahmanical schools which send in candidates for the title examinations held in that College, and students in other similar institutions in India.

(iv) Every candidate for the prize shall be required to indicate generally in a preface to his thesis, and specially in notes, the sources from which his information is taken, the extent to which he has availed himself of the work of others, and the portion of the thesis which he claims as original He shall further be required to state whether his research has been conducted independently, under advice or in co-operation with others, and in what respects his investigations appear to him to tend to the advancement of knowledge.

(v) Successful candidates shall be required to publish their essays, and if necessary they shall receive help from the University for the purpose

(vi) The essay or essays shall be written either in English or in Bengali, but if any competitor sends in an essay in vernacular language other than Bengali he shall be bound to furnish English translation thereof

RESOLUTION.

TARIFFS.

Simla, the 1st September 1928.

No. 235-T. (24).—1. The report of the Tariff Board regarding the grant of protection to the match industry was published for general information this morning.

2. The Government of India accept the finding of the Board that the match industry in India fulfils the three conditions laid down by the Indian Fiscal Commission and should be protected. The Board recommend that the present duty of Rs 1-8-0 per gross should be maintained and converted into a protective duty The Government of India accept this recommendation and propose to introduce legislation during the coming session to give effect to this decision

3. The Government of India agree with the Tariff Board that no limit should be fixed for the period of protection They do not contemplate, however, the retention of the duty at the high rate of Rs 1-8 0 per gross for any long period. This high rate of duty is necessitated mainly by the existence of an international combine with large financial resources and controlling the manufacture and sale of matches in a large part of the world, and partly by the preference displayed by the consumer for the imported article, a preference which should gradually diminish as the match made in India establishes its reputation. If it became evident that the Swedish Match Company had definitely adopted a policy of supplying the Indian market by matches made in India, and if it appeared that the prejudice against the Indian match, similar in quality to the imported match, was disappearing the amount of duty would be open to reconsideration.

4. The Tariff Board consider that the manufacture of matches is not a fit industry for development on cottage lines, and cannot recommend any special measures for the encouragement of cottage match factories The Government of India accept this finding.

5. The Tariff Board recognise that in certain circumstances an excise duty may properly be levied on matches manufactured in India, and the Government of India agree that conditions may arise rendering the imposition of such a duty desirable They do not, however, contemplate the imposition of an excise duty at present.

6. The Government of India accept the finding of the Board that in present circumstances no action is called for against the Swedish Match Company on the ground of unfair competition. The Board recommend that, should developments indicate that the Company is acquiring undue control to the detriment of the Indian industry, Government should take steps to safeguard this industry. The Government of India consider that if it appeared probable that the Swedish Match Company would obtain a monopoly of the manufacture and sale of matches in India, this would create a new situation which would necessitate a re-examination of the position.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be communicated to all Local Governments and Administrations, all departments of the Government of India, the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics, the Central Board of Revenue. the Indian Trade Commissioner in London, the Secretary, Tariff Board, the Secretary to the High Commissioner for India, London, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner in India and the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner in India
